Sermonette By Area Ministers

Someone has said:

"Four things a man must learn to do
If he would make his record true.
To think without confusion clearly,
To act from honest motives purely,
To love his fellow man sincerely,
To trust in God and man securely.'

"Think without confusion clearly." "Think" is a word which is constantly before us. Where responsibility is great, it is imperative to think before acting. Thinking is mind in action. The wonderful story of human accomplishment from simple beginnings to the vast developments of the modern day is the story of the thinking mind in its effort to adopt itself to the requirements of human necessities and existence. The greater the power to think, the greater will be the control of every action of human body. You say: "How can I control my thinking? How can I think properly? How can I stop thinking any particular thought or change from the thinking of one thought to another?" That is something which every individual must attend to himself. The power of such control will depend largely upon you and the effort you have put forth to think.

"Act from honest motives purely." Motive signifies that by which one is actuated in his thought, word, or deed. There are motives which revolve around self growth toward an ideal, the motive to know and the pleasure of activity. Certain motives forget self in the interest of others. Such would do good to others and love and serve God, to His glory and for the peace, progress and happiness of humanity. They say with St. Paul, "I live, yet not I, for what I now live in the flesh I live to the glory of God who loved me and gave Himself for me."

There are also dishonest motives, but we are dealing here with so much that is positive that we will not take time for the negative. Act from honest motives.

"Love your fellowman sincerely." St. Paul, in the thirteenth chapter of first Corinthians says: "Love suffereth long and is kind, love envieth not, vaunteth not itself, doth not behave itself unseemly, seeketh not her own, is not easily provoked, thinketh no evil, rejoiceth not in iniquity, but rejoiceth in truth." When all other things have failed and gone down in defeat, love will stand supreme over all the powers of darkness. "Love your fellowman sincerely." Why? Love is peace, love is happiness, love is success, love is light, love is God. God is love. And if God is reflected in us we will sustain not only the right relation to God but also the right relations to each other.

"Trust in God and heaven securely." One of the greatest treasures in all the world is to be able to trust a friend. There is yet a greater trust, that is the trust in God, that as a father careth for his children, so God will care for them that believe and trust in Him. There can be no unbelief.

"Simply trusting every day. Trusting through a stormy way;
Even when my faith is small, Trusting Jesus, that is all.
Trusting as the moments fly, Trusting as the days go by,
Trusting Him whate'er befall, Trusting Jesus, that is all."

Randall Prince, Pastor, Bethel Methodist Church, Mountain Lake Park, Maryland.

Congressional Viewpoint

Sen. John Marshall Butler

A Merchant Navy—Why

George Washington publicly proclaimed the necessity for ships for our foreign trade in 1790. It is a memorable fact that the first Congress of the United States enacted vigorous provisions for the protection of the American merchant marine. From these beginnings has sprung our merchant navy whose sinews through the years have been alternatingly strong or weak—a curious phenomenon which like the chameleon has changed from proper public support to, at times, callous indifference. From these beginnings has evolved a national maritime policy whose objectives President Herbert Hoover expressed this way in 1923: ". . . we must have our own ships for the protection of our foreign trade . . . we must have them as an auxiliary to our national defense." Expanded trade and commerce, no less than security and survival, are inseparably linked with a great merchant marine.

From London in 1944 General Eisenhower said: "We were caught flatfooted in both world wars because we relied too much upon foreign owned and operated shipping . . . America's industrial prosperity and military security both demand that we maintain a privately operated merchant marine adequate in size and of modern design to insure that our lines of supply for either peace or war will be safe." More recently, General Twining, Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, observed that in a general war the U. S. merchant fleet "might well be the one source of strength of the Free World which would plunk victory from chaos."

Yet, there are still those who are most vocal in their lament that in the event of an emergency "the United States obviously could not rely on its own ships to meet more than a tiny fraction of its needs." These critics denounce the need for a merchant navy and base their argument on a single word—subsidy. However, it is regrettable, but true, that foreign commerce must today be conducted in a world not of natural competition but of subsidized competition.

Authorities have calculated that by taking into account recapture provisions and ship sales, peculiar only to maritime subsidies, these programs during the last 17 years have cost our Government an average of approximately $57 million annually. Other experts contend that the annual tax income from the investment in these cooperative programs actually results in a net profit to the Federal Government. Against the background of the wholly subsidized operations of our armed forces, this merchant marine partnership between private enterprise and the Government is a sound arrangement, a wise investment of the taxpayers' fund.

Valley Needs Spurt To Defeat Huskies

Valley High School's Black Knights had to stage a garrison finish Tuesday night to register a come-from-behind 59 to 47 victory over scrappy Northern High School Huskies in the regular season finals for both teams staged at Accident.

Training 40 to 37 going into the final period Valley outscored the Huskies 13 to 7 to gain the decision. Northern outscored the Knights 19 to 18 from the field but blew the decision in the final heat by muffing scoring opportunities at the foul line. Northern also led the quarter 12 to 8 and at intermission 23 to 19.

Valley ended its season with a 19-2 record, losing only to Allegany and Southern. Northern closed the season with 11 wins and seven defeats.

Valley's big gun was George Lauder who had a total of 24 points on eight field goals and eight fouls. Valley got 14 out of 19 fouls altogether. Dick Spear had 17 points on six field goals and five out of six foul shots. Others scoring for Northern were Strauss 6, Patton 9, Hetrick 9, McGraw 6.

Valley High's Jayvees defeated Northern in the preliminary game 41-30.

The Huskies will meet Valley again on Friday, March 6, in the district class "B" tournament at Hagerstown.

PONTIAC NAMED CAR · OF · THE · YEAR

"Pontiac with wide-track wheels is the best combination of ride... handling... performance and styling of any '59 car"—The Editors of Motor Trend Magazine

In making its annual automotive award, the staff of Motor Trend Magazine, leading automotive publication, tests and evaluates all new cars. Here are quotations from the April 1959 issue:

"The stability of the 1959 Pontiac is the outstanding automotive advance of the year. Everyone considering a new car should experience it."

"It's the best balanced passenger car in America. We firmly believe that in moving the wheels farther apart, to develop the widest stance of any American car, Pontiac has created an entirely new sense of balance and handling security."

"Pontiac's lines are clean, simple and beautiful. It has a fleet look, a trim appearance. The wide wheel design contributes greatly to its over-all integrated styling. Any comparison with narrower track cars readily shows the difference."

"For the economy-minded, an efficient new engine. The new 420E Tempest economy engine offers remarkable performance along with exceptionally high mileage while operating on regular grade gasoline."

"Pontiac is again tops in performance, based on our extensive road testing. Acceleration is outstanding, yet the engine is unusually quiet and smooth."

Your nearest Pontiac dealer will be glad to let you road-test this award-winning automobile on your own. You'll see why it's the year's most talked-about car!

THE ONLY CAR WITH WIDE-TRACK WHEELS

Wheels are two inches farther apart. This widens only the stance, not the car. Pontiac takes a better grip on the road, hugs tighter on curves and corners. Sway and lean disappear, ride is smoother, balanced, steadier. Handling is easier. You drive with a new confidence, a confirming security. Pontiac gives you roadability no "narrow gauge" car can offer.

Will Not Mix - - - - -

Time and time again it has been demonstrated that church and state do not mix. That fact should be well established by this time, but apparently it is not. There has been introduced in the legislature a bill that, if passed, would permit children attending private and parochial schools to ride buses provided by the Garrett Comty Board of Education for public schools.

If such a bill passes the legislature and is signed into law by the governor, the entire additional expense involved must be borne by the county. The state will not contribute one cent.

At the present time the state provides Garrett county with some $350,000 for transportation of school children. Transportation cost in this county is much higher than any other county in the state due to sparseness of population and size of the area. But if parochial children are added to already overcrowded buses, causing the need for additional ones, then the county must purchase them and pay for the cost of operation. It has been estimated that the cost of transportation of county pupils runs $75 per individual. Lowest estimate on such additional hauling of parochial children is some $10,000 or two to three cents additional on the county tax rate. The county would be forced to levy to raise the entire amount.

There are public schools, supported by the county and state. If Protestant or Catholic churches want parochial schools, that is perfectly within their right, but they should not expect the public to pay for them, or their operation.

Once Church and State get into the school picture together, the results might work both ways. If state has authority to regulate school bus transportation of parochial schools, it could easily extend into regulating the operation of the schools themselves. It might regulate what to teach. It might even prohibit teaching of religion as is done in many public schools today.

If such a bill became law it might easily result in increasing demands upon the public schools to transport parochial children from any point in the county to any other point in the county. Expenditures could easily mount beyond control and the county would have to levy for every penny. Not one cent additional would be forthcoming from the state.

A very close study of this bill certainly should be made and all facts brought to light. If this is done we feel confident that people will realize that all parochial schools, be they Lutheran, Catholic, Episcopalian or any other denomination should be excluded from using public school funds for transportation of private groups.

Cancel Ski Tourney

The second annual Maryland State Ski championship tournament, which was first postponed from February to March 7 and 8, will have to be cancelled for this year as a result of weather conditions, it was announced this morning by Helmuth Heise. There was only a faint hope that the blizzard heading this way from the west would amount to anything by the time it reached Western Maryland.

The tournament was being sponsored by the Western Maryland Ski club.

This week-end was considered the last possible time it could be held and as a result the championships will have to go until next year.

Mental Health Discussed At Annual Dinner Meeting

The Mental Health Association of Maryland held its annual dinner meeting at Carvel Hall, Annapolis, on Tuesday, February 24.

In attendance were Dr. E. I. Baumgartner, of Oakland; Senator B. I. Gonder and House of Delegates members Leslie Savage, Elza Bray and Elbert Buckel. The legislators were guests of the Garrett County Mental Health association.

The association is having the budget for mental health restored. The legislature cut the allotment. In response to a telephone conversation between Senator Gonder and Mrs. Paul B. Naylor, president of the Garrett County Mental Health association, the legislator assured her he would do all he could for the good of the mentally ill.

The idea of a recreation area was conceived several months by Dr. Kammons. Its purpose is to give young people of the area a place to congregate.

Plans Arrive For Loch Lynn School

The Board of Education received plans and specifications yesterday for the proposed addition to the Loch Lynn school. They came from Altman and Altman, architects, Uniontown, Pa.

Plans call for two additional classrooms with full basement to be used as an all-purpose room, inside stairway to basement, small library room and storage room.

Deadline for completion of this project has been tentatively set for October 1, with the possibility that it might be completed by the opening of school in September. Bids are to be opened March 30.

Other Work Planned

Work on the new general education room for the Center street school will soon be under way, according to Willard L. Hawkins, county superintendent. This project is scheduled for completion by the opening of school in September and is under contract to William A. Shirer.

Work also is to begin soon on the two-room addition for the Yoder school, also scheduled for completion by September 1. Mr. Hawkins said over ninety pupils are expected to enroll at Yoder in September and the additional rooms are necessary to take care of the increasing enrollment. Yoder will be a three-teacher school next year and the need for the fourth teacher is anticipated within the next few years.

Yoder school patrons will provide labor for this project and materials are not expected to cost in excess of $10,000 to $12,000. Hawkins explained that money for this project was received from the State incentive fund for school construction.

Plans also call for numerous improvements to he made by the maintenance department during the summer.

Projects listed include a closed corridor between shop building and main building at Northern; storage room for shops at Northern; improvements to music rooms at Northern, elevated platforms, acoustical treatment; painting and repairs at Accident; ramp for ashes removal at Friendsville; painting exterior and interior at Loch Lynn; painting exterior and interior at Swanton; painting exterior of annex building; improvements to Center street cafeteria; painting and minor repairs at several other schools.

To Conduct Tour of Farm Glade Land

A sub-committee of the State Rural Development Committee headed by Dean Gordon Cairns will come to the county March 11 for a fact-finding tour of glade land on farms. Other members of the group are Dr. Robert Green, Head, Agricultural Engineering Department; Edward Davis, Soil Conservation Service; Parran, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee; Chester Kearns, Chief of Game Management, Game and Inland Fish Commission; and Mr. Bevard, Game and Inland Fish Commission.

Four County Men At State Conference

Four persons from Garrett county were among the 300 or more school administrators from the state attending the annual conference of public high school principals of the state held Monday and Tuesday in Baltimore.

"Moving Ahead in Education," was the theme with participants focusing their discussions on goals of public education in a democratic society and the trends to meet the changing needs of high school youth. There was special emphasis on the best means of identifying the needs of high school youth as a practical basis upon which to formulate a sound educational program.

Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower of Johns Hopkins university, discussed the country's relations with South America at a dinner meeting. The conference concluded with an evaluation of its work presented by Dr. D. W. Zimmerman, assistant state superintendent of schools.

Attending from the county were Willard L. Hawkins, county superintendent of schools; Kenneth Johns, principal of Southern High; Paul Muha, principal of Northern High; and Harold Phillips, principal of the Kitzmiller school.

Mr. Hawkins also attended a meeting of all county superintendents on Monday afternoon at 2:30 called by the State Superintendent, which dealt with salary legislation.

Co-Sponsors Conservation Measure In State Senate

Senator Bernard I. Gonder is co-sponsor of a bill introduced in the legislature last week to set up a program of flood prevention and conservation of water supplies throughout Maryland.

The bill would authorize each county and Baltimore City to set up a public watershed association to regulate the disposal of water.

Other sponsors are Senator James of Harford county, Snyder of Washington county and Weant of Carroll county.

Farm Youths Win High State Honors In Turkey Exhibit

Four Garrett County youths made top placings at the Maryland Junior Dressed Turkey Exhibit held in connection with the Maryland Turkey Producers' Annual Meeting at Annapolis last week.

Harold Schmidt, Accident, placed first for the second straight year in the F. F. A. Contest. Dwight Glotfelty of Oakland placed second. Thomas Magruder III, Westernport, placed second in the 4-H class with Ronald Beitzel, Bittinger, coming in third. First place in the 4-H class went to Robert Crouse of Harford County. Grand Champion award went to Howard Landenklos of Baltimore County.

The exhibit was divided into four sections, 4-H, FFA, Champion turkey tom and hen. The other County placings as announced at the banquet: Champion Tom section—third, Ronald Beitzel, fourth, Harold Schmidt; Champion Hen section—second, Harold Schmidt, fourth, Ronald Beitzel.

Factors taken into consideration in determining the score included record book, mortality, feed conversion, weight, cost per pound, and dressed bird sample.

Harold Schmidt told about "My F.F.A. Turkey Project" on the program of the Maryland Turkey Producers' Association. Interest in raising turkeys," he said, "was stimulated by my uncle and grandmother with whom I make my home. Lawrence Faith, my Vo. Ag. teacher at Northern High School was also instrumental in my selection of this project." He pointed out that "Feeding efficiency is vital in growing turkeys, that is, how many pounds of feed are used to produce a pound of turkey. The pounds of feed used last year was 4.36 pounds as compared to four pounds this year. I must do even better in the future."

The 4-H and F.F.A. delegation —Harold Schmidt, Ronald Beitzel, Ralph Buckel, Jr., Larry Faith, and Rankin Lusby visited various spots in Annapolis as guests of Delegate Elbert Buckel, 4-H local leader of Bittinger. This included a tour of the Naval Academy and State Capitol plus the opportunity to see State Government in action by attending sessions of the House of Delegates and the Judiciary Committee and meeting the other members of the Garrett Legislative delegation.

This trip was made possible by the Garrett County Turkey Growers as part of their efforts and interest to provide opportunities for young people to learn economical turkey production.

School Bulletin Is Distributed Locally

The third edition of "Our Garrett County Schools," published under the authorization of the Garrett County Board of Education, was distributed this week throughout the schools of the county. The board aims to have at least one copy of the publication to reach every home in the county from which there are children in school

Over 4,000 copies of the paper were distributed. Copies have also been provided for service club members and many individuals who do not have children in school. The publication contains pertinent information about the chools that parents should have if they are to he informed as to the growth and progress of the county school system, according to Willard L. Hawkins, County Superintendent.

The third edition of the publication is an eight-page paper containing thirteen pictures that show the constant improvement being made in the physical plants as well as the kind of education children are receiving with these plants.

Is Winter Over?

Is winter over? That question was in the minds of a number of people who saw a flock of 75 to 100 wild geese flying over Oakland on Monday, heading north. Carl Frazee reported seeing this flock.

From one half to one inch of snow fell on Tuesday to end a varied week-end. There was rain and fog on Sunday with clearing skies and moderate weather on Monday. Nights have been cold and days mostly fair and warmish.

The United States may have developed a lithium bomb—a cheap method of producing a walloping hydrogen explosion.

Running for the offices this year are Dr. E. I. Baumgartner, incumbent; Emory W. Adams, Sr., Howard J. White, Harry A. Hinehaugh, Dr. H. R. Gibson, O. T. Graser, and Doyle E. Biser.

Mayor Russell L. Smith has another year to serve as do three councilmen, Henry W. McComas, John Wolf and Robert E. Maroney. However, Maroney was recently appointed as trial magistrate, to succeed Boyd Sanders, Sr., on May 1, and will be compelled to resign from the council prior to taking office. His successor will be named by the council.

Mrs. Berylдine S. Stanton is unopposed for re-election as town treasurer.

Some 650 persons are eligible to vote.

The necessary machinery for conducting the election was arranged a month ago by the city council in regular session.

Mrs. Joseph Gonder and Mrs. A. G. Hesen will be register judges, while Miss Elizabeth West and Miss Floss Shaffer will he machine judges. The polls will be open from 9 o'clock a. m., until 6 o'clock p. m., in the city council chamber. Voting machines will be used.

Grows Prize Orchid

Mrs. Florence Maurer, Oakland, has been named winner of the Orchid - of - the Month contest for March, conducted by Tropical Flowerland, a monthly orchid magazine published in Los Angeles, California

A picture of Mrs. Maurer and her Brasso-Cattleya The Globe, appeared in the March issue just a few days ago.

The prize winning plant bloomed during "below zero weather, and in a blinding snow storm.' The plant, of course, was being grown indoors, at the home of Mrs. Maurer and her sister, Mrs. A. C. Stanton, on North Third street.

The flower had been in bloom for about two weeks when the picture was taken. Mrs. Maurer wrote: "Others of my plants have also flowered and the plant I received with your Course is in bud. The douhts I had when I decided to grow orchids are gone and I find their care quite simple. It is fascinating to watch the development of these plants. They are a source of much pleasure and they bring relaxation from daily tensions.' The Globe is one of the largest Cattleyas, with blooms often as large as ten inches across.

Mrs. Maurer has a number of orchids and other plants growing at her home and devotes much of her spare time to flower gardening.

Promotion Bill Introduced Tuesday

The bill to allow the County Commissioners to appropriate money for industrial promotion was proposed in the legislature on Tuesday. It was indicated last week that such legislation would be forthcoming.

The county's delegates and senator introduced bills in the legislature to authorize the County Commissioners to hire an industrial engineer. He would be allowed an annual salary and expenses of $25,000 "to publicize the merits of Garrett County for all types of industry and to aid industry in locating in Garrett county."

It also would be his job to help those industries already located in the county.

In addition, the commissioners would appoint five members of a committee on economic development to assist the engineer. The committeemen would receive no salary.

Other Bills Introduced

Children attending private and parochial school also would be allowed to ride busses provided by the Board of Education under another bill introduced by Del. Elbert Buckel. Private school children would have to use bus routes already established.

The Garrett delegation also wants to raise the amount of surplus money which its county commissioners may accumulate from year to year for a working fund. The maximum now is $15,000 and the new limit would be $100,000.

Delegate Buckel in another bill would leave it up to the discretion of the County Commissioners whether it wanted to appropriate any money for the improvement and maintenance of streets in the town of Friendsville.

Burglary Wave Still Unsolved In Oakland Area

Business Places, Schools And Board Of Education Office Entered

There was still no solution this morning to the series of breaking and enterings, all of which appear related and which have taken place over the past three or four weeks.

The latest in the series, according to Sheriff James E. Frantz, included entrance to three business places in Oakland and a tavern at Four Oaks on U. S. route 50. Several hundred dollars were reported stolen as were a number of weapons including pistols, a rifle and shotgun.

The Oakland Lumber company apparently was the first place burglarized, since a wrecking bar taken from there was discovered at another Oakland business place, Carroll's Sport Shop, on Second street.

The culprits were unsuccessful in an attempt to force open a safe at the lumber company office. It was believed that the wrecking bar was the only thing taken.

Several hundred dollars in cash and three .22 calibre pistols were taken from the Sport Shop. Sheriff Frantz said the entry was discovered Sunday morning when the proprietor of an adjoining establishment noticed the door had been forced.

County authorities also were notified Sunday morning of the Four Oaks tavern entry. Two weapons, a shotgun and rifle, and approximately $25 in cash were reported taken along with the cash register.

Entry of the Eastern States cooperative establishment at the east edge of town was discovered Monday morning but it was thought all four entries occurred late Saturday night or early Sunday. Baity Ridder, manager, said nothing appeared to be taken and that damage was confined to a broken door.

Last Thursday night entries were made at the Dennett Road school, the Board of Education offices and the Loch Lynn School.

Some food was stolen and eaten at both schools and extensive damage to classrooms and doors. They forced a door at the Board of Education offices and rummaged through drawers.

Last week they entered the Skipper filling station on route 219 and stole candy and cigarettes.

Previous to that time there had been entries at the Loch Lynn Service Station, Gibson's Auto Wrecking office, Grange Supply Center, Martin's Store in Mt. Lake Park, Parson's Garage, Gregory's Restaurant, the H. Weber and Sons company office, Chimney Corner, and attempts to break into the Oakland Lumber company, and the A. D. Naylor and Company.

Sheriff Frantz said several suspects had been picked up for questioning and later released.

Assisting the sheriff's office in the investigation are Maryland State Police and Oakland authorities.

Is Your Name CARR?

Carr has been used widely as a surname in Great Britain and Ireland for many centuries. Equivalent of Kerr, it is of local origin and admits of a few derivations. Thus, according to some authorities on nomenclature, it stems from the Gaelic "caer", which means "castle or fortress", and therefore was often bestowed in mediaeval times upon those living in or adjacent such places. It is said also that Carr is obtained from the Norse "kerr" denoting a "swamp or marshy land", and still another source of the name may be the Gaelic "corr" which signifies "round hill". It should be noted that the Carrs were residents in Galway County, Ireland as far back as the 14th century and that the coat-of-arms of this branch of the family bore the motto "All for the Right."

Thomas Carr (1758-1820) served as a colonel of Virginia troops during the Revolutionary War.

The first census of the United States, taken in 1790, has twenty-two listings of persons by the name of Carr who were residents of Maryland and heads of families at that time.

Thomas Carr was a commissioner of Oakland in 1879 and 1880.

"The Carr Family Record", a genealogy dating back to Benjamin Carr who was born in London, England in 1592, was compiled and published in 1894 by Edson Carr of Rockford, Illinois. Two of Benjamin's sons, Caleb and Robert, sailed from London to America in 1635 and settled in Newport, Rhode Island where they became leaders of the colony. Caleb Carr was the father of eleven children, and Robert Carr was the father of six children.

Elias Carr (1839-1900) was governor of North Carolina.

Clarence Alfred Carr (1858-1930) was rear admiral, U. S. Navy.

William John Carr (1862-1917) was justice, Supreme Court of New York.

Robert Kenneth Carr is professor of political science at Dartmouth College.

Harold John Carr is vice-president, Owens-Illinois Glass company, Toledo, Ohio.

Leland Walker Carr is justice, Supreme Court of Michigan.

BY GEORGE PECK

An Overloaded Stomach

EDITOR'S NOTE: George Peck is President of the Laymen's National Committee, sponsor of National Sunday School and Bible Weeks.

Some years ago this columnist was highly amused at a revelation made to him by a candy manufacturer. This had to do with how he had solved the problem of having his employees eat up all the profits. Here is his formula, reconstructed as nearly as I can recall, given in his own words:

"You know, the average woman has a sweet tooth. So does the average man, but as all of my employees on the production line are women, my problem was to cut down on the amount of candy they ate each working day. Of course, they only ate the candies made of the most expensive ingredients. At the most conservative estimate, they were eating into my profits to the tune of many thousands of dollars per year.

"Then came the inspiration that lead eventually to cutting down this "employee-eating" loss by at least 90 percent. As a new girl was hired, I told her that one of the nice things about her job was that she could eat all of the chocolates her little heart desired. Now, in most cases, the new hand never having had her fill of chocolates, proceeded to fill her stomach past its handling capacity. The result: a little lady with a badly upset digestive system and a revulsion to candy that sometimes lasted for years. In my shop today there are many girls who haven't eaten one single piece of candy since their first day on the job."

Somehow, recently in looking over the statistics of the number of American people presently on public payrolls, this story told by the candy manufacturer came back to mind. It is true that there are many government employees, dedicated to public service, but just as in the case of the new candy factory employee it is true that you can have too much of even a good thing. Today, we have so many men and women working for government that our economic digestive system is badly upset. What makes it even worse is that the patient's condition threatens to become worse. The upward trend of Americans on public payrolls shows no signs of leveling off, despite the fact, that one of every eight employed Americans is now employed by government.

Government employment — federal, state and local—has risen 660 percent since 1900. During that same period non-government employment has risen only 100 percent. The figures on government employment do not include the 2.6 million in our armed forces or the 221,000 foreign nationals working overseas for Uncle Sam.

Here follows a table which gives a breakdown of where this host of federal "hired hands" was employed in 1957:

Federal Government	2,400,000
State Governments	1,358,000
County Governments	668,000
Municipal Governments	1,559,000
Township Governments	214,000
School Districts	1,649,000
Special Districts	150,000
Total	8,008,000

Some way must be found to cut down on this large army of Americans that is on the public payrolls. Just seven of us taking care of the pay-envelope of one government employee is too much of a burden.

While Federal employment has shown no gain during the past five years, it has had a fantastic rise since 1900. In that year less than 200,000 were on the Federal payroll compared with today's 2.4 million. Here would seem to be where the biggest cuts can be made.

Drastic chopping can also be made in the state, counties, etc. governments. The Federal Government is not the only offender in competing with private enterprise. Among the employees of the other governments and districts we find barbers, embalmers, detectives, chiropodists, glass-blowers, astronomers, cotton classifiers, in fact, almost every occupation to be found in free enterprise non-government employment.

Yes, useful as are many of these government employees, their number is too great—too many for our economic system to digest. It is perhaps being too optimistic to predict that the 86th Congress will administer some digestive medicine at the Federal level, and that the lesser governments will do a bit of doctoring, but one can hope, can't one?

Advise Lawn Care

Home owners have been advised to begin their lawn care program in March by Paul W. Santlemann, Weed Control Specialist, University of Maryland, Department of Agronomy.

The time for spot seeding lawns in this area is March 1 to April 15. Use about two pounds of Kentucky bluegrass per 1000 square feet. Red fescue may be used in shady areas. Spot seeding may be done even though the ground is not completely thawed.

If chick weed is in the lawn, it may be controlled by spraying with Silvex. Silvex can only be used in March while the grass is dormant. Wild garlic can be treated with an application of 2, 4-D on a warm day when the temperature is over 60 degrees. Don't use chemicals on newly seeded areas.

Established lawns should be top dressed with fertilizer in March. In absence of soil tests, use about 15 lbs. of 10-10-10 or 15 pounds of 10-6-4 per 1000 square feet.

Additional information on lawn care is contained in the following free publications available at the County Extension Office:

Still Being Pressured . . .

Apparently the county's legislators are still having pressure applied in an attempt to get legislation passed which would legalize liquor in this county. The persons advocating this are pushing for an out and out law with no referendum involved. The legislators would simply pass a law and the people would have no say.

Make no mistake about this situation. They are not going to give up easily. This is no time to sit back and hope that someone else will take the initiative. Rev. Bryan Blair has indicated the urgency for some action on the part of the great majority of people who are opposed to any legalized sale of liquor.

It is indicated that a number of Oakland and Lake business men are endeavoring to exert their influence to get this legislation passed. We don't know whether they have given any thought to the amount of money it would take from their businesses if people were to buy liquor instead of hardware or clothing, or how much money would have to be spent for liquor in order to provide the amount of taxes they expect to receive.

We'd like to analyze a few figures provided by the election of two years ago. Only three areas favored liquor, all in the northern end of the county. Grantsville, Johnson, and Avilton. Some of the Oakland precincts were close but not one favored liquor. Against liquor were Swanton, three to one, Friendsville over 2 to 1, Jennings 2 to 1, Accident over 2 to 1; Sang Run 4 to 1, Bvans Glade 2 to 1, Red House over 2 to 1, Elbow almost 2 to 1, Bittinger 6 to 1, Crellin 4 to 1, Mt. Lake Park 3 to 1. Total vote was 2,479 favoring legalized sale, and 4,255 opposed.

This overwhelming majority should provide the legislators with enough fortitude and backing to withstand any pressure that could be exerted by any one group or even several.

Business men in the meantime are claiming all the heavy taxpayers favor liquor. That is mighty easy to disprove.

What we want to stress is this fact: those favoring it will keep pushing with no let up. So it is going to be necessary for those opposed to do some pushing of their own. Now is an excellent time to start.

Letter to the Editor

To the Editor of The Republican:

I wish to commend you and our legislators for the stand you have taken against legalizing the sale of liquor in our county. I want to thank the legislators for resisting the pressure that was put upon them by the Promotion Council, the commissioners, and a few business men. I feel sure that the majority of taxpayers are aware of the fact that there are no real economic benefits from a tax on legal liquor. Even if there were, we should not be willing to sacrifice human lives, self respect and morals for the sake of material gains.

This would be a sin against God and our fellow man. We have seen what liquor has done to individuals and society. It breaks homes and hearts and it causes poverty, distress and suffering of the innocent. Let us consider the great multitude of alcoholics who are without hope and without God. I am thankful for all those who are working against this great evil. I have wondered why any individual or group would want to bring this curse upon our county. I am thankful that the great majority of our voters are opposed to it. I feel sure our legislators will not betray the trust that was put in them.

The strength of a nation or group is determined by the morals of its citizens.

Sincerely,
Martin L. Savage

Letter to The Editor

Editor, The Republican
Dear Sir:

We of the Mt. Top Ministerial Association wish to call to the attention of the citizens of Garrett County the fact that tremendous pressure has been and is being exerted on our representatives in the State Assembly to legalize whisky in Garrett county. We wish to further inform our people that regardless of a local referendum, the Assembly has the lawful right to pass whatever liquor legislation they see fit for our area. The forces favoring the legalization of whisky sales in Garrett county have been very active in making known their side of the case. We urge every person in the county to make known their views to our legislators. We feel they are all men of basic integrity but that they would appreciate hearing from the majority of their constituents. Only when we let them know can we feel we have done our best to help them make the proper decisions for us.

Sit down today and write them as follows:

The Honorable Elza Bray
The Honorable Elbert Buckel
The Honorable Leslie Savage

All of the above can be reached by addressing mail to them in care of

Room 1120B
State House

The address of our State Senator is:

The Honorable Bernard I. Gonder

Only when we are willing to take time to express our views before legislation is passed can we feel we have the right to say anything afterward.

Most sincerely yours,
G. BRYAN BLAIR

Listen Americans!

BY GEORGE S. BENSON
President of Harding College

General Albert C. Wedemeyer's book, "Wedemeyer Reports," has climbed to a top rung on the Best Seller list, and this fact is encouraging. It is also good news that this outstanding American, chief United States military planner for World War II in the European theater, has retired from the Army to dedicate his influential efforts as a citizen toward the preservation of the American way of life. As a four-star General he was restrained by the military code; in retirement, he is speaking up without such restraint.

General Wedemeyer today views world Communism as the greatest menace ever faced by America or free people anywhere. He held and expressed the same view in the early days throughout World War II—while top American leaders, turning a deaf ear to his warnings, were making diplomatic and military moves which aided world Communism; in fact, which gave world Communism the great power it has today.

The title of his book harkens back to "The Wedemeyer Report" in 1947. President Truman sent him on a mission to China in July, 1947 to determine what the United States' policy should be toward the government of China which was being attacked by Communist hordes armed and guided by Soviet Russia. Previously, Secretary of State George C. Marshall had sought to force Chiang Kai-shek, in 1946, to accept Communists such as Mao Tse-tung and Chou En-lai into the Chinese government, and when Chiang resisted on grounds that this would ultimately destroy free China, the United States imposed a crippling arms embargo upon the government of China.

In his book, General Wedemeyer indicates that he feels he was sent on the mission to China with the thought by President Truman and Secretary Marshall that he would support the pro-Communist viewpoint and recommend no aid to Chiang Kai-shek. However, his report, presented to President Truman and Secretary Marshall in September, 1947, recommended immediate arms and military advisory aid to China. His report was suppressed. The aid, which surely would have kept China and her 500 million people out of the Communist orbit, was withheld until the Communists had won in China. And this was a turning point in history—terribly destructive to the hopes of free people everywhere.

This is a vitally important book, a gravely important historical report on disastrous U. S. policy. With "The Wedemeyer Report" suppressed, a group of informed and courageous Congressmen led a fight early in 1948 to force the administration to send armament aid to China's sorely beset armies fighting the Communists. The legislation, enacted in April, 1948, provided for $128 million worth of immediate arms aid. But this aid was withheld until end of 1948, and by that time Chiang's position in China had become untenable—the Communists had won.

General Wedemeyer says flatly that President Roosevelt was determined to get the United States involved in World War II and that he deliberately manuevered us into war by provoking Japan. General Wedemeyer's book ought to shock our citizens out of their apathy and stimulate active participation in our governmental affairs which are the business of us all.

"Our Growing Edge"

MRS. MARTHA GLOFELTY

Our Lenten Reading

Dr. Elson Ruff in his editorial in "The Lutheran" has these thoughts for us if we honestly want to have the Lenten season mean something to us, and make these days set aside by the Christian Church to make these days different from other days of the year.

He says, "Let's celebrate Lent by stepping up our Bible reading both in amount and intensity. Every year we get further away from the world that lies inside the Bible. Most of us, of course, don't have the training to keep up with the scientists who are creating the intercontinental missiles. But their way of thinking, careful, logical manipulation of complex facts, from which come amazing discoveries, is the way all of us try to think these days.

People who wrote the Bible weren't interested in that sort of thing. They never learned anything important about astronomy or mathematics. They were concerned about the meaning of their existence, not machinery, and they found this meaning described in one word, "God." Perhaps in 1959 this is a word which only poets and very simple people can understand.

From that ancient world in which the Hebrew people were writing their Scriptures and the Greeks were producing their pioneer scientists, these two tracks in human development were laid down.

To the Hebrews, the "chosen people", with their picture thinking, their poetic insight into the meaning of life, was given the revelation of the God who like a Father pities his children. The Greeks, in a crude way, found out about atoms. Their great men, if transplanted into the 20th century and to the University of California laboratories, would soon catch up with the latest knowledge in atomic physics.

But where are men today who fully understand that if we send the speediest rocket out beyond the farthest star, there we will find God? We have been developing our inheritance from the Greek scientists more rapidly than the inheritance from the men who wrote the Bible. And the danger which most people recognize at least vaguely, is that we lose our understanding of the meaning of life.

Textbooks in science are out of date in 20 years. But the great book which holds together the things God told his chosen people is still with us. It throbs against our eardrums with its ancient rhythm. It is necessary for us only to open it, to the Psalms, prophets, parables, to let its eternal wisdom take possession of us. There we find the Man in whom this wisdom reaches its perfect climax.

But we have to come to this book with a near-desperate desire that the Word which God spoke to men of old times he will speak also to us. This isn't a book you may read at bedtime to put you to sleep. In it the great mystery of existence is probed to the depths.

You can get, if you are interested, all sorts of "how to read the Bible" guidebooks. Maybe you won't need them. The main thing is to remember that this isn't a book of science. It's on an entirely different wave length, from the laws of thermodynamics. But it never needs rewriting. In it we encounter the truth about life.

Lent is an excellent time to increase the amount and ardor of our patient, tremulous, insistent reading of the supreme book. We discover it is much more than a book. It is a present day "meeting place with God."

Open Fire Burning Statute in Effect

Maryland's controlled burning season has arrived and district forester William H. Johnson reminded area residents that the regulations will continue in effect through the three spring months of March, April and May.

Last year one bad fire marred an otherwise good record for the four-county Western Maryland district. That single blaze last April burned more than 200 acres on Haystack mountain in Allegany county.

The 50 woods and forest fires reported in the four counties in 1958 burned a total of 346.19 acres. Allegany county was charged with 22 of the fires and they burned 319.75. That left only 26.44 acres for Garrett, Washington and Frederick break at least ten feet wide com-

During March, April and May regulations prohibit open air burning except between 4 p. m. and midnight EST, or when the ground is covered with snow, and then only in compliance with certain conditions.

The conditions include a fire break at least ten feet wide completely around the material to be burned. There must also be present adequate personnel and equipment to prevent the fire from escaping and there must be at least one responsible person at the location until the last spark is out.

Penalty for violating these burning regulations is a fine of not less than $10 or more than $500 or imprisonment for not more than six months.

Former Area Man Is Killed In Mine Fall

Jean William Guy, Jr., native of Bloomington, and another miner were killed instantly on February 17 when they were buried under tons of debris in a roof fall at the Eureka No. 11 mine of the Christopher Coal company.

Guy was employed as a foreman of the mine and was working with George Hrivnak, 32, of Mt. Morris, at the accident occurred.

Guy was born in Bloomington April 17, 1917, a son of the late Jean W. and Kathryn Neal Guy. He is survived by his widow, the former Vera Guy; a son and daughter at home; two brothers, Raymond W. Guy, Hyattsville; Charles E. Guy, Niagara Falls, N.Y.; and three sisters, Mrs. Ruth Miller, Morgantown, Mrs. Frances Twigg and Mrs. Geraldine Taborn, both of Hyattsville.

Guy, Hrivnak and three other men, who escaped, were clearing away debris from a roof fall two days previous when the cave-in occurred. A spokesman for the company said the cave-in occurred about 275 feet below the surface. A section of the roof and wall came 12 feet across fell on Guy and Hrivnak and miners worked two and one-half hours getting their bodies out.

Guy had been a foreman for the company approximately 10 years. Services were conducted from the Jenkins Funeral home in Morgantown.

Relatives of at least a dozen coalers are on Senate payroll.

County 4-H Clubs Salute Five Alumni

Garrett county 4-H clubs are saluting five 4-H alumni this week among their various activities in observance of national 4-H club week, February 28 to March 7. There are some 350 youth in the county from 10 to 21 who belong to 16 local 4-H clubs.

With emphasis this year on "Salute to 4-H Alumni" for their accomplishments, the 4-H group picked the following for special mention: Mrs. George Allstetter, Johnstown, Pa., formerly Miss Mildred Steaple; Mrs. Raymond McCullough, Easton, formerly Miss Jessie Guard; Mrs. Richard Sparks, Smyrna, Tenn., formerly Miss Rita Bittle; Mrs. Clarence Smart, Prince George county, formerly Miss Ella Fazzalari, and Mrs. George Hurst, Oakland, formerly Miss Polly Johnson of West Virginia.

The first four at the height of their 4-H activities, were awarded trips to the national 4-H camp held annually in Washington, when two boys and two girls from each state are selected for this honor. The latter was honored in the first annual 4-H alumni recognition program at Chicago in 1955, and has been a resident of this county since 1933.

Rankin Lusby, assistant county agent, said the alumni named were picked from hundreds of outstanding county 4-H'ers because of outstanding 4-H records of service and leadership.

A resume of their activities is given:

Mrs. Allstetter was chosen in 1930 to attend national camp for outstanding activity as club member ability for leadership and community service, as well as records in club work. She completed projects in clothing, canning, room improvement, exhibited at county fair, showed leadership in working with girls, assisted agent in activities in the county. Her present activities include girl scout and church work. She became an all-star in 1930.

Mrs. McCullough was selected to attend national camp in 1929. Her activities included that of president of county older youth group, president of club council, delegate to state club council, an all-star, temporary agent in the county.

Mrs. Sparks failed to be selected for national camp, completed projects in clothing, foods, first aid, home furnishings, arts, entertainment, leadership development, attended summer camps, served as president of county council, attended club week at College Park, became an all-star in 1946, also participated in church, school and community activities. Following graduation from University of Wisconsin she did Red Cross work in Japan and Korea and worked for two years in exchange of American prisoners.

Mrs. Smart, active in 4-H for number of years and earned many projects awarded trip to National club camp. In high school was in Glee club, orchestra, student council and Acorn staff and was active in Teen-age club. Was named Mortar Board recipient at University of Maryland and National Honorary sorority. Following graduation was assistant agent in Prince George's county. A scholarship for another study was awarded to her by the National 4-H foundation which enabled her to receive her master's degree.

Mrs. Hurst one of eight in the nation selected in the first annual 4-H alumni recognition at Chicago, was presented a gold key in recognition of her 4-H work and continuing interest in that field. She completed seven years of 4-H project work in Braxton county, W. Va., and became a member of All-Stars. She is known to thou-

Congressional Viewpoint

From John Marshall Butler

More on "Diddling and Dawdling"

The fashion these days, in some quarters, is to ridicule as pure absurdity the importance of sound fiscal policies or a balanced budget on the part of our Government. Those who work for economic stability to check the mad rush toward a national calamity are said to be "diddling and dawdling." In these same quarters, Walter Reuther's call for a labor march on Washington to stampede the Congress into enacting doubtful spending and welfare programs without regard for the consequential impact upon the steadily mounting Federal debt is given much notoriety.

To these economic quacksalvers several latter-day developments are deserving of special emphasis. It is a matter of unfortunate public record that our Government was recently unable to borrow money on long-term bonds, that to meet current commitments it was obliged to resort to short-term, expensive and inflationary borrowing. What say these self-appointed economic saviors to this sad situation in which the most powerful country in the world finds itself.

And what say they to the deplorable financial condition confronting Michigan and New York. While New York woefully seeks new avenues of tax revenue, Michigan as a result of excessive spending and governmental paternalism, ran out of cash—banks would no longer extend credit to state institutions. A crisis of major proportion was avoided only by private business agreeing to pay its taxes sooner than required. Glaringly, the chief architect of Michigan's fiscal eclipse, Walter Reuther, did not offer any of his AFL-CIO or UAW bounty to save the day.

What say these wastrels of the Nation's wealth, stamina and resources to the conditions which exist in the "welfare states" of Northern Europe—Sweden, Denmark, Norway and Finland. As taxes and unemployment increased, many people in these Nordic countries became less and less enchanted with socialistic schemes. Expensive pension plans, allowances for children, food subsidies and other "cradle-to-grave" programs were either abandoned or reduced. Truly a setback for socialism and governmental paternalism!

Those economic demagogues who preach that we need not limit governmental spending might take heed. And, Mr. Reuther might offset some of his loud tautings by pointing out to his members and the American people that the situation became so serious last fall in Sweden that a union-owned newspaper carried this unprecedented headline—"We Need Lower Wages," suggesting that, at times, more jobs and greated productivity rather than higher wages are essential to economic recovery and stability.

To Seek Financial Aid For Indigent

With general hospitals in Maryland which participate in the state program for hospitalization and indigent care of the poor losing more than $2,500,000 last year, the State Health Department has decided to ask Gov. Tawes to appropriate $1,140,000 in his supplemental budget this year.

The move is planned in order that each hospital in the state may be compensated at the rate of 80 percent of its cost in providing care to indigent in-patients in the next fiscal year.

The Hospital Council, inc., reports that 35 hospitals voluntarily grant indigent care to the sick poor. They provided 255,967 days of care to qualified patients during the 1957-58 fiscal year at a total cost of $6,701,482.

However, the report states, the hospitals received only $3,151,211 from the state for this service.

At Garrett County Memorial hospital in Oakland the deficit was reported at $20,435. The ceiling on state payments to hospitals was $13 per day while the per diem costs of the various hospitals ranged from $16.17 to $36.60.

A breakdown of the state aid for in-patient care shows Garrett County Memorial hospital had 2,084 approved days care at a per diem cost of $21.18. This overall cost of $44,139 was supplemented by the state for $23,704, leaving a deficit of $20,435. Memorial hospital in Cumberland has a rate of $20.93 per day. Sacred Heart hospital in Cumberland had a rate of $17.78 per day. They had deficits of $66,712 and $30,701.

The council report declared that local governments would be asked to assume the responsibility for 20 percent of the hospital costs.

NEWS FROM THE Ruth Enlow Library

BY EDITH BROCK

Several books and pamphlets of special interest to Garrett Countians have been given to the library this week. "The Maryland Scene" by Charles T. Duvall, presented by Miss Elizabeth West, is "a rhymed presentation of events, people and places contributing to the story of the state, accompanied by camera reproductions." A number of the poems and pictures depict Garrett County scenes.

A pamphlet, "Historical Highlights of Savage River Dam" has been given by E. Herbert Shaffer. "A History of Road Building in Maryland", which includes the story of the National Road, has been received from the State Roads Commission of Maryland.

A number of other state and federal publications of local interest have been acquired recently by gift or purchase. These include "Birds of Maryland and the District of Columbia"; "Maryland's Weather"; "The Status of White-Tailed Deer in Maryland"; and "Deer Checking—How and Why." "The Cranesville Pine Swamp" by Romeo Mansueti describes this nearby area as "one of the least known and most fascinating natural habitats in the Middle Atlantic states." The pamphlet names the many forms of plant and animal life found in the Cranesville swamp.

The library is always glad to receive additions to its growing file of material on Maryland and Garrett County.

A Message from Clinton W. Englander, "Your Pharmacist"

Proper digestion of food is necessary for better body health. Mastication, the process of chewing your food enough to permit its preparation for entry into the stomach, is handicapped if your teeth cannot accomplishh their duty.

Modern dental research has uncovered many new helpful techniques for making teeth less subject to decay and possible loss. Your dentist judges his professional success by his ability to help you keep your teeth instead of losing them.

A visit to your dentist is no longer something to be feared. Your dentist has new "miracle" drugs to prevent pain and promote healing. He can prescribe mineral and vitamin medicines for people who are susceptible to cavities. His local treatments prevent their formation.

Should your dentist prescribe any medications, or specify a particular dental aid, we can supply it from our ample stocks. We are carefully keeping up with the progress of modern dentistry so that we may cooperate with dentists, as we do with physicians for your better health.

Teen Corner

By DICK CASTILOW

We will try to survive the boredom of being without Teen Club for the rest of this month. Well as a consolation there will be dances held at different times in our school and other places. This will go on until about April 3rd.

The Royales would like to thank everyone in the community for being such a help with our disc which was released this week. The DJ's in this area are really giving us a break.

I was fortunate to hear The Prodigals in Uniontown Sunday night. They were booked as rock'n roll but they were all be-bop, nothing more. They really could go on the bop numbers but they were kind of droopy on the slow numbers. To tell the truth, they just couldn't play a slow number at all. They have a wicked sax player, he is what I call real tough.

I really think that the Platters are loaded with personality. They were on Ed Sullivan's show Sunday night and proved again their ability to simply capture an audience and keep them in rapt attention until their numbers were finished. Then the audience goes wild with acclaim for their supreme artistry. On that new album, or I guess I should say LP, that I mentioned last week, there is a number that I think will be a hit. Try listening to that LP and see if you can spot it too. I see in the Pittsburgh papers that The Platters are at the Twin Coaches next week.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Day	Book	Chapter	Verses
Sunday	Mark	9	30-50
Monday	Psalms	1	1-6
Tuesday	Psalms	119	9-16
Wednesday	Isaiah	7	14-16
Thursday	Acts	3	1-10
Friday	Deuteronomy	30	15-20
Saturday	III John	1	1-4

Of course I don't scare you. I'm only a little boy making believe I'm a big bad man.

Some day, though, I will be big. Some day this game might be real, 'cause even the biggest bad man was once a little boy. And who knows what made him go wrong? That's why early training is so important.

In church and Bible school we learn about God's kindness and love, and how we can trust Him for the things we need. We learn to want to help others, instead of hurting them.

Encourage the children you know to learn all the good they can. Make church and Bible school your family custom—please.

THE GOLDEN CALF

(This story is based on Exodus 32)

HELLO BOYS AND GIRLS!

Do you remember the name of the great American hero who when condemned to death said: I only regret that I have but one life to lose for my country?" Yes, it was Nathan Hale, whose gallantry and courage we rightly admire. On the other hand, we despise a weakling, like Aaron, Moses' brother, whose lack of firmness and courage led Israel into the sin of idolatry, with its terrible consequences. This is the theme of today's story.

God had called Moses up into the mountain, as He had something very important to show him. Do you know how long Moses was up there in the mount without food or drink? Forty days and forty nights! He was able to endure this long fast because God miraculously sustained him. As the weeks went by, the children of Israel began to wonder what had happened to Moses their leader. They became restless, and finally went to Aaron and demanded of him: "Make us gods, which shall go before us; for as for this Moses, the man that brought us up out of the land of Egypt, we wot not (known not) what is become of him." If Aaron had stood firm for the right the Israelites would have been kept from the sin of idolatry. But he lacked courage in this time of test and crisis. Wishing to be popular, he gave in to their demands and thus encouraged them in this great sin. How is it with you? Are you, like Aaron, easily coaxed into doing wrong just because you want to be popular?

Yielding to the clamors of the people, Aaron made a golden calf out of their earrings, and proclaimed that "To-morrow is a feast to the Lord." Think of it! Pretending to worship the living God, they bowed in adoration to this golden calf, one of the Egyptian gods!

God revealed to Moses what was taking place. At once Moses came down from the mount. When he saw the Israelites breaking the first commandment which says, "Thou shalt have no other gods before Me," he was filled with indignation, and threw down the two tables of stone on which God had written the Ten Commandments, and broke them in the sight of the people. Because of their sin, thousands of the Israelites were slain. All this could have been prevented if Aaron had stood firm for the right.

Boys and girls, let us not be like the weakling Aaron, but let us rather follow the noble example of God's heroes like Daniel who was wiling to be cast into a lions' den rather than deny the true God.

'Dare to be a Daniel
Dare to stand alone
Dare to have a purpose firm
Dare to make it known!"

Senate Cloakroom

By J. GLENN BEALL
United States Senator from Maryland

Maryland's Share—Whenever I refer to the need for Congress to hold the line on spending, the need for our living within our income as a nation, some meticulous citizen calls my attention to my reporting with obvious pride the Federal expenditures in Maryland. I do not believe there is any conflict here. I am against all unnecessary spending, and, at the same time, I like to reassure my constituents that, whenever Uncle Sam starts handing out funds for projects, Maryland gets her rightful share.

Uncle Sam, A Business Partner—Numerous bills introduced in the Congress seem aimed at business, notwithstanding the fact that the Government must depend upon business for its livelihood. Apropos is an editorial which appears in the Kent County (Maryland) News:

"What would you think of a senior partner, drawing his living from a business, who did everything he could think of to assure that the business couldn't run at a profit and serve its customers? The United States Government is the senior partner of every large and medium sized business in the land—taking as its share 52 percent of the earnings. That's a good part of Uncle Sam's total income. The rest of the income is derived from the wages and profits others make out of the operations of business, including farming. Yet, rather than encouraging business to produce all this revenue for the government . . . business has been subjected to all sorts of hampering legislation, with threats of more to come. Tax laws have been arranged so as to discourage the formation of new businesses and the expansion of existing ones. . . .Business, it has been said, is the people. And government is the people, too. Can it be we've all been fooled into taking a great roundhouse swing at our own jaw?"

Voluntary Weather Observers—Secretary of Commerce Lewis L. Strauss, whose appointment, incidentally, is now up for confirmation in the Senate, has reported that the Weather Bureau has 21 voluntary observers who have taken observations daily for more than 50 years. This includes two citizens of Maryland, D. Paul Oswald, 73, of Hagerstown, and Ralph E. Weber, 72, of Oakland. The Bureau now has a nationwide corps of 7,000 men and women who take and record weather observations every day of the year, including Sundays and holidays, without any compensation whatsoever.

Maryland Tobacco Exported—The first trade agreement under Public Law 480, recently enacted, provides for export of 6,100,000 lbs. of tobacco valued at $6,750,000.00. There will follow other agreements which will favorably affect the Maryland tobacco market. Under previous arrangements, Maryland tobacco, in sizeable quantity, is being sold to Switzerland cigarette manufacturers.

Maryland Growers Vote "No"—Under Congressional authority, a referendum of Maryland tobacco growers was held this past week, and, as a result, marketing quotas and price support will not be in effect during the coming year. The vote was close. Of 4,779 Maryland tobacco growers who took part in the referendum, 3,062, or slightly under the necessary two-thirds, voted for marketing quotas, while 1,717 voted "No".

Let's Show The Russians—Under authority deriving from the Congress, and by reciprocal agreement with the U.S.S.R., our Government and private industry are jointly preparing an American Exhibition in Moscow. Several million Soviet citizens will have the opportunity to see with their own eyes some things about the United States. According to plans, the categories of the exhibit will be: America learns (education), America explores (science and research), America creates (art), America travels, and America plays.

Much of this parallels aspects of the Soviet Union, and, it seems to me, there is not enough of what sets life in America apart from life in the U. S. S. R. I believe our display should have one category devoted to how the American people govern themselves—say, an exciting documentary film portraying some of the incidents and events in American history which illustrate the distinguishing aspects of our way of life.

Dulles Appreciated By Critics—Despite what two Senators are saying, the illness of John Foster Dulles, a truly great American, has brought out the fact that his services as Secretary of State are appreciated by nearly everyone, including most of his critics. It is ironical that he had to work himself into the hospital to receive recognition as the West's foremost statesman.

Events are proving that Mr. Dulles was right in his stoical resistance to the insidious propaganda of those who would seek peace at any price. That's why there has come, at last, a true appreciation of his services, just as he faces the possibility of tragic months ahead in fighting cancer.

"Security Within Ourselves"—At a time when nearly all of our legislative thought and effort are affected by the cold war, it is refreshing to read the philosophic words of a wise Russian, Boris Pasternak, the author who was frowned upon in his own country for his novel exposing Communist life in Russia, says that we (the human race) must discover security within ourselves, that we are the "the guests of existence."

"We must find our own insights into our relationship with the existence in which we participate so briefly", he says, continuing.

"This means a departure from the materialistic view of the 19th century. It means a reawakening of the spiritual world, our inner life . . ."

"Say! This chair we got in the Want Ads—Is comfortable!"

WEEKLY SERMON

A Plain Hypocrit

Recently I stopped into a showroom to look over the new Plymouth. Certain models have a decorative tire mold on the trunk cover. I asked the dealer whether the tire was encased in it. "No! that's just a hypocrit!" he replied. In other words - - it was not what it professed to be. During the earthly ministry, the Lord Jesus had some very sharp words for hypocrits. He denounced their pious hypocritical acts in no uncertain terms. He made it plain that He had no use for hypocrits. I am positive that when He sits as Judge of all the Universe, He will not have changed His mind about them. Every false professor of religion will be unmasked at the judgment seat. They may have fooled men who look only upon the outward appearance, but they shall not fool Him. They will never be allowed to enter heaven. Now perhaps there is some reader who has used the presence of hypocrits in the Church, (and what Church doesn't have at least one) as your reason for rejecting Christianity and the Church. My friend, let me give you some good advice. If you so detest a hypocrit, then you had better get right with God or you will be spending eternity with them. Think it over!

Man Is Injured In Mine Accident

Thomas Ford, 50, Lonaconing mine foreman, was critically injured last Thursday in a coal mine accident three miles west of Westernport. He sustained severe head injuries in the mishap in the W. W. Coal Mine, located at Aaron's Run, this county, by William Brashear, of Westernport.

Officials of the Maryland Bureau of Mines headed by Frank T. Powers were in the mine Friday at the scene of the mishap which was located 1,000 feet from the pit mouth.

The mine bureau report on the accident was not available but Brashear said Ford was operating a four-ton haulage motor. It was pulling one coal car and apparently went out of control. He was carried to the pit mouth by six other miners who were working inside the mine.

The victim, who resides in Lonaconing, recently moved to that community. He had been employed by Brashear for the past year.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear husband and father, James Friend, who passed away March 5, 1958.

Words are inadequate to say
How much we miss you every day.
Your quiet, understanding way
Gave us much to live by—now
When memory brings you very near
We brush away a silent tear;
And the little birds on the wing
Seem to miss your lingering
Beneath their bough.
We pray that we will meet some day
In that home beyond the blue.
Until that time, our memories
Will keep us, ever, near to you.

Sadly missed by his wife, Myrtle

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear father, Arthur Broadwater, who passed away one year ago, March 15, 1958.

A light is from our household gone,
A voice we loved is stilled;
A place is vacant in our home
Which never can be filled.
Some may think you are forgotten,
Though on earth you are no more;
But in memory you are with us,
As you always were before
Lovingly,
The Children

Time For Greatness - - - - -

An item by James C. Ingebretson, president of Spiritual Mobilization.

An advertisement raises this commanding question: "Can't you afford to spend forty-five minutes in the presence of greatness?" It was an ad directing attention to an article about Lincoln. It could just as well have been Washington, Jefferson, Milton, Shakespeare, Socrates, or even better, Christ.

But the question assumes another: "How can we afford to spend as much time as we do in the presence of mediocrity?" Consider the pattern: Billions for alcohol and aspirin, a pittance for aspiration! A flood of rock-and-roll, a trickle of religion! An avalanche of comforts, a pebble of consecration! A thunder of things, a whisper of thought!

Someone said once, "Next to the capacity for being great is the capacity to appreciate greatness." But today we call a thing "great" if it is triviality magnified by popularity, insipidity endorsed by celebrity, mediocrity enjoyed by a multitude. A lot of the little is mistaken for a little of a lot.

The measure of a man is that to which he gives his attention. The same is true of a civilization. Rome declined and fell when it made sport of the significant and attached too much significance to making sport.

Is the same thing happening in America? Is our nation's greatness descending into grossness? How can we afford NOT to spend more time in the presence of greatness?

Police Almost Apprehend Ohio Bank Robber Fugitive

The alertness of a Garrett county State Police officer almost—but not quite—caught a man believed to be the robber of an Ohio bank who had gotten away with more than $25,000 and was the subject of an intensive search throughout the Ohio, Pennsylvania and Maryland area.

It all started on March 2, when Frank Sprenz strode into the Hamilton, Ohio, First National Bank and calmly collected $25,955 at the point of a toy plastic gun. Following this, he delivered a polite "thank you." Fed the bank and drove to the local airport where he stole a red and white plane flew 150 miles to the city of Coshocton, landed, called a cab into the city and purchased another used car with part of the loot.

From then on he was the subject of a search which produced hundreds of "sightings" leads from several adjoining states.

Saturday evening, a Pennsylvania filling station operater informed Pennsylvania police that a man answering Sprenz's description had behaved in a suspicious manner at his station and had pulled away rapidly without making any purchase.

He said the car an Oldsmobile sedan was heading south on Route 219, and supplied the license number.

Informed of the fact by the Pennsylvania authorities, Cpl. Samuel Conrad, of the Maryland State Police, began a vigil. Sure enough, about 8 o'clock he spotted the car parked in front of the motel at Point View Inn, Deep Creek Lake.

To insure positive apprehension of the man who was already a federal fugitive on another charge, Cpl. Conrad called Trooper Donald Tucker, Tfc. Charles DeWitt, Sheriff James Frantz and Deputy Sheriff Bruce Close. Among them, they surrounded the building and Cpl. Conrad called for the surrender of the "fugitive."

But when the motel door opened, instead of the young, dark-haired gunman who was expected, it turned out to be a retiring, retired Army sergeant and his wife —on their way to Florida for a period of vacation. The Pennsylvania service station operator had been more "trigger happy" than the gunman himself.

When the explanations were over, the old sarge went back to bed, probably all shook up; the officers returned to their duties; Sprenz continued to have the $25,000 and the Hamilton banks assets were still reduced by a like amount.

Tractor Workshop to Assemble March 13th

A county 4-H Tractor workshop will be conducted March 13, at 8 p. m., in the farm shop of Russell Teets, in Accident, was announced by E. Rankin Lusby, assistant county agent.

Subjects will include general lubrication and steering.

Mr. Lusby explained that tractor maintenance meant learning to keep a tractor "purring like a kitten" and not make a major engine overhaul, since that is the work of a good mechanic. He said, "There are many things we need to know in order to care for our tractors which we overlook daily. Maintenance saves time, money and headaches."

Tractor leader will be Paul Stull, Maryland's 1957 4-H tractor state winner, assisted by Dale Glotfelty and Mr. Teets. Any 4-Her is eligible to attend. The tractor operator contest is held annually at the county fair.

PREPARE FOR LIONS SHOW—Members of the Oakland-Mt. Lake Park Lions club are shown in rehearsal this week for their tenth annual musical and variety show. The affair will be held at Southern High school March 19 and 20. The show is built around a television theme and will feature a parody of popular shows and not-so-popular commercials.

Today Marks 75th Anniversary Event For A. D. Naylor Co

Today, March 12, 1959, marks the 75th anniversary of the founding of the A. D. Naylor and Company in Oakland and the founder, A. D. Naylor, now 97 years of age, was at his business desk as usual.

Started in 1881 as a blacksmithing business, Mr. Naylor soon added wagons, sleds and farm implements. He then purchased a plumbing, heating and electrical business, later dropping the blacksmithing business entirely but adding a full line of hardware to expand the company to its present size. The store is still operated by Mr. Naylor and his various offspring.

Mr. Naylor left home at the age 19 to work in Keyser as a blacksmith apprentice and at the age of twenty-two years came to Oakland to establish his own business.

Mr. Naylor often talks about his work in those early days, and the price obtained for such work. For shoeing a horse with new shoes, all toed up complete and put on, the cost was 90 cents. A set of steel tires on a four wheeled buggy, drilling 70 holes and putting in many bolts to hold the tires, cost $6. "There were no eight-hour days in those years," Mr. Naylor said.

For a number of years J. M. Falkenstein worked for him as a carpenter and built express and delivery wagons. Mr. Falkenstein just observed his 97th anniversary on February 25. Labor at the time was from 50 cents to $1 a day. Mechanics got $1.75 to $2.

There is no other person in business who was in business in Oakland 75 years ago, although there are firms older than that.

In spite of the 75th anniversary, today will be just like any other day for Mr. Naylor. He will come to work somewhere between 9 and 10 o'clock, attend to business matters, go home for lunch and a cat nap, and then will return to the store for an afternoon session.

Resolution Offers Birthday Greetings To Senator Gonder

Somebody in the State Senate learned that Senator Bernard I. Gonder had a birthday last Thursday, March 5, and the matter was brought to a fitting conclusion with a Senate resolution extending felicitations.

The Senate in expressing the birthday greetings had the following to say:

"Members of the Senate of Maryland are pleased and proud to extend birthday greetings to a member of this Body, the Honorable Bernard I. Gonder, of Garrett county.

"Senator Gonder is now in his second term as a member of the Senate of Maryland. Always we have found him to be eminently able and a true representative of his native county. He is a gentleman in the finest tradition of the State of Maryland. His sense of dignity adds decorum to the proceedings of the Senate. His constituents know him as a leader and servant of his community, prepared to act in their best interests and best interests of the State."

The Secretary of the Senate was instructed to prepare a copy of the resolution and deliver it to Senator Gonder. The occasion was his 71th birthday anniversary.

Rev. Eugene Matthews became ill while at the Economy Market in Alder street on Monday evening and is now a patient in Garrett County Memorial hospital where he is undergoing examination and treatment. Mr. Matthews is pastor of the Fairview, Locust Grove and Swanton parishes of the Church of the Brethren.

Sawmill Operator Is Killed When Tractor Upsets

Eugene E. Sines, Friendsville, Dies Of Internal Injuries Monday

Eugene Edward Sines, 43-year-old sawmill owner and operator of Friendsville, died Monday afternoon from injuries sustained when a farm tractor he was driving upset on him while hauling logs near Corriganville.

Mr. Sines was pronounced dead on arrival at Memorial hospital in Cumberland. The deputy medical examiner's office said the man died of internal injuries.

State Police investigated the accident, which occurred about 3:15 p. m., a mile north of Corriganville about 100 yards from the man's sawmill. They said the victim was hauling four or five logs with the tractor and while driving along a slight upgrade the vehicle turned over backwards, pinning the victim to the ground.

The man's head reportedly hit a rock and a half fender of the tractor came to rest on the victim's abdomen.

A brother, Thomas Sines, and a group of workers were at the sawmill awaiting the victim who was hauling in the logs on a final trip for the day.

One of the men went to find the cause of delay and found the victim under the tractor. State Police and workers carried the man about 50 yards to the ambulance which took him to the hospital.

Trooper Charles T. Snow and Trooper Richard Graham assisted in the investigation.

Funeral services are being conducted this afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Friendsville Methodist church with Rev. Franklin P. Look officiating. Interment will be in Blooming Rose cemetery near Friendsville where military services will be conducted by members of the VFW post of Friendsville.

Deceased was a son of Mrs. Orpha Morefield Sines, Friendsville, and the late Christ Sines.

Besides his mother he is survived by his widow, Mrs. Jessie Sines; three daughters, Susan Carol, Udith Ann and Dorothy Jean Sines, all at home; three brothers, Arnold Sines, Meyersdale, Pa.; Ralph and Thomas Sines, both of Friendsville; four sisters, Mrs. Iva Kelley, Baltimore; Mrs. Ethel Weaver, Hancock; Mrs. Dolly Livengood, Cuzzart, W. Va.; and Mrs. Pauline White, Friendsville. He was a veteran of World War II. Friendsville Methodist church, Rotary club, City Council and an official of Boy Scout Troop 45.

Glass Again Named Mayor Of Accident

Ernest E. Glass was re-elected mayor of Accident at an election held on March 2. Waldo Zinkan and Ervin Georg were named as new council members.

Holdover councilmen are Sherman Frazee and Wilmer Margroff. Outgoing councilmen were Benj. Callis and John Brenneman.

A financial report of the town of Accident appears in advertisement form in another section of this week's issue.

Accident was incorporated in 1916 and covers approximately one square mile. It has five open streets and nine connecting alleys. There are twentysix streets lights. C. C. Nathan, Grantsville, is the town's attorney.

The Mayor's salary per year is $6 and that of a councilman $2. Council meets the first Monday of each month.

Democratic Women Seek Increase of 2 on School Board

The County Board of Education would be increased from three to five members and would include two women if legislators take kindly to a proposal of the directors of the Democratic Women's club.

Meeting Tuesday evening, the group planned to contact the State Senator and members of the House of Delegates to that effect. The proposal continues, "In the event the number of members is not increased, then the next vacancy to occur on the board be filled by a woman."

Clarence Long, Professor of Political Economy of Johns Hopkins University, will address club members at a dinner meeting May 6, at the William-James hotel, it was announced.

In other business, it was tentatively decided to hold the April meeting either in Accident or Friendsville, and Mrs. B. Beeson Snyder and Mrs. Charles Briner were appointed chairman and co-chairman of the Roster committee.

Two Speeders Given 10-Day Jail Terms

Two young men who apparently wanted to try out their automobiles for speed, really found out what they would do, but they also found out that there are penalties involved.

Hugh Jacob McWhinney, Hutton, and Paul Richard Crosier, Crellin, were specifically charged by Trooper Donald Tucker with exceeding 70 miles per hour, although he told a fellow officer he had to go over one hundred miles an hour to overtake them and place them under arrest.

Taken before Trial Magistrate Boyd Sanders, Sr., they were fined $100 and costs and each given ten day jail sentences. Fine and costs were paid. The offense occured on Route 135 east of Mt. Lake Park.

Also Jailed Thirty Days

Two other persons were also given thirty day jail sentences by Magistrate Sanders when they entered pleas of guilty to tampering with a motor vehicle. James Richard Richter, of Benbush, W. Va., and Herbert Eugene Delaney were arrested by State Police when discovered in the act of changing a tire from one automobile to another.

Fined on Three Charges

Ambra Oswald Goehringer, of Accident, was arrested on three

Liquor Legislation Not To Be Entered

Assurance that there would be no liquor legislation introduced at the present session of the Maryland legislature was received yesterday from Senator Bernard I. Gonder.

He said he had conferred with members of the Garrett County delegation and that all were in agreement on this matter.

Both Senator Gonder and Leslie E. Savage, chairman of the county delegation, said they had received a flood of letters and petitions from citizens who opposed any liquor legislation, and that they were grateful for the expression of opinion. Sen. Gonder said they also had received a number of letters favoring proposed legislation.

Oakland Voters Elect Three Men For City Council

Two persons new to politics and one incumbent were elected to the City Council of Oakland at the annual municipal election Monday. They were Dr. H. R. Gibson, dentist, and Howard J. White, milk plant manager, the new candidates, and Dr. E. I. Baumgartner, who has been continuously elected to the council over the past ten years or more.

They defeated four other candidates for the office by safe majorities. Dr. Gibson led the ticket with 287 votes while Howard J. White was second with 177 while Dr. Baumgartner was third with 164.

Close behind Baumgartner was Emory W. Adams, with 169. Other unsuccessful candidates were O. T. Graser with 106; Doyle E. Biser, 77; and Harry A. Hinebaugh, 33.

Mrs. Berryldine S. Stanton, unopposed for re-election as town treasurer, received 230 votes.

Carroll E. Miller and Eugene Flinn, councilmen for the past two years, were not candidates for re-election.

Mayor Russell L. Smith has another year to serve, while holdover councilmen are Henry W. McComas, John Wolf and Robert E. Maroney.

Mr. Maroney, recently appointed to serve as trial magistrate for the Oakland area, was expected to resign from the council when he assumes that office in May. The new council probably will then fill the vacancy.

Voting was only a little more than 50 percent, with some 650 persons eligible to vote. Voting machines were used and the tabulation was known shortly after the polls closed at 7 o'clock.

Chorus to Present Bamboo Princess

The senior chorus of Southern High school, under direction of Mrs. Ruth Brown, will present the operetta "The Bamboo Princess," a Chinese musical in two acts, on Friday, March 13.

The setting of the operetta is the castle of a Chinese baron a short time before the period of the Chinese Republic.

The cast includes seventeen vocal and speaking parts and in addition there are choruses of robbers, a corps of the Dragon's servants, dancing girls, officers and soldiers of the Emporer's retinue.

The cast includes Mason Callis, David Shaffer, Lois Swartzentruber, Brenda DeBerry, Barbara Jo Rice, Ann Lee Lohr, Gerald Thrasher, Lester Bittinger, Jarlath DeWitt, Earline Wise, Robert Oliverio, Margaret Vetter, Tom Forman, Eddie Sanders, Dick Snyder and William Burgwald.

Mrs. Brown announced last night that the play would be presented as planned. She said some people had wondered whether or not it would be postponed because of the large number of students who are ill of influenza. She said substitutions had been made in two or three instances. Rehearsals have been held daily and again in the evenings.

It will get underway at 8 o'clock. Admission for adults is 75 cents.

School Officials Meet With Health Workers

Meeting with the group were high school physical education teachers. Mr. Hawkins presided. Principals and supervisors meet once every three weeks with the superintendent to discuss administrative matters and the professional improvement of the schools.

Reorganization of National Guard Is Now Completed

Oakland's National Guard has now been completely reorganized in line with the plans of the Maryland National Guard. The transformation actually took place on March 1, at which time Company C of the National Guard, an engineering company, became Company A, member of the first medium tank battalion of the 115th combat arms regiment.

Officers and enlisted men remain the same. The company is commanded by Capt. Arthur C. Calhoun. His officers are 1st Lieut. James G. McRobie, executive officer and 1st Lieut. Mahlon W. Yost, platoon leader. There are seveaty enlisted men.

Supply Sergeant Donald Hinebaugh said the company was expecting the arrival of two medium tanks within the next few days.

The reorganization plan was put into effect to enable the Maryland National Guard "to better perform its historical role as an integral part of the first line of defense of the United States." General Milton A. Reckord, adjutant general, declared "the National Guard must modernize its structure and adjust its organization to the requirements of modern warfare."

This is the first major overhaul of the 29th infantry division since early World War II days. The change is designed to increase the mobility and flexibility of the division.

For the first time Maryland is having a medium tank battalion consisting of headquarters and a tank company at Cumberland; two tank companies at Hagerstown, one at Frederick, and one at Oakland. The 121st Engineers, a five unit battalion with headquarters at Ellicott City, lost its engineer company of Oakland, but gained two by conversion at Laurel and Glen Burnie.

Several other changes were effected.

The local company is now preparing for its annual inspection which is scheduled to take place on Wednesday, April 1.

Heaviest Snowfall Of Year Hits County

Some four or five inches of snow fell in Garrett county yesterday and today for the worst snowfall of the season. Snow plows from both the State and County Roads departments were busy for one of the few times this year. They had cleared highways at an early hour but conditions remained hazardous and slippery.

The temperature was only slightly below freezing and there were indications that the storm already had done its worst.

Most of the week has been stormy. Rain fell Friday and Friday night with high winds and an inch or two of snow falling. Saturday remained windy and blustery with some sunshine. Sunday and Monday were comparatively mild and hazy with rain beginning to fall Monday evening. This later turned to snow which continued Tuesday. There was some thawing but snow continued to fall.

9 Indictments Are Returned By Grand Jury

Nineteen Witnesses Are Interrogated By Investigating Body

After a quiet two-day session the March Term Grand Jury concluded it labors and adjourned Tuesday afternoon after having examined nineteen witnesses and returning nine indictments.

The jury went into session Monday morning after hearing Associate Judge Neil C. Fraley deliver the charge. Walter C. DeBerry, of near Oakland, served as foreman. The jurors selected Robert J. Ruckert and Jay Lewis Bell to serve as clerks.

The jurors asked that recommendations of previous grand juries, not yet complied with, be carried out, and also listed several new regulations of their own. One of these was a recommendation of an employe to assist the county treasurer and that he be paid by the county.

The entire report of the grand jury follows:

To The Honorable,
The Judges of the Circuit Court
For Garrett County, Maryland

The Grand Jury for Garrett County, for the March Term, 1959, desires to report that it commenced its deliberations on Monday, March 9th, and concluded its activities the following day.

Upon the conclusion of the Charge given to us by His Honor, Judge Neil C. Fraley, we retired to the Grand Jury Room and organized our Body by the appointment of Robert J. Ruckert and J. Lewis Bell as Clerks and the appointment of Byron R. Bender as door-keeper.

During our term we have carefully weighed the evidence, have had due regard to the testimony of the witnesses, respected the rights of the citizens of this County and returned True Bills of Indictments when we felt the facts

Red Cross Campaign For Funds Continues

The Red Cross campaign for funds in Garrett county is still continuing in the hopes that the annual goal will be reached eventually. Some sections of the county are still unsolicited, according to James Mellenry, county campaign chairman.

A financial report to date shows $1,491.12 contributed. The quota is $4,800, half of which will remain in the county. Mr. Mellenry pointed out that between $600 and $700 is needed each year to operate the blood program alone.

He urged organizations or individuals who had not yet the opportunity to contribute to please do so soon. Checks may be mailed to the chapter, to Mr. Mellenry or to Mrs. Paul B. Naylor, chairman of the Red Cross chapter here.

A run-down of figures showed the following collections:

Swanton, $25.83; Bittinger, $27.82; New Germany, $6; Gortner, $16.80; Finzel, $12; Deer Park, $22.88; Grantsville, $220.18, Oakland residential, $283.79; Oakland business section, $325; Accident, $104.72, Friendsville, $50; Schools of the county $396.05. School at Eglon Destroyed By Fire

The three room school building at Eglon was completely destroyed by fire last Saturday morning. Due to the high wind and blinding snow storm the flames were not discovered in time to save the building.

The Oakland fire department was called but arrived too late to prevent the total destruction. Much of the kitchen and dining room furnishings in the building and some food were saved.

Patrons and teachers met Monday in the basement of the Maple Spring church where they prepared room for the school to continue. The Preston County Board of Education furnished seats, desks, etc., and classes were resumed Tuesday morning with Frank Stemple and Miss Coleen Shafter as teachers. Hot lunches will not be served until next Monday.

Oakland firemen were also called to Underwood on Sunday morning about 9:30 as the result of a flue fire. There was no damage.

Many Nursing Homes Found "Not Suitable"

The State Health Department declared last week that sixteen counties don't have nursing homes that meet "suitable" standards.

A spokesman listed them as Allegany, Calvert, Caroline, Cecil, Charles, Dorchester, Garrett, Harford, Howard, Kent, St. Marys, Somerset, Talbot, Queen Annes, Wicomico and Worchester.

According to the health department, a nursing home is not satisfactory if it is a multistoried frame building, has stairways or halls that are too narrow, is five miles or more from a fire company, does not have adequate sewer and water systems and has approach roads that are impassible in bad weather. The only categories where Garrett county homes would not fit into this pattern would be "multistoried buildings and narrow stairways or halls.

The department said the need for nursing home beds for welfare patients and persons of moderate financial means is "critical."

It is proposing a legislative bill to raise $1½ million dollars through bonds to build nursing home facilities. Two thirds of the cost would be met by state and federal funds and the remaining one-third by the home or group sponsoring its construction. Such institutions would have to be non-profit to qualify. The object would be to provide accommodations for another 700 persons within the next five years.

Impala Sport Coupe—like every Chevy—has Safety Plate Glass all around.

Chevy stops quickest ... goes farthest on a gallon!

Chevy showed the best brakes of the leading low-priced three in a test of repeated stops at highway speeds conducted and certified by NASCAR*. Chevy also won over the other two in a NASCAR economy run—with the highest gas mileage for 6's and V8's at cruising speeds of just over 55 miles an hour.

Here's a car that knows how to get the most out of a gallon. And it's the only car in its field to bring you hydraulic valve lifters in all popular engines—6 and V8. This means smoother, quieter performance for you.

There are many other advances just as fundamental as the efficiency of Chevrolet's engines and the dependability of its new brakes (with more lining area than any other low-priced car). But why not stop by your dealer's and let Chevy do its own sweet talking!

Letters Pro And Con . . .

We have received a number of letters this week both pro and con on our editorial of last week about the claim that church and state do not mix.

Some of these letters have confused the issue. They are dwelling on Catholic vs. Protestant, rather than on church and state. There was no indication in last week's editorial of any argument over Catholic and Protestant, but the simple fact that when church and state become mixed we go against the first amendment to the constitution.

Some have also pointed out that those who send children to parochial schools also pay heavy taxes for public schools and reap no benefit from them because they do not send their children there.

The laws as set up provide for support of public schools. The public schools are there for everybody. When a person decides he wants to send a child to a private or parochial school he realizes that he must do so at his own expense.

We feel that toleration of the letters to the editor both pro and con, could only stir up feelings that should not be considered in this controversy.

We've got to remember that the question is Church vs. State—not Catholic vs. Protestant.

Public Hearing On Game Law Changes Set for April 10

A public hearing has been scheduled for the Wicomico hotel in Salisbury on Friday morning, April 10, to discuss a number of proposed regulations submitted for consideration by the Maryland Game and Inland Fish commission and others. All are commission proposals.

One proposal concerns open seasons bag limits for game birds and game animals, allowing the commission to establish bag limits annually on or before April 25 each year only within the prescribed seasons and bag limits as set forth by law.

Another proposal concerns placing the open season for wild turkey, pheasant, bob-white quail, partridge and mallard ducks on regulated shooting areas from October 1 through March 31.

A third regulation, approved by the attorney general, would provide that antlerless deer may be hunted by special permit for a period to be determined by the commission for counties except Garrett, Allegany, Washington and Frederick, as established by commission regulations.

A fourth regulation, also approved by the attorney general, allowing the commission to determine which counties would be open for hunting of deer with bow and arrow during the 1959 season.

Another regulation would pertain to quota for license agents being rescinded.

A sneak attack by Russia was declared impossible by Defense Secretary McElroy.

He said the money was to be used for equipment and instructional materials needed for the improvement program based. He said the county would be entitled to around $27,000 annually for the next several years on a fifty-fifty matching basis.

Provisions of the pending parochial school transportation bill introduced by Delegate Buckel was discussed by the executive committee of the School Bus Association headed by Charles C. Bender. The committee was given the information which the board had received from the State Department of Education, to the effect that the pro rata cost of transporting each parochial school child would be deducted by the state from the total transportation budget and that the difference would have to be made up by the County Commissioners if contracts of the county bus drivers were not to be affected. The board recommended that the committee discuss needed extra provisions with the Senator and Delegates.

The board approved the purchase of a Plymouth automobile from Tech Motor Co. for $1,695 plus the trade-in of a 1951 Chevrolet, being low bid of seven received.

Fifteen new typewriters were received from Typewriter Sales and Service, low bidder. F. R. Corlett was asked to survey the additional land for the Bloomington school. The board accepted the low bid from Keystone Lime Company, Springs Pa., of $16.82 per cubic yard for [illegible] to be used at Yoder school.

The board approved purchase of a heater for Melvin Eadeley to transport children to new route 40 school. The present Eadeley bus will be used on St. Zeno section.

The Board reinstated Frank Robeson as regular bus driver. Mr. Robeson had been suspended due to a recent accident. Mr. Hawkins said the reinstatement was made after all the facts about his bus route had shifted a blame and indemnity to have Mr. Robeson [illegible] since Mr. Hawkins said the reinstatement was made with the understanding that any further accident attributed to careless of the driver would mean loss of the bus contract.

George Edwards, member of the board, was still unable to attend the meeting as he was still confined to his home with injuries suffered in a car accident several months ago.

Areas taken into consideration and discussed included general appearance, dairy character, body capacity and mammary system. Harland Beachy served as leader. He is a former 4-H member, local leader and has participated in several trips to the State fair where he represented Garrett county.

The Threat of Transportation Strangulation

In spite of the massive exposure of the past year James R. Hoffa of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters moves steadily forward in his quest for a coalition with several other transportation unions. The chief counsel of the Senate Rackets Committee has publicly referred to this move as a "planned alliance," many of the leaders of which are "tainted by corruption or gangsterism and a few by communism." The contemptuous boss of the racket-ridden Teamsters union who has a penchant for rough tactics rather than persuasive words seeks to amalgamate either formally, with the International Longshoremen's Association, National Maritime Union and International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union, which collectively control a major segment of U. S. transportation. These negotiations have always been cloaked by secrecy.

Prominent in this affair is Harry Bridges, ILWU President a man of checkered history who, at times, has been cited for pro-communist leanings. In fact, his organization was expelled by the CIO for following the "communist line." It is pertinent to note, in terms of a consolidation of union activity, that on January 19, 1956, Bridges testified before the House Committee on Merchant Marine and Fisheries, in favor of a "common expiration date for all longshore contracts" on the Atlantic and Gulf Coasts. Obviously it is objective which Bridges repeated again in 1958 and achieved. It would make possible a general strike on all coasts.

Mr. Bridges, with surprising candor, told newsmen some time ago that "There's one thing I know all the Teamsters and the CIO unions got together they'd control more economic power than the combined AFL-CIO." And he added, "They are so concentrated, an economic squeeze and pressure can be exerted on that one employer in a key tough spot and furthermore get the United States Government at a tough spot." It is no secret, however, that the Communist party regards transportation as vital and their members as a necessary Bronx which "capitalistic" opposition can be economically or militarily manipulated. Mr. Hoffa's proposed confederacy of labor bosses whose backgrounds range from communist sympathizers, racketeers and hoodlums to legitimate union leaders of unquestioned scruples who have been duped, is a serious threat to our national security and economy.

Senator McClellan, Chairman of the Senate Rackets Committee, has sounded a warning to all Americans in these words: "All of our lives are too intricately interwoven with this union to sit passively by and allow the Teamsters under Mr. Hoffa's leadership to create such a superpower in this country a power greater than the people and greater than the Government."

"Our Growing Edge"

Mrs. Martha Cloud Lichty

Not Quite Sure

I once heard a wise man say, It used to be there was a sharp dividing line between right and wrong, black and white. Today, there seems to be no such dividing line, only confusion." Perhaps that statement is trying to simplify a complex and difficult human problem. Yet, there are times when we are willing to agree with him. Somehow or other, we do not seem to be sure of ourselves in many situations.

Today, many are dissatisfied with affairs at home and abroad, the taxes, the Administration, the defense program, the international scene; but they are not sure what to do about it. Many are appalled by the wave of crime and corruption in high places, moral problems of adolescents and with the vague feeling of restlessness all about, but they are not quite sure. Many turn to the usual escapes, narcotics, alcohol, amusements, but they are not quite sure. Many conjure up religions of their own, but they are not quite sure. Many turn to exotic religions, Oriental philosophies and strange doctrines, but they are not sure. They are like the small boy who begged to drive the semi-trailer truck down the mountain side, and who was suddenly granted his wish. When he took the wheel, he was not quite sure what to do with it.

One day, we hear a member of a political party say we are adequately prepared for an attack by a potential enemy. The next day, some one else says we are not. They neither one seem to be real sure.

There is an unrest in humanity today which is typical of the immature mind. We grope for the gold of the moon, and wind up in dark alleys. Society has not grown up, because you and I have not grown up. All about us are those caught up in the rangle-dangle of countless activities—rushing from one thing to another, but never quite sure of the goal.

We have insisted that we know how to run the complex affairs of this planet without any help from God, only to discover that we don't know quite as much as we thought.

Into such a world, our Savior comes. When we turn to Him, and recognize His presence in our hearts, there is no longer room for not being sure, no longer room for the worries, the hates, the meannesses, the petty jealousies that are physically and spiritually enervating. He drives them out because they do not belong there. In a world besieged by "jitters," He bids us to be calm and sure of the direction in which we are moving.

Bittinger High For February Attendance

Bittinger School, the only one-teacher school in the county, had the highest attendance percentage for the month of February, according to a report by John L. Fitzwater, supervisor of pupil personnel. Bittinger has 21 students attending and had a percentage of 97.6 for the month.

North Glade, with 31 belonging, had the highest for two-teacher schools, with 97.2. Yoder was second with 94.2 and Swanton third with 91.4. Red House, with 134 belonging, had the highest mark for graded schools with 95.5. Loch Lynn with 113, was second with 95.2. Accident with 244, was third with 91.4. Northern had a percentage of 91.6 while Southern had 94.5. Northern has 761 students enrolled compared to 1128 for Southern.

The enrollment by grades shows total enrollment of 4,722. Grade five has the highest with 490.

justified the same. We have had before us nineteen witnesses and have returned True Bills of Indictment in nine cases.

In pursuance with the instructions given us by His Honor, Judge Neil C. Fraley, we have inspected the Court House, The Treasurer's Office and Books, the Sheriff's Residence and Jail and the Garrett County Memorial Hospital and the Garrett County Road Garage.

We have inspected the Sheriff's residence and the Jail and find them to be clean and neatly kept. We desire to renew the recommendations of the September Term, Grand Jury, which have not yet been complied with. They are (1) Installation of awning on the West side of the residence porch, (2) Vent pipe be installed for the open gas stove located in the dwelling, as well as an exhaust fan, (3) That the salary of the Cook be increased, and (4) that the women's quarters in the Jail be painted. We make the following new recommendations (1) That all the wood work on the outside of the Sheriff's residence be painted, (2) That the laundry room ceiling be repaired, (3) The wood window frames in the Jail be replaced with steel window frames, (4) that a stoker be installed for the furnace, (5) tile or some kind of covering be installed in the shower room of the Jail.

We find the Garrett County Roads Garage to be in excellent condition and that the operation of the Garage is being conducted in an efficient and business like manner. However, the recommendation of the previous Grand Jury in regard to the escape of fumes be complied with without further delay. In addition, we recommend the erection of a Storage building for various County supplies and for the equipment now being stored outside.

We have inspected the Treasurer's Office and Books and general condition of the records and we recommend that the County Treasurer be given a full time employee and this employee should be paid by the County and not by the County Treasurer.

In our inspection of the Court House Building we find that all the recommendations of the past Grand Jury have been complied with by the County Commissioners. Yet we do find that some general work be done and recommend the following: (1) the construction of an exterior entrance to the rooms now being used by the Election Board so that the voting machines may be conveniently removed and stored. (2) The installation of an interior door to the room where the voting machines are stored. (3) the inspection of the exterior lighting of the Court House and the repair where necessary. (4) the installation of larger and more adequate lighting fixtures in the main floor of the rotunda. 5) the painting of the office of the Register of Wills and the office of the Secretary to the State Department of Forest and Parks. (6) The Court House clock be repaired or voided (which is necessary) and the clock be set and used. (7) that a light be installed in the lavatory of the Clerk of the Circuit Court.

It is our opinion that Garrett County possesses one of the most beautiful Court House Buildings in Maryland and we recommend that the County Commissioners consider flood lighting the edifice from the lawn.

Our inspection of the Garrett County Memorial Hospital reveals that the building is in excellent condition with the exception of a few minor defects which are being handled very adequately by the maintenance staff.

We desire to express to his Honor Neil C. Fraley, our thanks and appreciation for his courtesy extended us during our term.

We also wish to thank Sheriff James Frantz, Richard L. Davis, Clerk of Court, the State Police and the Constables for Garrett County, Maryland, for their cooperation and assistance to us during our deliberatioons. It is our opinion that the law enforcement Officers have performed their duties in a very commendable manner.

And we lastly wish to express our thanks to Mr. W. Dwight Stover, State's Attorney for Garrett County, for his advice and cooperation as an advisor to the Grand Jury and his able manner in conducting his affairs before us is greatly appreciated, and also we wish to thank Lester White, Deputy Clerk for his able assistance during our deliberation.

Respectfully submitted,
WALTER C. DeBERRY,
Foreman.

FAITHFUL CONTRIBUTOR—Of the many hundreds of people who have contributed to the March of Dimes campaign over the past years, there is no one more faithful than Mrs. Grace Thrasher, of Deer Park, wife of Robert Thrasher. Mrs. Thrasher is 74 years old, and for the past five years has completely filled one of the large March of Dimes cards that usually are placed in stores or in schools. The card holds $5 in dimes. Mrs. Thrasher has contributed to the March of Dimes since the campaign was inaugurated but five years ago she began using the special card. It was given to her as a joke the first year, but she never considered it as such. She already has $3.00 in the coin slots on next year's campaign. This past month she received a certificate of appreciation from the Marvland Foundatioon for Infantile Paralysis, signed by Basil O'Conor, president, and Charles L. Briner, county chairman. This was for "extraordinary voluntary service." Mrs. Thrasher receives no help in her filling job. She does it all on her own. Mrs. Thrasher is the daughter of the late George Marley, a Civil war veteran who lived to be 104 years old and who died only a few years ago. Her husband is a retired Baltimore and Ohio emplove.

Grand Jury Charge Delivered By Judge

Associate Judge Ned Fraley delivered his semi-annual charge to the grand jurors, assembled in the court room on Monday morning. Judge Fraley explained the purpose of the grand jury and pointed out to them their responsibilities in the investigation of alleged offenses against the state. The entire charge to the jurors is reprinted here.

Gentlemen of the Grand Jury:

There are two jury terms of court each year in this County. You have been selected in the manner prescribed by law to serve as Grand Jurors for the March 1959 term of court. To be eligible for service as a juror, one must be over twenty-five (25) years of age, but not over seventy (70). There is no requirement of property ownership and the only religious qualification is belief in the existence of God.

At the beginning of each term of court it is customary for the court to charge you with reference to your duties and the procedures you are to follow in your work.

The part which the Grand Jury has in effecting administration of the criminal law is extremely important. Your Body has broad powers of inquiry and may initiate investigations as to allegations of violations of the criminal laws of the State. Your action, that is whether you indict or dismiss a charge, cannot be dictated by anybody. The laws of most jurisdictions in the United States require that no person is to be tried for a felony until a Grand Jury shall have examined the evidence against him and found that there is such credible evidence to warrant the trial of the charge.

The Grand Jury was designed to be a body of discreet and thinking persons called together, not to act hastily and inadvisably upon an accusation against a citizen and place him upon trial, but to protect the public interest upon the high ground of vindicating the public law. The Grand Juror's action should be dictated only by a sense of justice and a deep seated desire to reach the guilty and protect the innocent. You will realize, therefore, that there is a responsibility resting upon every Grand Juror to protect your body from being used by intimidation, for revenge, or for personal gain.

Indeed, the oath which you have just taken requires that you "shall diligently inquire and true presentment make of all such matters which may come before you and that you shall present no person through envy, hatred or malice, nor leave anyone unpresented through love, fear, favor or affection, or by any offer or promise or reward." The obligation of your oath is the greater in that the Grand Jury is the sole judge of each fact. He cannot be questioned for anything that he may say or may vote that he may give relative to any matter legally pending before the Grand Jury, save only for perjury committed in making an accusation or in testifying as a witness before any fellow jurors.

You will find that most of the cases presented to you will have been investigated by the State's Attorney and other law enforcement officers. Actually, you will hear only the State's side, and it is your duty to decide if the charge is supported by such evidence as warrants the trial of the accused by the criminal court. It is your responsibility to determine whether the charge may be true or false, and which should be tried and which should be dismissed.

In a criminal case, an accused is presumed innocent until proven guilty beyond a reasonable doubt and no one should be called upon to answer an unfounded charge. You must bear in mind, however, that a Grand Jury is an accusing body rather than a judicial tribunal. It is not your function to convict or acquit, you hear but one side of the matter and that is the State's evidence. It is the function of the Petit Jury or Court to determine guilt or innocence after a fair and impartial trial in which the evidence of the State and the accused has been presented.

The work of the Grand Jury has been considerably lessened in recent years for the reason that after an accused has been arrested on a charge preferred against him, he may waive indictment by the Grand Jury and request an immediate trial before the court. These cases are speedily heard and the case disposed of by the court. As I said before, this has reduced the work of the Grand Jury and substantial financial savings result.

While testimony is being produced before you, the only persons allowed in the Grand Jury Room besides you own members are the State's Attorney and the witnesses testifying before you.

Your proceedings must be absolutely secret. No disclosure of any side concerning your deliberations or how individual members of the jury voted with respect to any charge considered by your Body, unless you are directed by the court to make any such disclosures.

I believe Garrett County is free of organized vice and crime that often is prevalent in larger communities. Nevertheless, it is important that the enforcement officers be alert in bringing to justice all those guilty of violations of criminal statutes and your Body too plays an important part in maintaining law and order in this community.

It is the duty and the responsibilities of the County Commissioners of the County to see to it that the public buildings owned by the County are kept in proper repair and that necessary improvements are made. It is the custom for the Grand Jury to inspect these properties and make such recommendations as seen proper and desirable. You will be furnished with a copy of the Grand Jury's report of the September 1958 term and you should investigate to see if the recommendations then made have been carried out.

The State's Attorney and other enforcement officers will be available at all times during your term of jury duty to assist you in the performance of your duties. You will now retire to the Grand Jury room where you will begin the performance of your duties.

North Hagerstown Eliminates Southern In District Torney

North Hagerstown High school, defeated only once during regular season play, eliminated Southern High school's Highlanders in the class A district playoffs last Friday night at Hagerstown. The final score was 79 to 58.

Hagerstown had little trouble with Coach Schoonovers Highlanders who had only seven players dressing for the contest. Three Southern regulars and several substitutes were unable to play because of the flu which struck this community about ten days ago. Jerry Wine, Dick Stuck and Harland Carlson were out while Savage, Bill Stemple and Bolyard were unable to appear. Guard Don James suffered a broken ankle during the contest.

Hagerstown continued its winning ways by defeating Frederick High school for the district championship on Saturday night. The final score was 45 to 28.

In Friday night's contest Terry Colaw and Leo Martin each scored 23 points to carry the brunt of the Southern offense. Stemple got 6 while James got 4 and Ron Colaw and Lee one each. Duling, substitute guard, went scoreless. Ron Colaw, also was ill with the flu but played part of the game.

Spencer tallied 14 with Vance, Washington and Ridenour scoring 12 each for Hagerstown. North Hagerstown led at the quarters by 22-11, 53-22, and 66-34 and played its reserves throughout the second half.

Hawkins and Gysberts fouled out for Hagerstown as did Duling for Southern. When Gysbert left North finished the last minute and 38 seconds with four players as all regulars had departed from the scene.

Sermonette By Area Ministers

IRVIN G. STEIDING
Sand Flat Assembly of God Church

"Tell Me The Truth"

"How many times shall I adjure thee that thou say nothing but the truth to me in the name of the Lord". II Chron. 18.15

Today is a day when not very many people want it that way. To many life is nothing more than a colossal falsehood. Things are said which are not meant, we express compliments to camouflage our criticism. Many feel success depends upon living a lie so cleverly that no one will ever detect it. Many emotions are expressed which are never felt. We brush off our cleverness saying it is tact, etiquette, manners, diplomacy, influence and personality, yet God calls it a lie. Many in the world today long for a personal, spiritual freedom yet there is constantly the untruthful whisper saying, "you'll commit social suicide," "don't ever let our system down", and all the while God says, "the truth shall set you free."

What is truth you may ask? It is right opposed to wrong. It is God opposed to the devil. It is fact opposed to fiction, truth is error uncovered.

I believe the need for our community and area and county as a whole is that people know and be given the absolute truth. I believe it is the only way to real freedom. John the Baptist was certainly no compromiser, he constantly declared the truth, he preached repentance and even mentioned personal sin. Truth is God's weapon against error. Christ declared, "I am truth." John writes "For the Law was given by Moses, but grace and truth by Jesus Christ." One was written on the tables of stone and the other on the tables of flesh. That's why the devil hates Jesus, and sir, that's why everything devilish in you and I hate Jesus. Jesus Christ is God's Standard. The devil desires that you and I settle for anything, if only it's less than Jesus Christ. He'll say, "be good but not too good." "Say prayers, but not live them." "Memorize verses, but do not do them." "Sing hymns, but not believe them," and the result will still be your fetters of sin will never be broken. Friend, nothing short of the power of Jesus Christ can set you free. "the truth shall set you free".

Truth is the therapy for divorce, truth will cure lying, truth will dispel jealousy, truth will kill the whiskey habit, truth will cleanse the heart of a bad woman, truth will stop wars, truth will even make a bridge between God and the sinner. Prov. 16:6 says "By mercy and truth iniquity is purged and by the fear of the Lord men depart from evil."

My text is about a man going to battle who is not sure of himself. He was troubled, he felt something wasn't right and so he called for a prophet and said, "tell me the truth." Yet when it was given he refused, and because of this the record closed with the untimely death of a wicked king.

Remember this in closing, the truth will free you or condemn you; you can't run from it or destroy it. In eternity the "Books" will be waiting with your record. I trust you'll accept Jesus Christ today.

Valley Victorious Over Northern High

Northern High school's Huskies lost a tough one to Valley High in the class B district tourney Friday night at Hagerstown. The final score was 66 to 56 but the figures do not tell the complete story.

Northern forced ahead near the close of the third quarter but couldn't maintain the pace. Dick Spear and Jim Lowry fouled out in the final period.

Valley had previously disposed of Northern twice in regular season play but was forced to extend itself in the elimination bout. Valley continued its winning ways by winning the district one class B crown by disposing of Brunswick the following evening to the tune of 71 to 35.

In Friday night's battle Northern led Valley at 5-4 in the initial stanza but trailed at the quarter 15-13, and also at intermission 35 to 29, although the score was knotted at 13-all and 15-all.

In the third period with 4:10 remaining Frandel McGraw's goal enabled the Huskies to tie score at 37-37. Then the Huskies grabbed a five-point lead at 42-37 with 2:08 to go as a result of baskets by Strauss and McGraw and a free throw by the latter. Valley moved within one point of Northern at 42-41 on fielders by Lauder and Metts but a goal by Hetrick put Northern three points in front.

Baskets by Lauder and Chappell gave the Knights a 45-41 edge as the third period ended. When the final period got under way McGraw sent Northern to the fore with a goal. Lauder scored for Valley on a jump shot and the Huskies regained the lead at 48-47 on a one-handed shot from the outside by Hetrick. At this point Lauder connected with a jump shot that gave Valley the lead and it was never headed after that.

Lauder and Winner had 23 and 20 points respectively to lead Valley Lander had nine goals and 2-4 at the charity stripe. Winner had nine goals and 7 out of 7 at the final line. Metts had 13 points.

Valley had 23-21 edge in field goals and hooped 20 of 27 foul shots compared to 14 of 25 for Northern. Patton and Hetrick with 11 points each, and Strauss with 10 were Northern's leading scorers. Spear had 9 and Long 2.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Day	Book	Chapter	Verses
Sunday	John	14	1-9
Monday	Mark	2	1-12
Tuesday	Mark	3	1-5
Wednesday	Mark	5	25-34
Thursday	Mark	5	35-43
Friday	Mark	7	31-37
Saturday	Mark	10	46-52

How often, when Dad would finish reading the Bible, he would hold the Book gently in his hands and look out the window. . . .

I used to wonder what he saw—what vision against the setting sun!

And once I blurted the tremendous question: "Daddy, can you see God?"

He kept on gazing off into space, but a smile crossed his lips.

"No, son, a man doesn't see God! He feels God. And then he looks out his window and sees the world in a different light."

I grew up to discover what he meant. His Bible—his Church—his convictions have become mine. And when I look at the world . . . it's through Dad's window.

One day my son will grow up . . .

Jesus' Trial

Lesson for March 15, 1959

THE COURT tries the prisoner, or so it is intended. Sometimes his story reverses the court's verdict. In such cases, those who look back at the trial can see that the prisoner was really trying the court. That is to say, in the eyes of posterity and (we may well believe) often of God himself, every one connected with the trial will be judged by his attitude to the prisoner; not the other way around.

Dr. Foreman

Joan of Arc, for example, had a spectacular trial. She was condemned and cruelly executed, apparently to every one's approval. But today she is called a Saint. Students of her life and times feel that if any one in that grim courtroom where her death was decreed deserved to die, it was not she, but some who betrayed her, some who judged her.

The Judge's Question

Jesus' trial before Pilate is the supreme example of such an upside-down trial. If any one had asked the governor that evening how he thought history would rank him and his young prisoner of that morning, he would have smiled his grim Roman smile and perhaps said, "Hmph! History will not be interested. But if history wants to know, it's on the record. I had the man executed. That settles it, doesn't it?" Pilate could not have known that his own sole claim to fame would be the fact that every seven days, all over the world, in hundreds of languages, men and women would repeat the words almost like a curse . . . "and in Jesus Christ his only Son our Lord, who . . . suffered under Pontius Pilate."

In the course of that wicked farce of a trial, Pilate asked a question which has more echoes than he guessed: "Then what shall I do with Jesus?" That is the question by which the participants in that trial were judged, it is the question that judges us today. What will you do with Jesus?

The Mob's Answer

Pilate asked the wrong people what to do with Jesus. He was the judge, he had the responsibility. He never would have thought of asking a Jewish mob for advice on statesmanship or anything else. Yet he goes through the bitter farce of asking a mob, a brainless bloodthirsty mob, what to do with this innocent prisoner. The crowd thought they were passing sentence; but they were only passing sentence on themselves. The voice of the people is not the verdict of history, it is not the voice of truth nor the voice of God. Sometimes it is; but not there and then, not in Jerusalem. Mobs have voices, they have wills, they may have weapons; the one thing they do not have is brains, judgment, wisdom. The verdict of history, verdict of God, is seldom in favor of the mob.

The Fact-Finders

Of course, even a mob's voice has some brains behind it. In this case it was that dignified combination of chief priests and elders and scribes. These were Pilate's fact-finders. Pilate was a typical Roman; he cared less than nothing for local customs, superstitions, notions. He did not pretend to understand why this Jesus should be the object of so much hate. When Pilate said, "What evil has he done?" it is very possible that he was not "stalling for time" but really was puzzled to know. The scribes and the elders and the chief priests were his fact-finders, his research team when cases came up out of their courts—and such occasions were rare. If some inquiring reporter has asked some of those chief priests, the afternoon of Good Friday, what part they had in the trial, they would perhaps have said with pride, "We were there. We influenced the result. We were consulted. We gave the advice that changed the governor's mind. That Jesus might have been at large this minute, if it had not been for us."

But is was murder all the same. For these fact-finders had no facts. All they had was prejudice, emotion, name-calling. They influenced the result; but not with truth. Can we say we are never guilty of their crime?

No. 1481 Miscellaneous. In the Circuit Court for Garrett County.

The object of this suit is to acquire by condemnation certain tracts or parcels of land situate in the Fourteenth Election District of Garrett County, Maryland, belonging to Delia A. Hughes, Helen Hughes, Widow; Mary Ellen Pendergast, Edward M. Pendergast, Jr., Elena M. Pendergast, Rosalie M. Pendergast, James E. Pendergast and Helen Pendergast, his wife, and Romanus C. Pendergast, Heirs of Edward M. Pendergast, Sr., Any Unknown Heir or Heirs of Edward M. Pendergast, Sr.; Helen Hughes, Widow, and Delia A. Hughes, Owners of Coal and Mineral Rights.

The Petition states that the Petitioners constitute the State Roads Commission of Maryland and are charged with the construction and maintenance of highways and bridges in the State of Maryland.

That they have determined it to be necessary and proper to acquire for the purpose referred to in said Petition, and in connection with the construction and maintenance of the highway system of the state, certain tracts or parcels of land situate in the Fourteenth Election District of Garrett County, consisting of 2.19 acres, more or less, lying between the lines marked "Right of Way Line" as shown on Plats Nos. 14625 and 14626, which is being taken in fee simple, 0.38 acres, more or less, also shown on said plats, for slope and drainage easements, and 0.05 acres, more or less, also shown on said Plats, for stream changes and facilities.

TOGETHER with the buildings and improvements thereon and the rights, alleys, ways, waters, roads, privileges, appurtenances and advantages to the same belonging or in anywise appertaining, together with the right or easement to create, use and maintain on the land shown hatched thus on the hereinbefore mentioned Plats Nos. 14625 and 14626, insofar as their property rights extend, such drainage structures and facilities as are necessary to adequately drain the roadway and or adjacent property and such slopes as are necessary to retain the said roadway and or adjacent property, it being understood that at such time as the contour of the land over which this right or easement is acquired is changed so that this easement required for slopes is no longer necessary to support or protect the property hereby to be acquired in fee simple, then said easement for slopes shall cease to be effective, together with the right or easement to create, use and maintain on the land shown cross-hatched thus XXXXX on the hereinbefore mentioned Plats Nos. 14625 and 14626, insofar as their property rights extend, such stream changes and facilities as are necessary in the opinion of the State Roads Commission within said area, together with the right to create, use and maintain on or across the adjacent land of the defendants, such waterways and or inlets and outlets as are necessary for the drainage structures indicated in the legend shown in the left hand corner of the hereinbefore mentioned Plats Nos. 14625 and 14626, together with the perpetual right to erect and maintain between October 1st and April 1st of each and every year, on the adjacent land of the defendants, within one hundred feet of the land hereby condemned in fee simple, snow fences, provided that said snow fences shall not interfere with the construction and use of buildings now erected or hereafter erected, with growing crops or roadways, together with any right, title, and interest of the defendants in and to the existing bed of Maryland Route 39, lying between the lines marked "Right of Way Line" as shown on Plats Nos. 14625 and 14626 and together with all of the coal, minerals and or other matter in the subic area of that portion of the Right of Way shown on State Roads Commission Plats Nos. 14625 and 14626.

The Petition further states that the said property is now held by Helen Hughes, Widow and Delia A. Hughes, Legatees, under the Will of Thomas J. Hughes, deceased.

(a) That Mary Ellen Pendergast, Edward M. Pendergast, Elena M. Pendergast, Rosalie M. Pendergast, James E. Pendergast, and Helen Pendergast, his wife, and Romanus C. Pendergast, are heirs at law of Edward M. Pendergast, Sr., deceased.

That the land and property sought to be condemned in connection with the State System of Roads and Bridges, and especially for the construction of the aforesaid Route No. 39 Crellin to W. Virginia State Line in Garrett County, Maryland.

That the Petitioners are unable to make an agreement with the defendants and that the Petitioners have deposited a check in the amount of Five Hundred Twenty-Five ($527.00) Dollars, in the hands of the Clerk of the Circuit Court for Garrett County, in conformity with the provisions of Article 89B, Section 9, Public General Laws of Maryland, said Petitioners deeming the said sum to be the fair value of the land taken and the damages done to the property, and that it is in the public interest for them to take possession immediately upon depositing said money and that they are taking possession for the aforesaid purposes.

That the defendants, Delia A. Hughes, is a non-resident of the State of Maryland, residing at 20 Judicial Street, Pittsburgh 11, Pennsylvania; Mary Ellen Pendergast, is a non-resident of the State of Maryland, residing at 15819 Ellis Street, Detroit 23, Michigan; Edward M. Pendergast and Helen Pendergast, his wife, are non-residents of the State of Maryland, residing at 312 Spring Avenue, Clarksburg, West Virginia.

That your Petitioners are unable to designate by name all persons having an interest in the hereinbefore described parcel of land by reason of the indefinite nature of same, and your Petitioner accordingly make parties to this proceeding all Unknown Heir or Heirs of Edward M. Pendergast, Sr., deceased, to the end that all of their right, title and interest of whatever extent or character, may be divested of them and vested in the State Roads Commission of Maryland, acting for and on behalf of the State of Maryland.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN to Delia A. Hughes, who is a non-resident of the State of Maryland, residing at 20 Judicial Street, Pittsburgh 11, Pennsylvania; Mary Ellen Pendergast, who is a non-resident of the State of Maryland, residing at 15840 Ellis Street, Detroit 23, Michigan; Edward M. IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Mrs. Jason Wilburn who died March 10, 1955.
Four long years are passed and gone,
But the ache is just as great.
I know she stands on the Golden Street,
Just inside Heaven's Gate,
To hear her voice and see her smile,
To sit with her and talk awhile,
To be together the same old way,
Would be my dearest wish today.
She's waiting there to welcome us, us,
The ones who loved her so,
With God's help we'll be ready
When we are called to go.

Peace - - - - -

This coming Sunday, Palm Sunday, is a day of triumph. It celebrates a victory not of war but of peace. The King of Peace entered the Holy City amid the shouts of the multitude, "Hosanna to the King of glory!" The same city that acclaimed Him wildly was to be the place of His crucifixion only five days later.

Everything about this triumphal entry proclaimed that it was a mission of peace. In His characteristic modesty Jesus did not plan any fanfare. He simply and quietly rode into the city on a donkey. The enthusiastic multitude soon took up the shouts of praise, and Jesus allowed them to do it. But worldly applause was never His purpose.

He calls us to peace. We are to have inner peace that is far deeper than a superficial "peace of mind" that refuses to face facts. Our religion is no escape from reality, but rather a facing of it at its most meaningful points. Inner peace comes when our hearts are fixed on God.

Let us also be at peace with our fellowmen. Well do we know the tragic results of conflict, misery, violence, destruction. And yet we go on our ways of discord. We think we can impose our wills upon others. Our sinful pride makes us think we can escape the consequences. Whatsoever we sow, however, that shall we also surely reap. The only answer is the way of Christ, the King of peace.

We should and can be at peace with God. Let us listen to His Word, obey His commandments, and yield our hearts in faith to His leading.

"Peace" with God may mean that we shall become deeply disturbed about injustices in the world in which we live. The Christian conscience is a sensitized, not an anaesthetized one. The poverty, distress and hunger of people in needy areas of the world will claim our attention. The "peace" of God will not lull us to sleep, but will keep us gloriously awake.

Some 35 Percent of County Taxes Paid

County Treasurer Joseph H. Welch has received some thirty-five percent of the total amount of county taxes in 1958 in the first two months of the tax period.

A report this week showed that $227,007.25 had been collected in January and February, compared to around $276,265.69 for the same period a year ago. Welch said the receipts this year had included a check for some $66,000 from the Pennsylvania Electric company. He said it was impossible to make a direct comparison with last year since corporations have thirty days after getting their tax bill to remit the amount and still receive the five percent discount.

During January and February the five percent discount allowed on payment of county taxes had saved taxpayers $13,723.16.

The total of county taxes to be collected amounts to over $650,000.

Mr. Welch reminded taxpayers that all 1958 taxes must be paid by April 1st, otherwise the treasurer is compelled by law to arrange for forced collection.

The discount period on county taxes dropped to four percent for March and April and it will drop still lower, to three percent in May and June. No discount is allowed after June 30. The interest period starts September 1.

P.-T. A. Council To Meet

The Garrett County Council of Parents and Teachers will meet at the Grantsville Elementary school on Friday evening, March 20, at 8 o'clock, it was announced by Mrs. Irva Mickey, president.

David L. Curran, a field supervisor of Boys' Forestry camps, and a member of the State Welfare Department, will be the speaker.

Philadelphia and Detroit were declared cleanest big cities.

Honor Rev. W. E. Carlson

The three churches of the Accident Lutheran parish, U.L.C.A., surprised their pastor, the Rev. William E. Carlson, last Sunday afternoon with a special program and social hour in St. Paul's Lutheran church in Accident. Some three hundred members and friends from Grace church, Friendsville, St. John's church, the Cove, and St. Paul's, Accident, were present for the occasion. A combined choir from the three churches rendered music. A candle lighting service was held with ten young people of the parish, each one lighting a candle for the honored guest's ten years in the ministry as well as being pastor of th parish for ten years. Miss Joanne Collier sang a solo. An afternoon meditation was delivered by the Rev. Donald Anderson, secretary of the West Virginia Synod and pastor of Trinity Lutheran church at Keyser, W. Va.

Leslie Savage, vice-president of the joint council, presented Pastor Carlson with a leather chair for his study. A decorated cake which centered the buffet serving table, was presented to him and his family by Mrs. Edwin Richter who baked and decorated it. The cake was in the shape of an open Bible.

Mrs. Carlson was given a corsage by ladies of the three churches. The altar was decorated with cut flowers and potted plants.

Pastor Carlson came to the Accident parish in March, 1949, after gradnating from the Lutheran Theological seminary at Gettysburg, Pa.

He and his wife are the parents of three children, Christine, Richard and Barbara. Both the pastor and his wife are prominent in all community affairs as well as in their church activities.

SITTING PRETTY—Rev. William E. Carlson, of the Accident Lutheran Parish, recently completed ten years' ministry, all of them in his present charge. To commemorate the event, some 300 members and friends surprised the pastor Sunday afternoon with a special program and social hour at St. Paul's church. He was presented with the leather chair in which he is shown, and a cake in the form of an open Bible, inset in lower right hand corner.

Garrett National Raises Common Stock To $100,000

At a meeting of the stockholders of The Garrett National Bank in Oakland last Thursday the common stock was increased from $50,000 to $100,000 and every shareholder was given a 100 percent stock dividend. Announcement of the change was made this week by Wesley Schaible, cashier.

Mr. Schaible said the stockholders, in increasing the common stock, voted to give an extra share of stock for every share a person now holds. All shares show a par value of $10 per share. The transaction was accomplished by the transfer of $50,000 from the undivided profits account to capital accounts category.

Mr. Schaible said this would increase the loaning power of the institution. He was notified Tuesday that the plan had been approved by the Comptroller of the Currency, and that the plan was effective, as of March 18.

The new certificates will be mailed to stockholders sometime within the next two weeks, the cashier indicated.

Milk 2½ Million Dollar Per Year Industry In County

A survey of the amount of money paid to farmers in the county for the production of milk for the year 1958 shows the total is $2,477,041.63.

The survey was under direction of Charley B. Miller, sanitarian for the county health department. Miller said twelve different milk companies buying milk in the county cooperated in compiling the figures.

No figures were compiled that would show what it cost to produce the above amount of milk.

Miller pointed out that in addition to the above figures the milk industry brought quite a bit of money to the county in the form of payrolls, taxes, trucks and equipment. Located also in the county are two bottling plants, two milk receiving stations, one combination receiving station and cheese manufacturing plant.

For the transportation of this milk and milk products there are several trucks which come into the county and a number of trucks are owned and driven by county people. Miller estimated that the business, buildings, land, machinery trucks and employes were a considerable item in the total economy of the county.

Plan For Developing Water Resources of Potomac Discussed

A meeting to discuss a plan for water resource development for the north branch of the Potomac river, will be held in Annapolis today. The meeting began at nine o'clock in the offices of the Western Maryland senators.

In attendance will be State Senators and chairmen of the Delegations from the five Western Maryland counties along with Congressman John R. Foley and representatives of the Interstate commission on the Potomac River basin and the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers. Sen. B. I. Gonder and Leslie E. Savage, chairman of the House delegation, plan to represent Garrett county.

The plan has been prepared by the U. S. Army Engineer district of Washington. It is a proposed improvement plan combining the elements of flood control, increased industrial and domestic water supply, benefits to pollution abatement, recreation and the generation of supplemental water power. The proposals would have immediate impact at Kitzmiller, this county and Westernport, Allegany county.

Students Selecting Courses of Study For Ensuing Year

Southern High School students began signing up this week for the courses they desire to pursue next school year.

Kenneth Johns, principal, and Ernest Spoerlein, guidance counselor, began counseling students on Thursday. They expect to complete registration before the Easter holidays begin.

Each student is given an informative bulletin which outlines the courses offered. Mr. Johns indicated that there were some changes in the program of offerings for next year.

For the first time he said he hoped ninth grade students would be able to take a foreign language along with their general science, English, social studies and mathematics. "Whether or not the foreign language will be open to ninth grade students depends entirely on our staff allotment," Mr. Johns said.

Other changes include additional science courses in grades seven and eight and requiring all senior high pupils to carry four "solid" subjects. The latter is usually defined as any class which meets five times weekly and receives one full unit toward graduation. A third year of French will be offered if the demand is sufficient, he said.

All students in grades nine through twelve will take four years of English, four years of social studies, (including American history) two years of science and two years of mathematics regardless of the curriculum they follow. "These requirements fall in line with Dr. Conant's recommendations," Mr. Johns said.

Among the electives offered to students are journalism, band, chorus, industrial arts, home economics, art and several other specialized subjects. Creative writing and literature, a course designed to encourage additional writing skills beyond those normally required, and to study advanced literature is open to students in grades eleven and twelve. The course is taught by Miss Roberta Cogley.

An advanced course which will take students into first year college mathematics is open to seniors. This course is taught by Albert Ringer, chairman of the math department.

Students are being encouraged by both Mr. Johns and Mr. Spoerlein to take the brochure home to study and discuss their program of studies with their parents.

"Parents should give careful attention to this bulletin", Mr. Spoerlein said. "Should any question arise concerning our curriculum or should parents desire to consult the school in regard to their children's schedules next year, they should not hesitate to come to see us," he continued.

Following registration, Carl Everly, vice-principal and Mr. Johns will begin building the schedule. "Because of the length of time involved in constructing a schedule to fit the needs of 1150 pupils, the master schedule for next fall will not be ready until some time during the summer," Mr. Johns said.

"By having registration early, students' choices can be carefully studied. If the school feels that students should reconsider their proposed schedule, they can be counseled now while school is in session," he concluded.

To Return Here For Summer Season

Gene Yell, professor of dramatic art at the University of New Mexico, at Albuquerque, is planning to direct the Garrett County Summer Playhouse again this summer at McHenry, on Deep Creek Lake.

For the fifth consecutive year he and his wife and daughter will leave Albuquerque as soon as the University closes in June, and will bring with them a number of the University's most talented actors and actresses for the season of summer theatre.

At a meeting of the local board of directors last week the summer program will include eight plays same as last year. It was also announced that season tickets would be the same as last year at $10 for eight admissions. General admission will be $1.71 with children 12 or under at $1.10.

The names of the plays selected have not yet been announced.

Mr. and Mrs. Yell and daughter reside at their summer home at Hemlock Hollow, near Gortner, when they return to this area.

More Burglaries Occur in Oakland; Wave Still Unsolved

Five additional burglaries occurred in Oakland on Saturday night increasing the number that have been perpetrated over the past four or five weeks.

There was still no solution to the series of breaking and entering events, according to authorities.

The five places affected Saturday night were the Center street elementary school, Leighton Brothers garage, Mt. City Motor Co., Hawkinson Tread Service and Oakland Tire service.

At the center street school the intruders found only $1.75 in cash, but wrecked several locks on a walk-in refrigerator, and a number of other locks on desks and filing cabinets. They smashed an office door with a hammer.

They also entered the Oakland Tire service and obtained some $60 from four different places. At the Leighton Brothers garage, Mt. City Motor and Hawkinson Tread, they obtained only a small amount of cash, the total not being over $10.

Police said the intruders seemed to know exactly where they were and what they were doing, indicating the places had been "well cased."

Night Police Resigns

In the midst of all the difficulties with burglaries, Porter E. DeWitt, one of the night policemen, tendered his resignation to Mayor Russell L. Smith on Monday morning. DeWitt had been on the police force since May, 1954.

In the council chamber at the time of the resignation were Councilmen Robert E. Maroney and Henry W. McComas, and Henry Arnold, chief of police.

Normally there are two night policemen but in recent weeks a third man has been added in an effort to trap the burglars.

DeWitt was replaced immediately by Percy L. Lawton, of Mt. Lake Park, and he now is working in cooperation with Leslie E. Baker, the other night policeman.

Assisting the town authorities in the investigations are Sheriff James E. Frantz, Deputy Bruce Close, and members of the State Police.

Area Good Friday Services Planned

The Oakland area Good Friday service for Protestant churches will be held in the Oak Park Church of the Brethren, near the High school, from 12 o'clock noon until 3 p. m., on March 27.

The theme will be "Beneath the Cross of Jesus," and the meditations will be on the seven last words of Jesus from the Cross.

Seven ministers of the area will take part in the service with the following schedule:

"Father, forgive them for they know not what they do," the Rev. Randall D. Prince, pastor of Bethel Methodist church, Mt. Lake Park.

"Today Thou Shalt Be With Me in Paradise," the Rev. Bryan G. Blair, pastor of the Ev. U. B. Church, Loch Lynn Heights.

"Woman, Behold Thy Son," the Rev. James D. Mehring, rector, St. Matthew's Episcopal church, Oakland.

"Why Hast Thou Forsaken Me?" the Rev. Charles Godwin, pastor of St. Paul's Methodist church, Oakland.

"I Thirst," the Rev. Marshall L. Brown, pastor, Church of the Nazarene, Oakland.

"It is Finished," The Rev. Irvin Steeding, pastor of the Sand Flat Assembly of God church.

"Father, Into Thy Hands I Commend My Spirit," The Rev. C. P. Anderson, pastor Deep Creek Baptist church.

The Rev. William C. Rogers, pastor of the Mt. Lake Park Baptist church, and the Rev. Edward G. Wenger, pastor of the Oak Park Church of the Brethren, will assist with the services. The Oak Park choir will sing several anthems.

All persons are invited. The offering will be used by the Mt. Top Ministerial association.

Scout Council Plans Camporee In May

Plans for the Boy Scout council camporee, which will be held in the Deep Creek district this year, were made at a meeting last Thursday night by various scout leaders.

The planning session was in connection with the regular round table session of the Deep Creek District.

The camporee will be held in the Potomac State Forest area on May 22, 23 and 24. Camporee director will be Foster Riggs, of Mt. Lake Park, and Ralph M. Fauber, Oakland, will be his assistant.

Much of the planning of details will be in the hands of Fred Tichnell and L. J. Sacher, Jr., co-chairmen of the Camping and Activities district committee. George Stuck, district chairman, said that the U. S. Marine reserve unit of Cumberland, would conduct a first aid station and send a drill team. A display on game feeding is planned by Harold Harman, of the Fish and Game department. Members of troop 31, of Oakland, will have charge of the Saturday night fire. Dr. F. D. Custer will be master of ceremonies for the camp fire program. Church services are scheduled for Sunday morning for both Catholic and Protestant scouts.

Some eight hundred scouts from the entire Potomac Council are expected to converge on the camp site on Friday evening, May 22. They will be assigned to specific areas and these areas will be inspected by adult leaders. Various prizes will be awarded for efficiency, cleanliness and activity participation.

Last year's camporee was at Petersburg, W. Va., and several years ago was held at Camp Paradise, on Deep Creek Lake.

Welfare Board Gets New Case Worker

William Perry Shaffer, of Cumberland, has accepted a position as case worker for the Garrett County Welfare Board and will assume duties April 1.

He received the appointment from Robert W. Stemple, director of the County Welfare Board. Mr. Shaffer has been associated with Montgomery Ward and the Potomac Edison company.

A graduate of Babson Institute at Wellesley, Mass., Mr. Shaffer received his bachelor of science degree in business administration. He attended LaSalle High school for three years and was graduated from St. Vincent's Preparatory school at Latrobe, Pa., in 1947. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Luther P. Shaffer, is married to the former Miss Joann Boden and has five children. They plan to move to Oakland next month.

New Departments for County Fair Listed

Announcement of three additional new premium departments for this year's Garrett County Fair, was made at a meeting of the Board of Directors in the County Agent's office in Oakland on Monday night.

H. G. Gortner, president, said the new departments would be a Children's department, a Horse Pulling contest department, and a baby beef show and sale.

Mr. Gortner also announced that a budget of $5,900 for the premium list had been submitted to the State Fair Board, which is an increase over that of the past year. The increase will appear in beef, dairy, homemaking, foods, clothing, arts and crafts.

R. Nelson Phelps, secretary to the State Fair Board, told the group he was very well pleased with the local fair board set-up and that the fair was going far in meeting the needs of the county in this area. He said he was particularly impressed with the interest shown in livestock.

Mr. Gortner said he had a number of helpful suggestions on arrangements.

Additional plans for the fair, scheduled August 11 to 15, were carried out. The board has secured Frank Kotcha's carnival, of Washington, Pa., for the entire week. Two nights of fireworks is scheduled.

Entries for the fair this year will be received until 6 p. m., on Tuesday, August 11, and the fair will officially open that evening. The premium catalog is expected to be available earlier this year and Mr. Gortner suggested that advertisers wanting space should get in touch with the officials immediately.

Huge New Coal Field Being Opened by Western Maryland

Railroad Company Making Outlet For Some 25 Million Tons From Buffalo Coal Company

The Western Maryland Railway company is opening up a field of some 25,000,000 tons of soft coal in the southern section of the county, according to W. Arthur Grotz, president of the railroad.

The railroad is constructing a bridge from its main line in West Virginia, just beyond Bayard, at Wilson, across the North Branch of the Potomac River, into Garrett county.

The bridge and four-fifths of a mile of track, estimated to cost $200,000, will serve the new tipple being built by the Buffalo Coal Company. When it is in operation there will be an estimated daily production of from 1,000 to 1,500 tons.

To Be Completed May 1

Grotz said the railroad expects to attract other operators to this area. The section contains large reserves of coal owned by a subsidiary of Western Maryland. The track work will be completed by May 1 and operation of the new tipple will start at that time.

The George F. Hazelwood company, Cumberland, is building the foundations of the bridge and the railroad's engineering department will construct the span and lay the 4,200 feet of track.

Tipple Being Built

The Buffalo Coal company is constructing the tipple which was fabricated by the Irwin-McKelvy company, according to Robert E. Wooters, of Mt. Lake Park, manager of mines and timber lands for the railroad. The tipple is located 2,800 feet from the main line at Wilson and the track extends 1,200 feet into the county.

The project stems from the work of Wooters, who has been assigned to the coal and woodlands owned by the railroad's subsidiary holding company, the West Virginia Central and Pittsburgh Railway company.

The Buffalo coal firm is operated by three brothers, Carl Delsignore, president; Carmen Delsignore and Warren Delsignore. They also operate the Delsignore Lumber company in the southern end of the county and adjacent areas in West Virginia.

Wooters said the Delsignores plan tostrip mine about 2,500,000 tons of the Upper Freeport seam. This will be followed by deep mining by shaft or slope methods of the same seam of bituminous coal. The coal from the strip operation on the side of Backbone mountain will be trucked to the tipple, a distance of about three miles.

A trucking firm headed by a fourth Delsignore brother, George, will use large, tandem axle dump trucks capable or holding 17 to 20 tons.

The tipple will be 140 feet long from the dump bin and will be able to size and screen the coal.

On Dean's List

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Coddington, Friendsville, received word this week that their daughter, Louise, had been placed on the Dean's list in the Business and Public administration department at the University of Maryland.

Miss Coddington achieved a high academic average during the 1958-59 fall semester and recently became a pledge of Phi Chi Theta, sorority for professional business women. She is a graduate of Northern High school, class of 1957, and has been attending the University of Maryland for the past two years.

March Court Term Slated To Be Brief

The March Term of the Garrett County Circuit court will be "short and sweet," if predictions of the law enforcement officers and court officials are realized.

Court is scheduled to convene on Monday morning at 9 o'clock with Associate Judge Neil C. Fraley on the bench, at which time the criminal docket will be called.

Only nine indictments were returned by the March Grand jury, and three of these were against one individual. George Richard Sines is being held on two charges of incest and one charge of assault.

Herman Leo Garlitz and Albert Wayne McKenzie are charged with statutory burglary. Garlitz was sentenced to the House of Correction last week in Allegany county and McKenzie furnished bond for his appearance on Tuesday in the office of the Circuit Court.

There are charges of false pretense against two individuals who have not yet been apprehended and there is a charge of bastardy against one individual who also is still at large.

A number of appeal cases will be heard.

In a trial last week before Judge Fraley, Herman Alexander West who pleaded guilty to the theft of a Chevrolet sedan belonging to Rebecca Yoder, was sentenced to serve two years in the Reformatory for Males, dating from February 14, the date of his arrest, when he was lodged in the county jail. West was a member of the New Germany forestry camp for boys.

Fire Towers Open

Fire towers in Garrett and Allegany counties were opened this week and will remain open during the spring fire season.

In spite of the snow the warm sun and high winds have tended to increase the fire hazard.

The towers in Frederick and Washington counties were opened March 8.

Due to the comparatively light rain and snowfall during the winter months, forestry officials indicated the forest fire danger would be great.

They requested all landowners to be especially careful, to observe all burning laws, and to take precautions with permissible burning.

Belated Snowstorms Hit Garrett County

Two belated March snowstorms struck Garrett County during the week, one last Thursday and Friday bringing an eight-inch snowfall and causing schools to be closed for the day, and another one bringing about a three to four inch fall on Tuesday night and Wednesday morning.

Both storms were accompanied by high winds and falling temperatures.

Friday's storm was considered a true blizzard with winds up to 40 miles per hour. Drifting snows completely covered all the highways and secondary roads and kept a number of school busses from completing their regular trips.

Temperatures ranged from a low of 20 to 32 during last Thursday but dropped below the 20 degree mark Thursday night. Roads were wet and icy and visibility was extremely poor.

State roads commission crews worked around the clock cindering, sanding and plowing the main thoroughfares. County roads crews also were busy but some of the secondary roads became clogged with drifts.

Clearing skies on Saturday brought a thawing which continued through Sunday. Sunday night brought another sharp windstorm and cooler air which continued all day Monday. Snow began to fall Tuesday evening and continued Tuesday evening and continued during the night, dumping three to four inches on the landscape by 8 o'clock Wednesday morning. Clear skies brought more thawing and most of it had disappeared by nightfall.

Senate Cloakroom

By J. GLENN BEALL
United States Senator from Maryland

An Accident Could Cause War—Congress has taken cognizance of the Berlin crisis [illegible] Congressional Precedent Establishes [illegible]. We are not going to give one single inch in the preservation of our rights and in maintaining our responsibilities in this particular region, especially Berlin. There can be no negotiation on this particular point or right and of retention of responsibility." Russian Premier Khrushchev says, in effect, "War! Yes, if the United States and its Allies use force to stay in Berlin."

Despite these inflexible positions, I do not believe there will be shooting war. Why? Because Communists usually will settle for a lot less than they ask for. Their threats and implied threats will continue but they usually back up or slow down when they face real danger. The war ahead probably will be a war of nerves, not a shooting war. Shooting war if it should come, would be a war by accident, not by design.

Our Defense Program—This past week I heard testimony and took part in discussions in our Committee on Armed Services. Some members feel that the Army should be given permission to go ahead faster in antimissile work. Others insist that more research work has to be completed.

Admiral Burke, Chief of Naval Operations, says that we do not need to engage in an endless arms race. "As long as we have the assured capability of destroying Russia and as long as the Soviets know it," he says, it is "academic" whether Russia has half as many or several times ballistic missiles as we have.

Baltimore Get Shipbuilding Contract—The Bethlehem Steel Company, Key Highway, Baltimore, has been awarded a contract for the conversion of the "Prairie Mariner" into an attack transport, at a contract price of $10,266,000.00.

Ellicott City Mail Delivery—The Postmaster General informs me that city delivery services will be established at Ellicott City, as soon as the necessary vehicles and equipment can be arranged for.

Maryland Hospitals Get Federal Funds—Two hospitals in our State were granted Federal funds this past week for enlarging facilities. Suburban Hospital, Bethesda, $268,000; Peninsula General Hospital, Salisbury, $214,000.

"Thank You, One And All"—For your generous good wishes, by letter, card or telegram, to me while I was undergoing surgery in the Bethesda Naval Hospital and while I was convalescing, I am most grateful. I am glad to report that the operation was successful and I am now quite well.

Bills Sponsored Or Co-Sponsored—At my request, while I was in the hospital, Minority Leader Dirksen introduced my bill for licensing public adjusters in the District of Columbia.

The National Service Life Insurance Bill, which I co-sponsored, was introduced last week and referred to the Senate Finance Committee. This bill would benefit many veterans who never took out their insurance because they did not have family responsibilities when they were discharged and others who dropped their policies because of financial difficulties.

The Hawaii statehood bill, which I co-sponsored, was reported out of committee this past week and will now be considered on the Senate Floor, where, I believe, it will be passed.

"A Rose Is A Rose Is A Rose"—That Congressional perennial—the delicately fragrant problem of choosing a national flower—was in bloom again last week. Setting aside, for the moment, the weighty issues of the world, the Senate debated the value of various flowers. The carnation was lyrically described as a flower of "fertility, virility, stability, and courage." Members of the rose and corn-tassel blocs objected to the carnation as having mostly funereal value. Corn was eulogized—the corn-tassel, that is. Rose supporters countered: "Our flower has not been blemished with subsidy." Bluegrass was suggested as the national flower—on behalf of "the patient cattle, the gentle sheep, and the loving horse." And there the debate ended.

Are Wage Earners Better Off?—The Congress is considering labor-reform legislation designed to prevent racketeering elements from controlling labor unions. Labor unions will continue their role of asking for higher wages. When it is pointed out that factory wages averaged $2.12 an hour in 1958 as compared with only $1.35 ten years ago, the rebuttal is that the cost of living increased, and continues to increase.

The question is: Are wage earners better off now in terms of what their work will buy? Yes, says International Association of Machinists, a labor union, which has made a study of factory wages and retail prices over a long period. The findings may surprise you. To buy an electric refrigerator in 1948 required 178 hours of a factory worker's time; in 1958, 71 hours. A quart of milk in 1948, 9 minutes; in 1958, 7 minutes. A pound of bacon in 1948, 34 minues; in 1958, 21 minutes. A pound of chuck roast in 1948, 28 minutes; in 1958, 16 minutes. Almost everything is cheaper now when translated into minutes or hours of work. American factory workers put in less time now than they did 10 years ago to earn the necessities and luxuries of life.

Labor unions seem to have done well for their members.

Children's BIBLE STORY

BY S. A. KAPLAN

THE SIN OF TWO YOUNG MEN
(This story is based on Leviticus 10)

HELLO BOYS AND GIRLS! Have you ever heard the familiar proverb: "Sow a thought and you reap an act; sow an act and you reap a habit; sow a habit and you reap a character; sow a character and you reap a destiny?" In other words, what you say and do today, determines what you will be tomorrow. In today's Bible story we shall learn what happened to two young men as a direct result of having formed bad habits during their youth.

As you know, Moses had a brother whose name was Aaron. He was the high priest and his sons were all priests. To two of his sons, Nadab and Abihu, was given the work of burning incense in the holy tabernacle. In doing this service, they were commanded by God to use sacred fire, the fire that God Himself had kindled on the golden altar of incense. In love for their souls, God had [illegible] they could not possibly have misunderstood. In fact, all of God's commands are just [illegible] for He means exactly what He says.

Nadab and Abihu had been greatly honored by God. They, together with Moses and seventy of the elders were permitted to see God's glory on Mount Sinai, and they had communion with Him there. They could have had a long life of usefulness in God's service and their names could have been included among God's noblemen, had it not been for the bad habits they formed early in life and which eventually proved their ruin. What were some of these [illegible]. For one thing, they [illegible] and despite [illegible] not to indulge [illegible] strong drink, they [illegible] for these forbidden [illegible].

One day, during the worship hour, as the priests were seeking God in prayer, Nadab and Abihu took their censers and filled them with incense. They knew perfectly well that it was wrong for them to drink and especially while engaged in such a sacred service. But, sad to say, they had lost all [illegible] and this evil habit held them firmly in its grip. And so with flattened senses, and under the influence of drink, they dared to approach a pure and holy God. In their besotted condition they were unable to distinguish between the holy and the unholy, and so took common fire to burn incense instead of the sacred fire which God had commanded them to use. Their great sin cost them their lives, for we read that "fire went out from the Lord and devoured them." And now we have excellence recorded [illegible] God in His [illegible] could save you and all [illegible] from living into the same errors and ending with the same [illegible].

You see, boys and girls, this [illegible] body when God has entrusted it to us, is called in the Bible, "the Temple of God." A wonderful privilege! Let us be determined in a holy life. Health and happiness, [illegible] are the priceless rewards of temperate habits. Whether therefore ye eat or drink, or whatsoever ye do, do all to the glory of God."

Senate Cloakroom

By J. GLENN BEALL
United States Senator from Maryland

Senate Legislative Program—This past week the Senate approved the bill authorizing 48.3 billion dollars for the Space agency, approved the extension of the military draft for four years, and passed the bill providing for the admission of Hawaii into the Union.

Congress is expected to recess from Thursday, March 26, until Tuesday, April 7, for the traditional religious observances and a breathing spell from legislative debate. Before the recess, the Senate leadership hopes to have acted on (1) an insurance tax measure; (2) a compromise version of the housing bill; (3) an airport construction measure; (4) an educational TV bill; and (5) an amendment to the Railroad Retirement Act.

Armed Services Committee Busy—In executive session (committee members only), the Senate Committee on Armed Services, of which I am a member, was briefed on the Continental Air Defense Program by high ranking officers of the Air Force; there was also operational briefing by Navy officials.

Our committee reported H. R. 2260, the bill to extend the military draft for four years.

Legislation I Introduced—This past week I introduced two bills having to do with Antietam. One would enlarge the battle site park, and the other would enlarge the cemetery for the future burial of veterans.

Also introduced by me were three bills having to do with the District of Columbia. One would provide for the licensing and bonding of collection agencies. The second would stop fraudulent "closing-out" and "fire sales". The third would prescribe penalties for concealment of goods and merchandise for fraudulent purposes. I introduced a joint resolution proposing an amendment to the Constitution to permit the people of the District to vote in Presidential elections. We have voted statehood for Hawaii and Alaska, and it seems high time to do something about suffrage for the District of Columbia, the population of which equals the combined populations of the two new States.

I re-introduced my bill for the relief of small-business renters of buildings condemned under the Housing Act. It would permit them to borrow money at 3 per cent to assist in relocating.

$2500-A-Year May be Freed From Tax—The Senate may soon be considering the Simpson-Keogh Bill, which would permit doctors, lawyers, and self-employed businessmen to put aside up to $2500 a year, free from current income taxes, for retirement purposes. It has been reported out of committee in the House. I believe it will be hard for the bill to win approval without also providing tax relief for the rest of the taxpayers. General across-the-board income tax relief is receiving considerable support. The theme that lower tax rates provide increased revenue is being heard, and tax-cutting enthusiasts point out the historical fact that, when taxes were cut twice in the 1920's, once in 1948, and again in 1953, more revenue soon poured in. There are numerous facets to the general question posed by the Simpson-Keogh Bill.

Bainbridge Appeal Goes to White House—A delegation of prominent Cecil County citizens, representing that county's Chamber of Commerce and board of Commissioners, called on me this past week with an impressive presentation regarding the Bainbridge Naval installation, and I agreed to carry the message to the President. The delegation consisted of Messrs. H. L. Logan, of North East, H. B. Tome, of Rising Sun, and J. W. Calary, of Port Deposit. The presentation included a 56-page comprehensive review, outlining the history of Bainbridge, the effect on the area of the reduction in activities, and the repeated efforts of the Chamber of Commerce and others on behalf of Cecil County business.

In the conclusion, among other points it is shown that to utilize only a small portion of the base, leaving the bulk of available facilities idle, while crowding other bases, as is being done at present, is a waste of taxpayers' money.

I have assurances from the Secretary of the Navy that two installations are going forward at Bainbridge as planned: (1) Personnel Accounting Machine Installation; and (2) Enlisted Personnel Distribution Office, to handle accounting of all Naval personnel and distribution in the United States.

So far, so good—but this isn't enough. I will continue to work for the full re-activation of Bainbridge facilities.

Weapons System Looks To Frederick—The Secretary of the Air Force tells me his Department plans to conduct surveys around Frederick, Maryland, looking toward the installation of facilities for an operational base in that area.

The Moon, Venus, And Then Mars!—The Senate gave a boost to the nation's space-flight efforts with speedy authorization of funds.

Meanwhile, the X-15 rocket ship was carried aloft by a B-52 bomber for the first of a series of attached-flight tests expected to put man in space this summer. The X-5 will not be cut loose from its mother ship—unless something goes wrong. If it does, the plane will be dropped and the test pilot will find his way back to earth.

Success of Pioneer IV has given the whole space plan a lift. With Pioneer IV riding in its first week in permanent orbit around the sun, several things have been established. The United States possesses radio equipment capable of bridging hundred of thousands of miles of space. The radio in Pioneer IV, so small it could be held in the hand, transmitted clear signals to tracking stations from distances of more than 400,000 miles. The United States now has both the rocket hardware and the know-how to start a whole series of even deeper probes into the far reaches of space. Within three months, the Space agency expects to fire two rockets at Venus. Next target after that: Mars.

Upon our determination to excel in space technology and space exploration depends our survival.

He was fined $10 and costs in each case and was placed in the county jail in default of payment until March 13.

"Needs of Youth" Is Topic of Workshop

"Needs of Youth" was the subject of the second 4-H Local Leader Workshop held March 16 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Brekel, Hitting.

These needs presented on a flannelgraph by Mrs. Paul Still and E. Parkin Lusby, Assistant agents, are friendship, recognition, adventure, creative experiences, and group acceptance. Each one was discussed in relation to age groups and how they work into the objectives of 4-H club work.

Characteristics of boys and girls at different age levels, individual differences in young people, and relationship of adult leader to young people at different age levels were also discussed.

4-H local leaders attending were Mrs. Tait Oursler, Mrs. Roe Crowe, Mrs. Ralph Buckel, Miss Ivadene Matthews, Mrs. George Shawley, Harold Geeny, Gary Frantz, and also Shirley Matthews and Linda Oursler.

The third workshop will be held in the County Extension Office, post office building, on Monday March 23. Topic for this meeting will be "Responsibilities of the 4-H Club Leader" pointing out, organizing and holding club meetings, importance of parents in 4-H club work, guiding project selection, and encouraging completion.

Listen Americans!

BY GEORGE S. BENSON
President of Harding College

One of our columns published several weeks ago reported on the fantastic fact that known Communists for years have been working in positions that permit them to intercept top-secret messages going from the Pentagon, State Department and other vital agencies to our fighting defense installations and to governments of friendly nations throughout the world. The column has created widespread interest. Many citizens who read the report have protested the situation to their Congressmen, and this is the most effective citizenship action that could be taken! Some readers of the column, however, have expressed to me the feeling that the report was "too fantastic to believe."

But the report is true! A subcommittee of the U. S. Senate Judiciary Committee and a subcommittee of the House Un-American Activities Committee, although hamstrung every step of the way by the Supreme Court, Communist-serving lawyers and the legion of dupes whom the Communists are constantly mobilizing to protest exposure of their apparatus, have dug up and exposed enough facts in the situation to bring shivers of fright to any citizen.

Our nation has reached an absurd and shocking state of vulnerability when defective laws or insignificant legal technicalities can expose the whole heart of our national defense and security structure to known agents of the international Communist conspiracy! That is precisely what is happening. The whole fantastic story is told in official documents available from the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

These documents show: The American Communications Association, whose top officers have been identified as Communists in sworn testimony, has for years been the certified bargaining agent for companies operating domestic and overseas cables and radio facilities used by the Defense Department, the Department of State and other vital agencies. Many Communists (by their own admission in testimony) have access to top-secret messages to and from our vital defense establishments.

They can intercept messages; they can do the key work necessary to breaking our most secret codes; they can garble messages or change their meaning; they can substitute messages of their own. There are approximately 4500 members in ACA. They control most of the vital facilities—the North Atlantic Cable, the tie-lines and lease-lines—in and out of the Pentagon and the State Department. They are certified by the National Labor Relations Board and under present laws their Communist members cannot be fired from these strategic positions permitting espionage and sabotage.

A former Communist official of ACA, Michael Mignon, testified: The efforts of the Communist Party in subsidizing the union and offering whatever assistance they could in building the union . . . was so that if (the United States) should ever be at war with the Soviet Union, to be able to more effectively control the communications system of the country."

And yet in the last Congress, when legislation was introduced to permit the military to disassociate Communist saboteurs from these vital defense communications facilities, it failed! Every American citizen who cares about his family's future security should ask his Senators and Congressman what part they played in this failure and what they are now doing to clean up this situation.

Vegetable Gardening

Spring vegetables taste mighty good. Home gardeners have been pleasantly passing the time away on long winter evenings, poring over the multicolored pages of the 1959 seed catalogues.

Gardeners are advised not to go overboard on new vegetable varieties, according to Barry Carr, Assistant County Agent. Some of the old ones are still good and many of the new ones won't pan out. Leaflet 15, available at the County Agents' Office, lists the vegetable varieties recommended for Maryland gardens. Special emphasis is given to varieties best suited for freezing.

Spading or plowing of the garden should be done as early as weather permits. Many crops such as beets, carrots, lettuce, onions, and peas can be planted as soon in April as ground conditions allow.

Gardeners should be particularly careful not to sow seeds too deeply in early spring. Extension Bulletin 141 contains a complete list of vegetables with the proper planting depth. It is available free on request at the County Agents' Office.

THE AMERICAN WAY

EDITOR'S NOTE. George Peck is Honorary Chairman of the Laymen's National Committee, sponsor of National Sunday School and Bible Weeks.)

Praises be! Honesty and integrity, those blessed virtues, may have ceased to exist in all too many places throughout the U.S.A.—but not so in Farmington, Connecticut. On February 24, 1959, the Associated Press sent out a story regarding the Farmington High School refusing to accept a National Freedoms Foundation Award for an editorial carried in that school paper's annual "Brotherhood Week Issue."

The award, which carries a George Washington honor medal and $100, was rejected because it was based on an article contributed by an adult, and not by a student, as required by the rules of the Foundation.

Superintendent of Schools Robert E. Saunders, in declining the award had this to say: "I assume that the judges in making the selection figured that it was written by a student, overlooking the credit line. To accept the award would be unethical, and I notified the Foundation that because of this, we cannot accept it."

Felix Stump, Vice-Chairman of the Foundation, in withdrawing the award, expressed appreciation for the forthright honesty of the school and its officials, and said he hoped the Foundation would get another nomination from the Farmington High School this year.

The editorial was written by Louis E. Ball, Jr., editor of the weekly Farmington Valley Herald. We can think of nothing better to pass on to the readers of this column, than his editorial, which was carried in the Feb. 21, 1958 issue of the FAIRVIEW BEACON, Farmington High School's paper, and which inspired this praiseworthy display of honesty. It follows:

BROTHERHOOD—1958

Not long ago, a sociologist made the statement that the major social problem of the Nineteenth Century was the achievement of equality, while the major social problem of the Twentieth Century is the rentention of individuality. Historically, there can be little argument with the first premise. The second premise contains perhaps the greatest challenge that any of us will live to see.

You have to stop a moment and consider life in the year 1958. Mass communications, limitless travel, and a universality of teaching have combined to give us what we like to call "the highest standard of living ever known in the history of the world." Concurrently, it appears that each of us is caught in the crunching mesh of conformity. We must all look alike, talk alike—yes, even think alike. Those who do not conform to the mode become outcasts, or worse. Yet, few of us are aware that the ultimate in conformity is Communism. Sold under the false label of "peace, equality and brotherhood," it poses a grave threat to freedom and liberty, not only in Europe and Asia, but in our own America as well.

Experience has shown us the only effective means to halt its insidious growth is through brotherhood. Therein lies the greatest challenge that any of us will live to see, for true brotherhood is the recognition of individuality. Individual dignity, individual freedom, individual ability and individual responsibility are the four cornerstones of true brotherhood. Further, all freedom and liberty hang from these tenets.

Every totalitarian form, every instance of tyranny, and every mass injustice has required denial or deprivation of true brotherhood. Conversely, the traditional home of freedom was born with the demand for individuality in its manifold forms, and will continue to exist only through preservation of brotherhood, according to its true definition.

Many years ago, when America was founded, it was relatively easier to practice brotherhood and manifestly easier to preach that doctrine than to exemplify its principles. Today, in 1958, the very future of the United States yes, even that of the world itself—lies in your very hands. The future will be decided on the degree of understanding, of individual freedom, dignity, ability and responsibility, and on the extent of our adherence to them in our daily lives.

The Fairview Beacon can review the past with pride. It can look about itself in the present with confidence. It must look into the future with resolve, as all of us must.

Easter Is Heathen

The heathen were observing this day 2,000 years before Christ; God condemns it in Ez. 8:15-18. also Deut v. 13-14. God commands us to PROVE all things; hold fast that which is good (1 Thess. 5:21), and again He says because we have rejected knowledge, He will also reject us (Hosea 4:6, Pro. 1:20-33).

In observing Easter you are not only worshipping the heathen Queen of Heaven; you are rejecting your Saviour. In Matt. 12:38-40, we see the ONLY sign that Jesus gave to prove that He was the Christ, that He would be exactly three days and three nights in the tomb. If this was not so, then we don't have any saviour. Suppose He was crucified on Friday, as you hold—which he wasn't, as proved is the March issue of "Plain Truth" magazine; it was late in the afternoon when He was entombed. Count three days and three nights from Friday afternoon, does your count give you a Sunday morning resurrection? If so, you don't have any Saviour, only a judge. Do you see where just assuming, and not proving so important a matter has gotten you?

Other esteemed days of Baal worship are Sunday, on which day the heathen worshipped their Sun god, thus the name Sunday. Valentine's Day was explained in the February issue of Plain Truth. Next Mass of Christ or Christmas, see Jer. 10:2-4; there is a book entitled 4,000 years of Christmas.

On top of this vast revelation, these same idolatrous days, entail the dreaded Mark of the Beast mentioned in Rev. 13 and 14. For the astounding facts on this subject, send for the free booklet, "Mark of the Beast." God condemns these days in Hosea 2:8-11, Gal. 4:8-11 and Rev. 2:6, 15. Nicolaitics means followers of Nicholas (Strong's Bible Concord). He is revealed in this month's Plain Truth. Go to the library and read about these days of Balaam in the encyclopedias and Bible study aids. You are commanded no where in the Bible to observe any births, not even the resurrection of Christ, but you are commanded to keep the Passover forever, as a memorial of His sacrifice for us. Exodus 12:11, 14, Luke 22:19, and 1 Cor. 5:7-8. Jesus changed the symbols on that day, but He did not change the day of the Passover. For the above mentioned free literature write to Herbert W. Armstrong, Box 111, Pasadena, Calif.

Spray Elm Trees For Bark Beetles, Dutch Elm Disease

Spray elm trees now to prevent the feeding of elm bark beetles and infection by Dutch elm disease which may follow, advises Ted Bissell, Extension Entomologist University of Maryland. Many elm trees along streets and highways, in parks, and on private properties dies every year from the disease. Infected trees may suddenly wilt in midsummer or may decline over a period of years. In diseased trees brown streaks appear on the wood under the bark. This condition may be found in the twigs.

Application of DDT spray in the spring will help to ward off the disease and save the trees. A power spray machine either a mist blower or a hydraulic sprayer, is required for the job.

Bark beetles start emerging from old elm wood and fly to other trees the last of April. However, trees can be sprayed more effectively before the leaves come out; hence the spray is applied at this time.

Two measures other than spraying are necessary in the control of Dutch elm disease—the three are equally important. These are (1) the removal and destruction of diseased trees before bark beetles emerge, and (2) the feeding of trees to keep in vigorous condition. Cutting and feeding are also best done in the spring.

For further information on Dutch elm disease control see your county agent.

THE

WEEKLY SERMON
by
Pastor P. F. Nieuwkoop

SPEAKING PLAINLY

Words are but buckets of thought expressed by one person and received by another. If these words are not understood the process is useless. Some people seem to like to have their ministers speak in a lofty vocabulary. They pride themselves in having such a well educated man in the pulpit. They come away from the preaching service satisfied that they have done what was their religious duty but they have not learned anything. It seems that some people think that doctrines of religion are not supposed to be understood by the "layman". That is too deep for the average man's thinking and only the theologians are able to fathom the deep things of God. It's always dangerous to let another person do your thinking for you, especially is this true regarding your personal relationship to God. The Bible is God's revelation to you, the people. God has written the Gospel so plain that even children can understand it. God has ordained that preachers should teach the flock from the Word of God. He has not been called to feed intellectual giraffes, but sheep. He should speak so that people can understand and remember what he talked about after they leave the church services.

Tractor Workshop No. 2 Is Scheduled

Clean air for the engine and care of tires will be the subject of the second County 4-H Tractor Workshop to be held Friday, March 20, at 8:00 p. m. in the farm shop of Russell Teets, Accident.

A tractor engine takes in more than 8,000 gallons of air when it burns one gallon of fuel. And there is dirt in the air. If the dirt is not taken out it can soon damage an engine, says L. Harkin Lusby, Assistant County Agent. The care of the air cleaner will be given by the tractor leader, Paul Stull. In addition, points on the care of rubber tires will be stressed as tires are now standard equipment on nearly all farm tractors.

The second tractor workshop is an outgrowth of the first one held on March 13. Hi-Ers attending recommended that additional material be covered in future meetings. There will be two additional workshops besides the one this Friday which will be announced when arrangements have been completed.

Four-Hers attending the March 13 workshop included James and Ralph Buckel, Dave Beachy, Norman Resh, Bels and Simon Opel, Charles Ash, Joe Buckel, Roger and Bobby Beitzel. Other leaders assisting in the workshop included Russell Teets, Dale Gletchell, and Barry Carr. Mr. Teets demonstrated functions and operations of various items on the tractor with old engine parts and materials in his shop. The first meeting covered the subjects of general lubrication, steering and front wheel operation. It included a demonstration on packing the bearings on the front wheels to eliminate needless wear because many are not kept properly adjusted or lubricated.

Who's Who At Northern High

By Ruth Westerfield

MISS PHYLLIS CODDINGTON

Among the student body of N. H. S. I would like for you to meet one of Northern's busy beavers, Miss Phyllis Coddington. You may prefer to call her "Stub", almst a life-time nickname.

This "short," ambitious, brown-eyed and brown-haired senior is President of Northern's chapter of Future Homemakers of America. Phyllis is planning to attend the F.H.A. State Convention to be held in Salisbury in April. She is business manager of the North Star school yearbook. Phyllis was one of the students from N.H.S. who toured the United Nations Building in New York City this past fall.

Some of you know Phyllis started her career this past summer. She attended Scott's Tri-State Beauty Academy in Cumberland and plans, after graduation from high school, to continue for nine months at Scotts to finish her beauty course. After the required amount of time, she hopes to establish her own shop.

Miss Coddington acted as a model at a Cosmetologist Convention held in Washington, D. C. where she received a Realistic Permanent Wave.

During school hours she maintains a busy schedule: yearbook, home economies, office practice, English, bookkeeping, and P. O. D. I have been opposite Phyllis several different debates and, may I say, she can put up some good arguments.

I find her interests and hobbies to be interesting: latest styles, fashions, and, most of all, "hair-do" and "hair-color," dancing and writing letters to one special "Greenleaf."

Phyllis is the third youngest of five daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Coddington and lives on Maple Street in Friendsville.

She is an active young teen-ager in her church organization and she is a member of the Grace Lutheran Church where she serves in the church choir and Luther League.

NEWS FROM THE Ruth Enlow Library

BY EDITH BROCK

The Library will be closed all day on Good Friday, March 27.

Easter stories and poems from Miss Friend's room at Center Street School are on display in the young people's room.

Books have been given to the library this week in memory of Danny Ray Miller, Edward M. Weeks, and Mrs. John DeWitt.

Dr. and Mrs. Eugene Bannigartner, Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Alvarez, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Harned and M. R. Garland have presented books to the library.

New books of special interest during the Lenten season are Peter Marshall's "The First Easter," edited by Catherine Marshall, Bishop Fulton J. Sheen's "Life of Christ," Frank Slaughter's "The Crown and the Cross," and April Oursler Armstrong's "The Tales Christ Told," and Asbury Smith's "The Twelve Christ Chose".

Books about the Bible are always in demand. The 12-volume "Interpreter's Bible" has proved very useful to many students of the Bible. J. B. Phillips' "The New Testament in Modern English" is a new translation combining in one volume four of the religious writer's earlier books.

Other recent books of interest to students and teachers include "Great Ideas of the Bible" by Lynip, "Introducing the New Testament" by Archibald Hunter, "The Bible Speaks to You" by Robert Brown, and "Toward Understanding the Bible" by Georgia Harkness.

Light is thrown on Biblical history, geography and life in such books as Ramm's "Early Sites of Christianity", Ilton's "The Bible was my Treasure Map," Van der Ploeg's "The Excavations at Qumran," Glueck's "Rivers in the Desert." "Westminster Historical Atlas to the Bible", and Gordon's "The World of the Old Testament".

New novels based on biblical characters are "Solomon and Sheba" by Jay Williams, "The Thorn of Arimathea" by Frank Slaughter, and "The Unanointed" by Laurene Chinn.

New Trial Ordered In Slander Case

The Court of Appeals last Friday ordered a new trial in a slander suit by a Garrett County service station owner against a Baltimore trucking firm.

The case was sent back to Washington County Circuit court, a neutral ground where Judge D. Kenneth McLaughlin had directed a verdict in favor of the trucking outfit despite a jury verdict against both defendants, the firm and one of its employes.

The high court said the case properly went to the jury but sent it back for a new trial because of errors in the judge's instructions to the jury.

Judge McLaughlin had ordered new trials for both defendants because of errors in his instructions, but he later granted the firm's motion for a verdict notwithstanding the jury's decision.

The suit was brought by Cecil E. Lewis, operator of Whitie's Truck Stop on U. S. 50, against Accelerated Transport-Pony Express, Inc., and Robert Broderick, safety supervisor for the firm.

It concerned a remark made by Broderick at a meeting of company truck drivers. The meeting involved a company order placing the truck stop "off limits."

Judge McLaughlin ruled that the remark would be slanderous but the high court said it was up to a jury to determine whether Broderick was acting "within the scope of his employment. . .when he spoke the words complained of."

A change in time of services for Palm Sunday and Easter to accommodate an extra service, has been announced by the Rev. Charles Godwin, pastor of St. Paul's Methodist church in Oakland.

The two services each Sunday will be identical, using the the same organist and choir. At the 11:15 service on Palm Sunday the sacrament of baptism will be administered and new members will be received. These additional services also will be conducted on Easter Sunday morning.

In addition there will be services both Wednesday and Thursday nights of Holy Week. There will be Holy Communion at the Thursday evening service.

New Park At Lake To Open This Year

Deep Creek Lake State Park will be opened to the public this summer, according to William H. Johnson, district forester. It has been under construction for three years.

Opening of the expansive area on the Meadow Mountain side of the lake is contingent on the completion of the road to the bath house and its parking areas, and finishing the road to the camping area.

Johnson said both of these projects are under contract. The bath house has been finished with the exception of minor plumbing installations and the road to it is in final stages. The area around the bath house still has to be landscaped.

Two parking areas in the picnic section have been finished and numerous picnic tables have been placed throughout the shady, lakeside groves. A number of fire places also have been constructed.

The water system is partially finished. The reservoir is nearing completion and drinking water is to be piped to all areas.

Under construction is a wash house for the camp area. Ready for use is the comfort station to serve the picnic area. Johnson said the State Department of Forests and Parks still does not know the appropriation the General Assembly will grant the Park. He stated that boat docks and a concession are still needed.

Personal income of Americans rose to record rate in February.

Sunday is a special day for Sheila. She likes to go to church.

For one thing, the church is beautiful. Sheila likes to look at the soft light filtering through the colored glass windows. She likes the delicate scent of the beautiful flowers, and the majestic tones of the organ. She likes to sing, too, and she knows several hymns "all the way through," even without the hymnal to guide her.

She particularly likes this season because she knows that Palm Sunday is a time for special rejoicing in the Church.

Sheila feels the way she does because her parents have taught her that going to church is a privilege and a joy. Is Sunday just another day for your child, or is it—as it is for Sheila—a special day?

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

International Uniform Sunday School Lessons

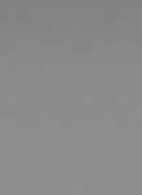
Bible Material: Luke 23:18-19.
Devotional Reading: I Corinthians 1:18-26.

The Cross

Lesson for March 22, 1959

IN A POPULAR novel of some years ago, dealing with the time of Jesus and afterwards, the Roman officer who had to crucify Jesus is represented as being quite shocked by the whole idea, having seldom if ever seen a crucifixion. This is a historical slip on the author's part; for in the Roman world, a far more brutal one than ours, fatal floggings and crucifixions were pretty common affairs. They were so common, in fact, that although we have four gospels each telling about the crucifixion of Jesus, not one gives any details at all about the actual crucifixion itself. Such details were not necessary; most readers of the gospels in those days had seen such things and did not need to be reminded.



Dr. Foreman

On the Cross

What was extraordinary there on Calvary was not the cross itself. There where three in use that one morning; the one on which Jesus died had very likely been used before and would be used again. They do not nowadays make the electric chair over for every new criminal.

No, the extraordinary thing was not the cross, as ugly an instrument of torture as ever seared the eye of man. What the gospels take more pains in describing was what happened on the cross. No two of the gospels tell precisely the same story, though they do not contradict one another. Luke's story has been selected for this week's study. Consider a few facts that Luke's story high-lights. First is that an innocent man hung on that central cross. That he died between two bandits only brings out more strongly his own innocence.

Furthermore, it is extraordinary that this Jesus made no complaints about having been "framed" as many an innocent man in His place would have done. Jesus' mind was filled with the thoughts of others rather than himself. The reader will find it revealing to read the stories of Christ's death carefully.

Through the Cross

If you did not already know otherwise, you might think that as time went on, people who adored Jesus would prefer to forget that bitter ending of his life on the cross. Quite the contrary; Christians have always gone to some trouble to remember it. Every time we observe Communion we are proclaiming the Lord's death. The communion table in many a church has carved around it the words "In Remembrance of Me." But what holds the church's mind and heart is not merely the historical fact, that a certain teacher named Jesus was unjustly executed on criminal charges. The church believes that through the cross we have God's forgiveness. We believe that this was not a merely human tragedy. We believe that this was actually the suffering of God on our behalf and in our place; that the self-giving, dedicated, forgiving spirit of Christ is a revelation of God's own heart. Browning put it very simply: "Thou must love Me, who have died for thee."

At the Cross

But there are two ways of believing this. One is the belief of admiration. What wonderful love this is, that the godly should die for the ungodly, the innocent for the guilty; that God should offer up his own son "for us all!" We can stand at a distance and admire the sacrifice . . . and get no good from it at all. We have to stand at the Cross, we have to believe in a more personal way than the way of admiration. The same Saint Paul who wrote that God gave up his own Son for us all, put it much more personally when he wrote, "I live by faith in the Son of God, who loved me and gave himself for me." (Gal. 2:20.) Standing at the Cross, as no one can do for another but each one for himself, and you for yourself—standing there we see ourselves in a new way, we are forced to see that we are the same kind of people as put Jesus on that cross, we are sinners. We see God in a new way—we see him dealing with sin in a new way, taking the effects of it upon himself. And looking from the Cross, we see other men too, as brothers for whom Christ died.

REV. M. I. BROWN
Church of the Nazarene

He Keeps the Key

Now thanks be unto God, which always causeth us to triumph in Christ, and maketh manifest the savour of the knowledge by us in every place. (II Cor. 2:14)

Is there some problem in your life, a dark sky? Are there passages that seem full of mystery? Submit your problem to the Spirit of God. In the meantime, continue along the path which you have been already walking providing you have sought and found the Will of God. He holds the key and goeth before.

Are there doors closed to you of which you would gladly enter! But God keeps the key and has not opened this hoped for experience unto you. When doors are shut right and left there is an open road to greater experiences in the Grace of God. By and by God will make clear His purpose. He sometimes answers "No" to what you believed an unanswered prayer.

Perhaps there are dangers, fears, or doubts and you dread what life may hold. He goeth before and keeps the key. The key to danger—safety. The key to fear—calm. The key to doubt—faith. "Cast your care upon him; for he careth for you." His Word can strengthen, can restore us. Let your heart dwell on his desire for you. This is your consolation and guarantee to salvation.

Unfailing comfort, sweet and blessed soul rest is yours. To know that, to every door, He keeps the key. "Peace, I leave with you, my peace I give unto you; not as the world giveth, give I unto you. Let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be afraid." John 14:27.

Christ the blessed Son of God prayed "Not my Will, but Thine." He too recognized that God's only open door to the salvation for mankind was an obedient heart. Jesus Christ was God's key that rent the veil so that we can enter into his very presence. He conquered death, hell and the grave. Christ our key.

Wonderful, wonderful Jesus
In my heart He implanteth a song
A song of deliverance, of courage, of strength
In my heart He implanteth a song.

Congressional Viewpoint

Sen. John Marshall Butler

Relentless Communist Espionage

Both Dr. Willard F. Libby, of the Energy Commission, and General Arthur G. Trudeau, Chief of Research and Development for the Army, acknowledge that Soviet Russia's technological progress in this space age has been enhanced by espionage activity since World War II. These top-level officials have differing opinions as to the extent to which the Communists were benefited by this "cloak and dagger" effort, but each agrees that the stealing of secrets has definitely taken place to the detriment of the United States.

Top American counterintelligence and security officers 18 months ago told the Congress that the Federal Government cannot remove known Communists and professional saboteurs from classified plants producing parts and component sections for priority missiles and other essential industrial areas. Experience has shown that a twisted wire, a badly soldered connection, or something equally as simple can cause the failure of a multi-million dollar missile. Yet, under existing law, our Defense establishment is powerless to deal with some 2,000 identifiable Communists and potential spies, except to shift them to less sensitive duties.

The methods employed by a saboteur to inflict damage are as varied as human imagination. When such perverse talents are exercised, the loss can be as serious as a major military reverse. The employment of known Communists in essential industrial and defense plants merely intensifies the possibilities of sabotage. Common sense dictates the removal of such persons from these facilities.

What is more certain than that, in the event of a war of any type the Communist conspiracy will stop at nothing to sap our industrial strength by every devilish device of which their conspirators and dupes are capable. Should we wait until an actual outbreak of open hostilities before giving appropriate governmental authorities power to act effectively to safeguard our industrial production against sabotage? I say no! After the defense establishments are sabotaged, after a moon shot has failed, it will be too late to take precautionary measures and the punishment of the guilty will not rebuild our factories or supply implements for survival.

Accordingly, I have introduced Senate Bill 776, the Defense Facilities Protection Act of 1959, which would prescribe rules and regulations to prevent access to defense facilities by those likely to commit sabotage, espionage, or other subversive acts. The Department of Defense for a number of years has imperatively requested such authority. And, if Dr. Libby's and General Trudeau's words have any meaning, this legislation should be adopted immediately.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

John J. McMullen, chairman, and Edgar T. Bennett, constituting the State Roads Commission of Maryland, acting for and on behalf of the State of Maryland vs.
Harold H. Pigott
Mollie Hawkins, widow
Tom Hawkins, tenants

No. 1482 Miscellaneous in The Circuit Court for Garrett County.

The object of this suit is to acquire by condemnation certain tracts or parcels of land situate in the Sixth Election District of Garrett County, Maryland, belonging to Harold H. Pigott, Mollie Hawkins, widow, and Tom Hawkins, tenants.

The Petition states that the Petitioners constitute the State Roads Commission of Maryland and are charged with the construction and maintenance of highways and bridges in the State of Maryland.

That they have determined it to be necessary and proper to acquire for the purpose referred to in said Petition, and in connection with the construction and maintenance of the highway system of the State, certain tracts or parcels of land situate in the Sixth Election District of Garrett County, consisting of 1.64 acres, more or less, lying between the lines marked "Right of Way Line" as shown on Plats Nos. 20341 and 20342, which is being taken in fee simple, and 0.24 acres, more or less, also shown on said Plats, for slope and drainage easements.

TOGETHER with the buildings and improvements thereon and the rights, alleys, ways, waters, roads, privileges, appurtenances and advantages to the same belonging or in anywise appertaining, together with the right or easement to create, use and maintain on the land shown hatched thus ////// on the herembefore mentioned Plats Nos. 20311 and 20342, insofar as their property rights extend, such drainage structures and facilities as are necessary to adequately drain the roadway and or adjacent property and such slopes as are necessary to retain the said roadway and or adjacent property, it being understood that at such time as the contour of the land over which this right or easement is acquired is changed so that this easement required for slopes is no longer necessary to support or protect the property hereby to be acquired in fee simple, then said easement for slopes shall cease to be effective, together with the right to create, use and maintain on or across the adjacent land of the defendants, such waterways and or inlets and outlets as are necessary for the drainage structures indicated in the legend shown in the left hand corner of the hereinbefore mentioned Plats Nos. 20341 and 20342, together with any right, title, and interest of the defendants in and to the existing bed of U. S. Route 219, lying between the lines marked "Right of Way Line" as shown on Plats Nos. 20341 and 20342, and together with the perpetual right to erect and maintain between October 1st and April 1st of each and every year, on the adjacent land of the defendants, within one hundred feet of the land and hereby condemned in fee simple, snow fences, provided that said snow fences shall not interfere with the construction and use of buildings now erected or hereafter erected, with growing crops, or roadways.

The Petition further states that the said property is now held under the provisions of a deed from Mollie Hawkins, widow, to Harold H. Pigott, dated January 3, 1944, and recorded on July 10, 1944, in Liber A.G.R. No. 133, Folio 289, among the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland.

That Mollie Hawkins and Tom Hawkins are Tenants on said property, the terms of which are unknown to your Petitioners.

That the land and property is sought to be condemned in connection with the State System of Roads and Bridges, and especially for the construction of the U. S. Route 219, Hoyes toward McHenry, in Garrett County, Maryland.

That the Petitioners are unable to make an agreement with the defendants and that the Petitioners have deposited a check in the amount of Four Thousand Five Hundred ($4,500.00) Dollars, in the hands of the Clerk of the Circuit Court for Garrett County, in conformity with the provisions of Article 89B, Section 9, Public General Laws of Maryland, said Petitioners deeming the said sum to be the fair value of the land taken and the damages done to the property, and that it is in the public interest for them to take possession immediately upon depositing said money and that they are taking possession for the aforesaid purposes.

That the defendant, Harold H. Pigott, is a non-resident of the State of Maryland, residing at R.F.D. No. 2, Shinnston, W. Virginia.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN to Harold H. Pigott, who is a non-resident of the State of Maryland, residing at R.F.D. No. 2, Shinnston, W. Virginia, to appear in this Court, in person or by solicitor, on or before the 24th day of April, 1959, and show cause, if any they have, why the said property or said defendant's interest therein should not be condemned as prayed in said petition.

John J. McMullen, Chairman, and Edgar P. Bennett, Constituting the State Road Commission of Maryland, Use [illegible] on behalf of the State of Maryland v.

Delia A. Hughes, Helen Hughes, Widow; Mary Ellen Pendergast, Edward M. Pendergast, Jr., Ellena M. Pendergast, Rosalie M. Pendergast, James E. Pendergast and Helen Pendergast, his wife, and Romanus C. Pendergast, Heirs of Edward M. Pendergast, Sr., deceased.

No. 1431 Miscellaneous. In the Circuit Court for Garrett County.

The object of this suit is to acquire by condemnation certain tracts or parcels of land situate in the Fourteenth Election District of Garrett County, Maryland, belonging to Delia A. Hughes, Helen Hughes, Widow; Mary Ellen Pendergast, Edward M. Pendergast, Jr., Ellena M. Pendergast, Rosalie M. Pendergast, James E. Pendergast and Helen Pendergast, his wife, and Romanus C. Pendergast, Heirs of Edward M. Pendergast, Sr., Any Unknown Heir or Heirs of Edward M. Pendergast, Sr., Helen Hughes, Widow, and Delia A. Hughes, Owners of Coal and Mineral Rights.

The Petition states that the Petitioners constitute the State Roads Commission of Maryland and are charged with the construction and maintenance of highways and bridges in the State of Maryland.

That they have determined it to be necessary and proper to acquire for the purpose referred to in said Petition, and in connection with the construction and maintenance of the highway system of the state, certain tracts or parcels of land situate in the Fourteenth Election District of Garrett County, consisting of 2.19 acres, more or less, lying between the lines marked "Right of Way Line" as shown on Plats Nos. 14625 and 14626, which is being taken in fee simple, 0.98 acres, more or less, also shown on said plats, for slope and drainage easements and 0.05 acres, more or less, also shown on said Plats, for stream changes and facilities.

TOGETHER with the buildings and improvements thereon and the rights, alleys, ways, waters, roads, privileges, appurtenances and advantages to the same belonging or in anywise appertaining, together with the right or easement to create, use and maintain on the land shown hatched thus [illegible] of the hereinbefore mentioned Plats Nos. 14625 and 14626, insofar as their property rights extend, such drainage structures and facilities as are necessary to adequately drain the roadway and or adjacent property and such slopes as are necessary to retain the said roadway and or adjacent property, it being understood that at such time as the contour of the land over which this right or easement is acquired is changed so that this easement required for slopes is no longer necessary to support or protect the property hereby to be acquired in fee simple, then said easement for slopes shall cease to be effective, together with the right or easement to create, use and maintain on the land shown cross-hatched thus [illegible] on the hereinbefore mentioned Plats Nos. 14625 and 14626, insofar as their property rights extend, such stream changes and facilities as are necessary in the opinion of the State Roads Commission within said area, together with the right to create, use and maintain on or across the adjacent land of the defendants, such waterways and or inlets and outlets as are necessary for the drainage structures indicated in the legend shown in the left hand corner of the hereinbefore mentioned Plats Nos. 14625 and 14626, together with the perpetual right to erect and maintain between October 1st and April 1st of each and every year, on the adjacent land of the defendants, within one hundred feet of the land hereby condemned in fee simple, snow fences, provided that said snow fences shall not interfere with the construction and use of buildings now erected or hereafter erected, with growing crops or roadways, together with any right, title, and interest of the defendants in and to the existing bed of Maryland Route 39, lying between the lines marked "Right of Way Line" as shown on Plats Nos. 14625 and 14626 and together with all of the coal, minerals and or other matter in the cubic area of that portion of the State Right of Way shown on State Roads Commission Plats Nos. 14625 and 14626.

The Petition further states that the said property is now held by Helen Hughes, Widow and Delia A. Hughes, Legatees, under the Will of Thomas J. Hughes, deceased.

That Mary Ellen Pendergast, Edward M. Pendergast, Ellena M. Pendergast, Rosalie M. Pendergast, James E. Pendergast, and Helen Pendergast, his wife, and Romanus C. Pendergast are heirs at law of Edward M. Pendergast, deceased.

That the land and property is sought to be condemned in connection with the State System of Roads and Bridges, and especially for the construction of the Maryland Route No. 39 Section to W. Virginia State Line in Garrett County, Maryland.

That the Petitioners are unable to make an agreement with the defendants and that the Petitioners have deposited a check in the amount of Five Hundred Twenty Five ($525.00) Dollars, in the hands of the Clerk of the Circuit Court for Garrett County, in conformity with the provisions of Article 89B, Section 9, Public General Laws of Maryland, said Petitioners deeming the said sum to be the fair value of the land taken and the damages done to the property, and that it is in the public interest for them to take possession immediately upon depositing said money and that they are taking possession for the aforesaid purposes.

That the defendants, Delia A. Hughes, is a non-resident of the State of Maryland, residing at 20 Judicial Street, Pittsburgh 11, Pennsylvania; Mary Ellen Pendergast, is a non-resident of the State of Maryland, residing at 15840 Ellis Street, Detroit 28, Michigan; Edward M. Pendergast and Helen Pendergast, his wife, are non-residents of the State of Maryland, residing at 312 Spring Avenue, Clarksburg, West Virginia.

That your Petitioners are unable to designate by name all persons having an interest in the hereinbefore described parcel of land by reason of the indefinite nature of same, and your Petitioner accordingly make parties to this proceeding all Unknown Heir or Heirs of Edward M. Pendergast, Sr. deceased, to the end that all of their right, title and interest of whatever extent or character, may be divested of them and vested in the State Roads Commission of Maryland, acting for and on behalf of the State of Maryland.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN to Delia A. Hughes, who is a non-resident of the State of Maryland, residing at 20 Judicial Street, Pittsburgh 11, Pennsylvania; Mary Ellen Pendergast, who is a non-resident of the State of Maryland, residing at 15840 Ellis Street, Detroit 28, Michigan; Edward M. Pendergast, Jr., who is a non-resident of the State of Maryland, residing at 23181 Gainford Street, Woodland Hills, Los Angeles, California, and James E. Pendergast and Helen Pendergast, his wife, who are non-residents of the State of Maryland, residing at 312 Spring Avenue, Clarksburg, West Virginia, and to any and all persons having any interest whatsoever in and to the above described property, whose names and addresses are unknown to your Petitioners, to appear in this Court, in person or by solicitor, on or before the 21st day of April 1959, and show cause, if any they have, why said property or said defendants' interest therein should not be condemned as prayed in said petition.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Nellie Holtschneider Johnson, who passed away March 16, 1950.

Nine long years have passed, dear Nellie
Since that dreary night in March
When an angel came and called her
Safe beyond all grief and pain.
How in our hearts we'd love to stray
Along the paths of yesterday
To hear her laugh, to see her smile,
To talk with her a little while.
But there is comfort in the thought
That a loving God knows best.

Sadly missed by her mother and family, Mrs. Fred Holtschneider, Deer Park, Md.

Easter Message - - - - -

By Arthur Lichtenberger, Presiding Bishop of the Episcopal Church

THE CHRISTIAN faith can be known only from the inside. The moment you say "I believe in God" you become involved; if you do not become involved, you do not mean what you say.

How evident this is at Easter time! There were no curious spectators at the Resurrection; our Lord made no general public appearances. He showed himself alive to those who believed in him, and those who believed in him knew they were raised to new life with him.

So it is with us. When we believe that Christ rose from the dead we are caught up with him into a different kind of life from what we knew before, we are made partakers of his Resurrection. A Christian has working in him that same power of God which raised Jesus from the dead.

How desperately we stand in need of that transforming power today. We need it in our own lives to give us faith and patience and courage. We need it working through us to bring order and justice and unity to the world. And that Resurrection power is at hand! That's what Easter tells us: it is here.

That power, of course, is not just for us. In fact, it cannot work in us unless it works through us. The power of Christ's Resurrection drives us to be workers for freedom and brotherhood in His name. To be a partaker of his Resurrection is necessarily to be a witness to his saving power.

Steps Taken To Carry Out Fire Investigator's Wishes

The Board of Education received this week a list of recommendations relative to fire hazards in the various schools of the county from John J. Meyers, chief state fire investigator.

Willard L. Hawkins, county superintendent, said that the school board has instituted prompt action to see that every recommendation of the investigator is complied with and has set September 1 as the deadline for compliance with the recommendations as near as it is possible to do so.

He said no situations prevailed in county schools as far as fire hazards are concerned that have not existed for many years.

Among the recommendations which are to be given priority are improvement of electrical wiring at Grantsville and North Glade schools, installation of more fire extinguishers in some of the schools. Among safety items recommended are fireproof ceilings in all boiler rooms, flameproofing of old stage curtains, outside ventilation to boiler rooms, crash bars on all outside doors where they do not exist, metal closets for storage of gasoline.

Mr. Hawkins pointed out that much had been done in recent years to eliminate fire hazards such as fireproof stairway and outside fire escape at Accident; improved boiler room conditions in many schools, elimination of fire trap basement classrooms at Red House, removal of over 350 children from Annex building to fireproof Dennett Road school, greater safety for 200 children in new fireproof route 10 school housing of all high school students in two fire resistant buildings, inspection several times annually of all buildings by a board staff member to see that all fire extinguishers were in working order, boiler rooms free of excess inflammable materials and noticeable fire hazards eliminated.

Mr. Hawkins said compliance with all recommendations would cost several thousand dollars but he said the board felt these safety measures must be given priority as far as available funds are concerned and has ordered speedy action in carrying out all recommendations regarded as urgent.

Potomac Council Gets District Scout Executive

Landon Minnick, of Roanoke, Va., has accepted the position of district scout executive of Potomac Council, Boy Scouts of America, effective April 1, E. S. Burke, council president, announced today.

The position has been vacant since Wilbert R. Sifton resigned in February to accept a similar position in McKeesport, Pa.

Council Executive Willis V. Smith, said Minnick would reside in Keyser and would work primarily with the Tri-Valley district which includes 40 scouting units and approximately 850 boys.

Mr. Minnick has been a district executive in the Blue Ridge scout council, Roanoke, for five years. He and his wife Mabel are the parents of two sons and one daughter.

The Potomac Council again will have a staff of three full time professional scouters. Last September Charles W. Newman was added to the staff. He works primarily with Nemacolin and Deep Creek districts.

Plan Easter Program

The Youth Fellowship of the Corinth Methodist church will present an Easter program on Sunday evening March 29, at 8 o'clock. All are invited.

March Circuit Court In Session One Day

The criminal docket of the March term of the Garrett County Circuit court began Monday and most of it was completed the same day.

Three cases against one individual were set for trial on Monday, April 6, four bad check charges were heard and one youth was given a suspended term for statutory burglary.

The trial of George Richard Sines on two charges of incest and one of assault was set for April 6 before Associate Judge Neil C. Fraley.

Tommy Crites and Loring John Crites, both of the Moorefield section, pleaded guilty to charges of passing bad checks. The former was charged with passing one check for $145.93 and another for $382.38, at the Friend stockyard at Accident.

The latter was accused of passing one check in the amount of $145.81 and another for $83.79, both on the same stockyard. The judge was informed there were insufficient funds in their accounts at that time to meet the value of the checks.

Judge Fraley handed them each one year sentences in the House of Correction, but indicated the sentence would be suspended providing the two men made restitution to the stockyard.

Albert Wayne McKenzie, of near Frostburg, was charged with statutory burglary and was given a two-year sentence in the House of Correction. But the sentence was suspended and McKenzie was placed under the supervision of David M. Steel, state parole officer.

Union District Plans Leadership Training

A leadership training school for the churches of Union District and surrounding territory is being planned for April. A representative group of the Church of the Brethren, Lutheran, and Methodist churches met recently and planned as follows:

Sessions will be held in the Aurora High school. Dates selected are April 7, 9, 14, 21, and 22, from 7:30 to 9:30 p. m. Courses offered are accredited under the auspices of the National Council of Churches.

The following courses will be offered:

"Winning Others for Christ," taught by Pastor Allen Pugh;

"Preparing for Christian Marriage and Home Life," taught by Pastor George Weirick;

"Recreational Leadership," taught by Paul Dixon.

A course in the study of the Book of Revelation will be conducted by Pastor Edward G. Wiblin.

The cost of the school is being underwritten by the Union District Sunday School association. Everyone is invited. Provision will be made for supervision of pre-school children during the evenings' sessions.

Revival Meeting Set

Revival meetings are scheduled for the United Pentecostal church of Sang Run beginning March 31 and continuing through April 12, it was announced by Rev. Ralph Jacks, the pastor.

Services will be held each night at 7:30 with Rev. Allen Cayton, of Weirton, W. Va., as the evangelist. There will be special singing each night.

Fish Management Plan Underway

The fish management program is well underway in this county according to information received this week by Senator Bernard I. Gonder from the Game and Inland Fish commission.

Edwin M. Barry, chief of inland fish management, said that already 375 largemouth bass had been stocked, 150 at the Accident community pond, 125 at Southern High school pond, and 100 at Herrington Manor Lake.

He listed the stocking schedule to be undertaken:

Seventeen thousand brook, brown and rainbow trout in 20 streams; 20,000 fingerling trout already stocked in streams; several thousand black crappie reclaimed from Piney reservoir to be stocked in lakes and reservoirs of the county; 2,000 pounds of great northern pike adults from Canada scheduled to be stocked in Deep Creek Lake in mid-April; 4,000 adult walleye to be stocked in Deep Creek Lake in early April; a million eggs of walleye fry to be stocked soon in Deep Creek Lake; 3,000 pounds of adult chain pickerel to Deep Creek Lake; 5,000 pounds already stocked, 1,500 fingerling smallmouth bass in Casselman River.

It is anticipated that the commission would stock as a result of farm pond requests 10 areas which will require 500 fingerling largemouth bass and 5,000 fingerling bluegills. It also anticipated the stocking of 250 adult trout for the Grantsville rodeo in New Germany lake.

The commission also informed Senator Gonder that several additional projects to improve fishing conditions in the county would be undertaken, such as a continuing study of Deep Creek Lake, now in its third year, to determine the best management procedures, rearing of 15,000 adult trout at Bear Creek Hatchery and 2,500 smallmouth bass fingerlings, the carrying on of stream improvements in Savage River and Bear Creek, together with miscellaneous other projects which would be of interest to the county fishermen.

Mr. Gonder pointed out that a million Walleye eggs were put in Deep Creek last year and that some had been caught showing the growth for one year was 12½ inches. He said it was for this reason that the department was again planting another million eggs this year.

Mr. Gonder said he had also requested 10,000 rainbow trout from Federal hatcheries for Deep Creek Lake through Congressman Foley and that the application had been approved by Foley.

Next Bloodmobile Set for Kitzmiller

The next visit of the American Red Cross bloodmobile to this area will be made at Kitzmiller, it was announced this week by Mrs. Grover C. Stemple, blood recruitment chairman.

This will be the first visit to Kitzmiller in four years Mrs. Stemple said. The quota hoped for is 85 pints.

Mrs. Earl Shank and Mrs. Ralph Calendrella will be among those in charge of arrangements. The visit is being sponsored by the Fire Department auxiliary.

Maryland Aged 325

Yesterday was Maryland's 325th birthday and for the occasion most state and county employes had a Maryland Day holiday.

Firemen Called For 9 Fires In 10 Days

Nine fire alarms were turned in to the Oakland Fire department within a ten-day period. Most of the calls came after grass fires got beyond control.

One fire on Monday destroyed an outbuilding just beyond Hutton on the Hutton-Corinth highway, West Virginia side. The local department assisted the Terra Alta fire company in extinguishing the blaze which destroyed the privy.

Another one the same day at State Line, south of Red House, burned a barn and damaged a garage to the extent of about $150. The barn had burned upon arrival of the firemen. A third call on Monday was from Mt. Storm, twenty-five miles distant, and no trip was made.

Others reported during the week included the following:

March 17, fire in the basement of the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Shaffer, on the Crellin straight, thought to have been caused by a little boy and a box of matches. Damages were placed at $50.

March 19, two calls, one about 12:30 for a grass fire on Water street, in rear of the home of James Kerins; and another one near the home of Clarence Long, north of McHenry, where a woods fire was getting near the Long residence and several other houses.

March 21, 3 p. m. grass fire on the property of W. Robert Netbken, which was spreading near some buildings. Another call as the result of a grass fire near Deer Park at 12:15 was not answered.

March 25, 12 o'clock noon, grass fire on the Kolbfleisch farm on the Crellin road.

Damage was negligible in most instances.

Called Once More

Oakland firemen also were called yesterday afternoon after a woods fire on the Jim Gauer farm north of Oakland, had gotten beyond control. The Oakland department turned the call over to the forest wardens.

300 At Open House

Over three hundred persons attended the open house of the second addition to Kelly's Appliance and Furniture store at Loch Lynn Heights on Saturday. A Frostburg radio station made a tape broadcast from the store from 2:30 to 3 with a number of persons interviewed. This will be heard on March 28, at 2:15. Persons attending received a gift from the store.

Another radio station from Fisher, W. Va., will broadcast from the store this Saturday at 2:30. More people will be interviewed and this will be re-broadcast Saturday, April 4.

Communion Service Set

The Loch Lynn Ev. United Brethren church is inviting Christians of any denomination to join with them in Holy Communion on Thursday evening, March 26, at 7:30 o'clock, it was announced by Rev. G. Bryan Blair, pastor.

Special music will be furnished by the church and by the "Stereophone," a local male quartet. There will be a brief sermon by the pastor.

Auxiliary To Conduct Its Annual Easter Egg Hunt

The American Legion Auxiliary, Proctor Kildow No. 71, will conduct its annual Easter Egg hunt on Saturday, March 28.

The hunt will start at 2 o'clock and all children up to twelve years of age from this community and outlying sections, may participate. Eggs are to be hidden on the grounds of the legion post home on Fourth street, Oakland.

Refreshments and a small gift will be given to each child present, and each child may keep all the eggs that he finds. There will be prizes for special eggs that are found.

Members of the auxiliary are donating the eggs and refreshments, while local merchants are contributing the prizes.

Kitzmiller Flood Job Is Available But $60,000 Needed

Kitzmiller, victim of Potomac River floods in past years, has a chance for relief, but it is going to take $60,000 to do it.

About $310,000 in federal funds is available for a flood control project which would widen and deepen the Potomac's channel at and above Kitzmiller and throw up flood walls to hold back high water until it passes through the narrow gorge in which Kitzmiller is located.

But Kitzmiller must contribute about $60,000 toward the project or the job won't be done. Kitzmiller officials don't know where they can get the money. Mayor Earl Shank thinks the town is in good shape financially but he said, "we don't have that kind of money."

Shank said they felt it was a state and county responsibility too because they collect taxes out of the town. Carl Schell, of Kitzmiller, president of the Board of County Commissioners, said, "The county isn't in any shape to help this year, and we don't know about next year just yet."

It is too late to get state aid this year as the current session of the general assembly is drawing to a close. Next year, only statewide or emergency measures can legally be introduced in the Assembly.

The Corps of Army Engineers, which will build the project, wants local details out of the way and the job ready to start by May of 1961.

Kitzmiller's $60,000 share wouldn't have to be cash. The town may take care of such things as easements, rights of ways and property acquisition.

The value of such work would be credited to the town's share.

Several houses will have to be torn down or moved away from the river, an old bridge linking Kitzmiller with Blaine demolished.

State Senator Bernard I. Gonder, of Oakland, said the project is part of an overall North Branch development plan worked out by the Army Engineers. It would protect Kitzmiller, Blaine and Shallmar, the latter about a mile upstream.

Kitzmiller, with a population of around 800, and Blaine, with perhaps 100 residents, have seen disastrous floods in their time. One of the worst was in 1924 when portions of both towns were destroyed. Thirty years later when 1954's Hurricane Hazel struck, practically an entire street in Kitzmiller was ruined.

Oakland To Participate In Civil Defense Alert

Garrett county will participate in the first phase of the national Civil Defense exercise, Operation Alert, on Friday and Saturday, April 17 and 18, it was announced by Fred Tichnell, civil defense director here.

While exact details have not been completed Mr. Tichnell said that air raid sirens would be sounded April 17 and that at some time during that day traffic would be stopped when the take cover signal is sounded.

As part of the exercise theoretical bombs will be dropped in various parts of the state and Civil Defense will then simulate survival measures that it would institute.

A second phase of the exercise will be conducted May 8 and 9.

Tichnell called on citizens to familiarize themselves with the air raid signals. Alert signal is three to five minute steady siren blast and means to turn on radio and follow civil defense instructions. The take cover signal is a three minute wailing tone or short blasts on the siren. Literature about the exercise is available from the director.

Hawkins Explains How Teacher Salary Bill Would Help

What the Tawes Teacher salary bill would mean to Garrett county, in the opinion of Willard L. Hawkins, county superintendent of schools, was outlined by the superintendent this week.

In understanding the bill one must go back to the present minimum state salary scale of $3,200 for beginners to $5,000 for teachers of maximum experience, he said.

The proposed bill before the legislature would place an $800 increase on the beginner's salary over a three-year period and a $1,000 increase on the salary of all teachers with twelve years or more teaching experience over a four-year period.

The present scale of $3,200 to $5,000 would be raised to a scale of $4,000 to $6,000. He said this did not mean all teachers in the state would receive $800 to $1,000 increase as all of them are now getting a salary in excess of present state minimum; that 80 percent or more are now getting or are scheduled to get this fall a salary either equal to or in excess of the one proposed by the governor.

It would then be up to the local political sub-divisions to determine whether or not they will supplement the new state scale and by how much.

Teachers in this county, lowest paid in the state, get three hundred dollars from county sources above the minimum and thus stand to reap a $500 to $700 increase over a four-year period, if the proposed bill is enacted.

Hawkins said in all likelihood

Dr. Tom Bess Found Dead In Cottage

Dr. Thomas E. Bess, 67, of Keyser, prominent area physician, was found dead in his cottage at Youghiogheny forest, near Aurora, Wednesday.

He was found slumped in front of a television set in the living room. His wife was visiting in Fairmont, W. Va., at the time.

Surviving besides his widow and a brother, Dr. Robert Bess, of Piedmont, are a son, Thomas Bess, Jr., Charleston, W. Va.; three daughters, Mrs. Lawrence Cannon, Berkeley, Calif.; Mrs. P. Erwin Berry 3rd, Fairmont, and Mrs. Daniel Ingram, Richmond, Va., formerly of Oakland, four sisters and two older brothers. He and his brother built Potomac Valley hospital.

Dr. Bess was a past district governor of the Rotary club and had been a frequent visitor to Oakland along with his Rotary club and Boy Scout work. He was a past president of the Potomac Boy scout council and had been awarded the Silver Beaver and Silver Antelope, two highest national awards in scouting for leaders.

Funeral services were conducted March 22 from the Keyser Presbyterian church. Burial was in Arlington National cemetery Monday afternoon.

Better Living Books Mailed to Enrollees

New Farming for Better Living booklets are now being mailed to the farm families who are already enrolled in the 1959 program L. Bush Swisher, Morgantown, FFBL project director, announced this week.

The issuance of this year's project booklet begins the twentieth year in the original ten counties in the Upper Monongahela Valley. Twenty-four West Virginia counties as well as Garrett county are now in the farm contest sponsored by newspapers, banks, civic clubs, chambers of commerce and other local businesses, as well as the over-all sponsors, the agricultural extension service of West Virginia university and the Monongahela Power company.

Farm families not yet enrolled may still enter the contest but they are urged to see their county agricultural agent or fellow workers, other agricultural workers, their banker or their power company representative to enter the contest and to receive one of the new booklets. The book is calculated to provide information for doing a better job of farming for 1959. The information is furnished by subject matter specialists at West Virginia University college of agriculture.

Over sixty farm families already have enrolled. The enrollment will be completed shortly after the first of April, Swisher said.

Potomac River Development Plan Explained to Rotarians

P.-T.A. Council Has Election of Officers

Officers who will serve for the ensuing two years in the Garrett County Council of Parents and Teachers were elected at a meeting held last Friday evening in Grantsville.

They included Michael Duda, Grantsville, president; Howard D. Naylor, Oakland, vice-president; Guy Hardesty, Grantsville, second vice-president; Mrs. Anna Bertha Beachy, Springs, Pa., secretary; and Mrs. Earl Zepp, Oakland, treasurer.

Want No Change in Board

The Council went on record as favoring the retaining of the Board of Education as it is at present, with three members, and asked that the secretary so write the Garrett county legislators. The council also recommended that Maurice Brookhart, Oakland, present board member, whose term expires this May, be reappointed for a full six-year term.

There had been a recommendation some days ago by the Executive Board of the Democratic Women of the county, asking for a five member board and that at least one of them be a woman, or if there was no change in the number that the next appointment be a woman.

The group made plans for the annual banquet to be held at Kitzmiller school in May at which time the installation of officers will be held. Speaker will be Mrs. Edna Ewing, Elkton, state president.

David L. Curran, field supervisor of boys' forestry camps in the county, was the main speaker at the meeting. Ralph Swauger, director of camp No. 2, was also present.

The council decided to hold a school of instruction for all newly elected officers on June 12.

Junior Broiler Production Project To Begin March 28

4-H and F.F.A. participants in the Western Maryland District Junior Broiler Production Project will start on March 28 by raising an entry which consists of 100 straight-run wingbanded chicks.

Any 4-H or F.F.A. member is eligible to participate if he is at least 10 years old and not more than 20 years old as of January 1.

Broiler growing can be a profitable and fascinating project for both boys and girls according to E. Rankin Lushy, Assistant County Agent. He explained that many club members like this project because a small amount of money is invested for only a short period of time. It is also a convenient way to stock the family freezer with high quality meat. By growing a flock of broilers, the participants will gain experience in modern methods of brooding, feeding and management of market birds.

Each participant will deliver to be judged six wingbanded cockerels on May 23. These birds along with the record will be judged and the highest scoring entry in this region will be retained for the State Contest.

Weather Is Ideal For Maple Syrup

The mountain top has experienced what is considered as ideal maple syrup weather during the past week. Nights have been cold and days compartively warm.

The temperature dropped to 10 above zero on Sunday morning and it remained clear but cold all day. Monday morning the temperature also dropped to around the 10 mark but moderated some during the day. Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday mornings have been cold in the early hours but warming considerably during the day.

There was some rainfall last Saturday.

Plan Easter Sunrise Service

The Methodist Youth Fellowship of St. Paul's church, Oakland, will conduct a brief sunrise Easter service at the municipal golf course, near the club house, at 6:30 a. m., Sunday morning.

In case of inclement weather the services will be held at the church on Oak street. The public is invited.

Congressman Foley Discusses Army Engineers' Plans Friday

The development plan for the North Branch of the Potomac River and the hearings on the C. and O. canal Park Bill were stressed as being of utmost importance by Rep. John R. Foley when he spoke before the Oakland Rotary club on Friday evening.

The master system advocated by the Corps of Army Engineers calls for a series of impounding dams in the North Branch that would provide recreation, flood protection and be of importance economically in much the same manner as the Savage River dam has been industrial-wise.

The plan to insure the Upper Potomac River basin against flood threats and develop water resources for recreation and industry were presented last Thursday to Maryland legislators and explained by Foley in Oakland Friday evening.

The Army Corps of Engineers has said it was ready to go ahead with the project, calling for three major dams and reservoirs and a number of other projects, as soon as Maryland, West Virginia and Congress can get together on the financing.

March, 1962 was set as the earliest date for starting construction if approvals go through without any hitches.

The first two dams, one on the North Branch of the Potomac in Maryland, west of Bloomington, and one on Stony river near Mt. Storm, would cost an estimated 60 to 70 million dollars.

The federal government would pay the construction costs with the states or local government paying back half of it over a 50-year period.

A third reservoir above the site of the present Savage River dam would be constructed later at a cost of about 10 million dollars.

The engineers claimed the projects would more than pay for themselves by stimulating industrial development as well as minimizing flood damage and reducing pollution.

The North Branch dam, a 283-foot high cement structure, would be designed to prevent flood damage from Luke to below Cumberland. It would cover over 1,300 acres during maximum flood, and operating with Stony river reservoir would provide a regulated flow of 350 cubic feet per second at Luke compared to present 93 cubic feet. The Stony river reservoir would have a pool of 610 acres to be used primarily for recreation purposes and supplemental electric power. It would be 157 feet of earthen dam and would help protect Kitzmiller and Blaine from flood damage.

It would be necessary to have a letter from governors of the two states, or from local government officials with taxing authority, saying they are willing to work toward the program's accomplishment.

State and local payments would start upon completion of the project and would range from $770,000 the first year to $1,600,000 in the 50th year. Army Engineers have said the projects would develop half of the capacity of the whole drainage basin and would provide about 1,000 construction jobs during the five years of building with employment perhaps twice that many in peak periods.

Addresses Loar Auxiliary

Merritt H. Feather was guest speaker at the regular meeting of the Loar Auxiliary of the Garrett County Memorial hospital held last Thursday evening. Seventeen members attended.

Feather spoke on the process of making of china. Plans were made for the observance of Doctor's day March 30.

Mrs. Herbert C. Leighton was named chairman of the nominating committee. Two more memorials were received for W. W. DeWitt and one for F. O. Hinebaugh. Two television sets are to be purchased, one for each solarium, it was announced.

Rabid Fox Killed

A fox killed by John Michaels of Vindex, was found to have rabies upon examination at the Live Stock Sanitary service laboratory in Oakland, it was announced this week. The fox was reported to have walked up to the door of the Michaels home.

Grantsville Notes

WEEKLY SERMON

"I BELIEVE" WHAT?

A fairly recent popular song is entitled, "I Believe". A pretty song but when ended you still wonder what the writer believes. The Apostle James tells us clearly in the 2nd chapter that certain kinds of "I believe" is not enough. In verses 14-13, he speaks of a person that has a profession. He SAYS he is a believer, but James is careful to point out that this kind of faith alone is not sufficient. One must have more than a mere profession of faith to be a Christian. In verses 19-20 he speaks of those who profess to believe in the existence of the one true God. Yet, even such belief alone is of little value, it is the first step, 'tis true, but if one does not use that confidence and obey what God says, then faith is profitless. Then in verses 21-26, he speaks of the kind of faith that is genuine. The faith that works. The faith that is followed by appropriate action is the only true faith. Do you believe that Jesus Christ died for your sins and arose again the third day? Then to put that faith into action you must surrender yourself to Him and receive Him as your personal Saviour. This is the faith that saves.

Hawkins Explains

the local salaries would increase by $100 over present $3,300 to $3,300 scale for 1959-60, $200 more in 1960-61, $200 more in 1961-62, and another $200 in 1962-63 for all teachers in their twelfth year.

Each county under the proposed salary law must raise its equalization requirement from 75 cents to 90 cents per $100 of assessed valuation. Thus in effect he said, the state pays half of the proposed increase and the counties the other half. Garrett county, as well as all others in the state he said, is already up to the 90 cents per hundred of assessed valuation requirement, would not effect upon the present tax structure in the county. It would, however, bring in more state money, about $275,000 the first year.

He cited as an example that a penny on the tax rate in this county would provide only enough money to raise teachers pay $275,000. But the proposed bill the county would be provided through state and federal sources and equalization funds a $500 to $600 increase for teachers over their present salaries plus additional 20 percent increase according to state formula for the increasing current expense operational costs of schools.

Hawkins feels the passage of the proposed salary bill is vital to the welfare of the county schools, more than any other county in the state it enough a the county must depend largely upon state aid to operate the school.

He said it would provide the county with a salary scale that would place it in a better competitive position with the rest of the state and with neighboring states in retaining and recruiting teachers or replacements. Such a salary scale cannot be provided by the county.

It would provide the county extra money needed for operational costs, such as textbooks, instructional supplies, custodial service, maintenance of properties, assistance school libraries, office expenses, etc.

It will relieve the necessity for demands upon the County Commissioners for additional special funds for better salaries and other operational costs that otherwise would have to be made, Hawkins concluded.

Change Job Application Procedure At Sterling

They said they were particularly interested in people in and around Oakland. Opportunities for employment are available from time to time, it was stated.

Cull Cows To Stretch Forage Supply Is Advised

About this time of the year dairymen should stop and check their supply of good quality forage. Will it last until the pasture season gets here? If it is necessary to buy hay or piece out with poor quality hay, milk production usually drops. One way to stretch the good hay and silage is to cull the low producing milk cows from the herd, says J. R. Schabinger, University of Maryland Extension Dairyman.

Many studies have shown that the best cow in the herd usually pays a large part of the feed cost for the three lowest producing cows. Instead of using the income from the best cow to pay the "board bill" for other cows, let her pay your "board". At the same time this will provide a greater amount of good forage for the best cows in the herd, he added.

Should changes be necessary in the forage feeding program, they should be made gradually. Dairy cows are the victim of habit, thus sudden or abrupt changes may have an adverse effect upon milk production. Usually these changes in feeding hay result in a lower nutrient intake which causes the lowered milk production. Thus the nutrient supply can be maintained by increasing the amount of grain fed with poorer quality forage.

Don't stretch the good hay and silage by feeding less of it, unless the grain is increased at the same time, he said.

Who's Who At Northern High

By Ruth Westerfield

SHIRLEY FRAZEE

I would like for you to meet through my column, the small, brown-haired, eighth grader who spelled "nuisance" to declare her winner of the Junior High Spelling Bee. This thirteen year old young lady is Shirley Frazee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jeremiah Frazee of Friendsville.

Shirley is planning to take the commercial course when she enters senior high. I'm sure she does many hours of school work each evening with such a heavy schedule she has. Her subjects include history, English, math, physical education, home economics, science, art, and music.

Shirley was on the second quarter honor roll this year and is a member of the Junior F.H.A. She plays the position of guard while playing basketball.

Shirley is a member of the Church of God, and attended the Friendsville Elementary school before entering N.H.S. the fall of 1957.

Among her interests I found she enjoys sports and playing the piano.

SWANTON

A first aid course, under direction of H. B. Buckley Kitzmiller, was recently completed by Swanton senior boy and girl scouts. Following the closing session a party was held in the school basement. A gift was presented to Mr Buckel. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Freda Teets, and Mrs. Amy Wilson. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Jones, Frostburg, Mr. and Mrs. Buckley.

Friday evening twenty boy and girl scouts and leaders visited the maple sugar camp of Melvin Stanton, Bittinger. Several scouts plan to take part in the talent show to be presented by the P.-T.A. Friday, April 3, at 7:30, in the school basement.

To Conduct Sunday School Loyalty Campaign

The Sand Flat Assembly of God Church will kick off a seven-week Sunday School Loyalty Campaign, March 29. The drive is part of a program to increase attendance. Directing the campaign will be the Rev. Irvin G. Steiding, pastor, assisted by Sunday School Superintendent Lee Zimmerman. Throughout the drive, various departments will feature the theme, "Count Me."

The Kickoff Sunday will center around a pledge program during which Sunday School members will volunteer to push consecutive attendance for seven weeks.

Climaxing the campaign will be the presentation of certificates to members of the Sunday School who have been loyal in attendance throughout the seven-week drive.

This is the second year the Loyalty Campaign has been conducted by the Sand Flat Assembly. Last year 105 members of the Sunday School had a 100% record during the loyalty weeks, with an overall average for the seven week period of 173 per Sunday. A goal of 200 enrolled has been set for the Loyalty Campaign this year.

OF HOPE AND GLADNESS

How eagerly voices proclaim the glad truth—voices young and old; all join the wonderful refrain. Even nature swells the chorus. Flowers burst into bloom, everything speaks of new life and hope.

Practically everyone goes to church Easter Sunday. Almost everyone joins in the singing. Even the hardest heart feels a thrill of hope and gladness. The spirit of joy is contagious. If it could only last!

It can last if you make the Church a part of your life, and yourself a part of the Church. Prayer and Bible study will help you realize that the joy of the resurrection can be yours, not only at Easter, but through every day of every year. The Church needs you, and you need the Church. Accept the Easter message. Make it a vital part of your life. Prove to yourself and others that Jesus Christ has truly risen.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Christ Lives

Lesson for March 29, 1959

"WHAT happened on Easter morning is out on the fringe," says a modern writer on the life of Christ. On the other hand, there are some who make a great point of the empty tomb and the physical resurrection of Christ. This brings out an argument that goes on and on: Which is more important, the fact of the Resurrection, or the meaning of the Resurrection?

Fact Without Meaning

Consider what the effect is if we concentrate entirely on the fact that the tomb into which Jesus' body was put on Friday evening was empty on Sunday morning, and that it was empty because the body of Jesus had miraculously come alive again and walked out. Now the evidence for this as a fact is strong. More than one person who set out to show that the evidence is unconvincing, has wound up by believing it. A few years ago some one wrote a very learned article intending to prove that the body of Jesus could not possibly have been put into a separate tomb, and that the women were quite mistaken when they found an empty tomb — mistaken, because the body had never been there in the first place. But how did that writer arrive at such a conclusion? Only by the skeptical writing-off, as worthless, all the testimony there is in the Gospels that the women did know, very well, where the body was supposed to be, and that a mistake under the circumstances was impossible.

Dr. Foreman

Nevertheless, if we never get our minds off the empty tomb and the physical resurrection, we shall miss too much. Nowadays especially, with all the medical miracles that are reported about people who have been brought back to life after being officially dead, a return to life is not as great a feat as the wonder it once did. Furthermore, a emphasis on the physical resurrection can emphasize in the wrong place? Visitors to certain remote can see things in the shape of human beings which have never act like human beings; they are more like vegetables. The human body is alive may not a tragedy if the spirit and mind are not alive too. So the really important thing about Jesus is that he was and is alive, not that his mere body lived again.

Meaning Without Facts

On the other hand, suppose we emphasize the meaning of the Resurrection, that Christ lives—more than that indeed that because he lives we shall live also. Then we shall be striking the center of the message of Easter. But what happens if we say, at the same time, "We believe in the Easter Faith" (meaning some sort of belief in immortality, perhaps) but we are not interested in the Easter facts"? Strange as it may seem, there are people who have just that point of view. When we get rid of all the fancy language they use, what they are saying comes down to this: We don't know what happened on the first Easter, and we don't care. We are concerned with the meaning of what never happened.

To put all one's faith in the facts and disregard the meaning of Easter is to build a solid foundation and leave it, a useless curiosity.

The Meanings of the Facts

A study of the New Testament will show any reader that the first Christians prized both facts and meaning. They never did say much, if anything, about the empty tomb, in sermons or letters; only in the Gospel stories. Christ is risen' was the cry. But that joyful cry pointed to something loftier and more precious than a plain living-again. The New Testament writers dwelt lovingly on the meaning of the Resurrection: it was God's stamp of approval on his Son; it was the triumph of Christ over sin and death, a triumph in which all his people will one day share; it was a sure token of a future beyond death; it was the Christian's glimpse into the meaning of heaven; it was a pledge of God's love and power.

Congressional Viewpoint

Sen. John Marshall Butler

Again, the Foreign Aid Debate

No reasonable person, in these turbulent days, would quibble with the proposition that the free world must unitedly, resolutely and courageously face up to the onslaught of international communism. But, is American foreign aid the proper synthesis for the accomplishment of this objective? On this score there are wide differences of opinion. Since the end of World War II our Government has dispensed more than $70 billion to other countries for economic assistance of mutual security. President Eisenhower has now asked the Congress to appropriate nearly $1 billion for the same purposes in the coming year.

How to avoid war? What saved Western Europe from Communist domination? How can independent nations survive? How can recession and unemployment be avoided or cured? What is the best way to combat the Red tide? To each of these questions, proponents proclaim the answer rests only with our foreign aid. The more enthusiastic suggest that the Roman Empire collapsed because it had no scheme for foreign aid.

Critics of these (to use their words) "giveaway programs" and "handouts" cite an ever-increasing record of waste, inefficiency, duplication, misappropriation and outright thievery. They point to the warnings of some foreign statesmen who say that "if a nation relies on handouts to live, its future is doomed." And, they point to a study by The Foreign Policy Research Institute of the University of Pennsylvania which concludes that foreign aid artificially stimulates a country's economy to the detriment of the international economy as a whole.

Mutual security seems, at times, to be an illusory thing. It should be recalled that the U.S. bore the great brunt of the Korean "police action" and the Middle East crisis last year. The latter-day relationship of the French Navy to the NATO system casts an ominous shadow on the aspirations of collective security. And, it should not be forgotten that in 1956 the Hungarians fought, and momentarily held superior Soviet forces without receiving a single penny of American aid. These brave people wanted not dollars, but political understanding and support, without which they were doomed to continued Soviet slavery. Such has truly been their fate.

On the economic front, with the sure prospects for a record-high peacetime budget, the validity of low interest loans and private foreign investment in place of foreign aid grants is gaining acceptance. This acceleration is prompted by the realization among American taxpayers that $4 billion would buy many aircraft carriers, submarines, missiles, arms, aircraft, cargo vessels, troop transports and a host of other military items which are essentially needed for our own security. To me, this is realistic and reasonable financing worthy of unqualified acceptance.

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of Mrs. Grace Mayle, who passed away one year ago the 29th of March.

I cannot say, and I will not say
That she is dead. She is just away!
With her cheery smile, and a wave of the hand
She has wandered into an unknown land.
And left us dreaming how very fair
It needs must be, since she lingers there
And we, oh we, who the wildest yearn
For the old-time step and the glad return,
Thing of her faring on, as dear
In the love of there as the love of here
Think of her still as the same, I say;
She is not dead. She is just away!

Sadly missed by her husband and children.

No. 1482 Miscellaneous In The Circuit Court for Garrett County.

The object of this suit is to acquire by condemnation certain tracts or parcels of land situate in the Sixth Election District of Garrett County, Maryland, belonging to Harold H. Pigott, Mollie Hawkins, widow, and Tom Hawkins, tenants.

The Petition states that the Petitioners constitute the State Roads Commission of Maryland and are charged with the construction and maintenance of highways and bridges in the State of Maryland.

That they have determined it to be necessary and proper to acquire for the purpose referred to in said Petition, and in connection with the construction and maintenance of the highway system of the State, certain tracts or parcels of land situate in the Sixth Election District of Garrett County, consisting of 1.64 acres, more or less, lying between the lines marked "Right of Way Line" as shown on Plats Nos. 20341 and 20342, which is being taken in fee simple, and 0.24 acres, more or less, also shown on said Plats, for slope and drainage easements

TOGETHER with the buildings and improvements thereon and the rights, alleys, ways, waters, roads, privileges, appurtenances and advantages to the same belonging or in anywise appertaining, together with the right or easement to create, use and maintain on the land shown hatched thus / / / / on the hereinbefore mentioned Plats Nos. 20341 and 20342, insofar as their property rights extend, such drainage structures and facilities as are necessary to adequately drain the roadway and or adjacent property and such slopes as are necessary to retain the said roadway and or adjacent property, it being understood that at such time as the contour of the land over which this right or easement is acquired is changed so that this easement required for slopes is no longer necessary to support or protect the property hereby to be acquired in fee simple, then said easement for slopes shall cease to be effective, together with the right to create, use and maintain on or across the adjacent land of the defendants, such waterways and or inlets and outlets as are necessary for the drainage structures indicated in the legend shown in the left hand corner of the hereinbefore mentioned Plats Nos. 20341 and 20342, together with any right, title, and interest of the defendants in and to the existing bed of U. S. Route 219, lying between the lines marked "Right of Way Line" as shown on Plats Nos. 20341 and 20342, and together with the perpetual right to erect and maintain between October 1st and April 1st of each and every year, on the adjacent land of the defendants, within one hundred feet of the land and hereby condemned in fee simple, snow fences, provided that said snow fences shall not interfere with the construction and use of buildings now erected or hereafter erected, with growing crops, or roadways.

The Petition further states that the said property is now held under the provisions of a deed from Vonie Hawkins, widow, to Harold H. Pigott, dated January 3, 1944 and recorded on July 10, 1944, in Liber A.G.R. No. 133, Folio 280, among the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland.

That Mollie Hawkins and Tom Hawkins are Tenants on said property, the terms of which are unknown to your Petitioners.

That the land and property is sought to be condemned in connection with the State System of Roads and Bridges, and especially for the construction of the U. S. Route 219, Hoyes toward Mellenry, in Garrett County, Maryland.

That the Petitioners are unable to make an agreement with the defendants and that the Petitioners have deposited a check in the amount of Four Thousand Five Hundred ($4,500.00) Dollars, in the hands of the Clerk of the Circuit Court for Garrett County, in conformity with the provisions of Article 89B, Section 9, Public General Laws of Maryland, said Petitioners deeming the said sum to be the fair value of the land taken and the damages done to the property, and that it is in the public interest for them to take possession immediately upon depositing said money and that they are taking possession for the aforesaid purposes.

That the defendant, Harold H. Pigott, is a non-resident of the State of Maryland, residing at R.F.D. No. 2, Shinnston, W. Virginia.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN to Harold H. Pigott, who is a non-resident of the State of Maryland, residing at R.F.D. No. 2, Shinnston, W. Virginia, to appear in this Court, in person or by solicitor, on or before the 24th day of April, 1959, and show cause, if any they have, why the said property or said defendant's interest therein should not be condemned as prayed in said petition.

Supervisor, Assessors Attend Annual Meeting

R. C. McComas, supervisor of assessments, and Paul Fisher and Jerry Moyer, assessors, were in Baltimore last Thursday and Friday attending the annual meeting of the Maryland Association of Assessing Officers.

The group elected Francis J. Plummer, Allegany county assessor for the past four years, was elected vice-president of the group. His term will be two years. He is the first assessor to be elected to an office in the state organization. Heretofore supervisors had been elected to the positions.

William H. Riley, state supervisor of assessments, discussed a survey which will be made in the state beginning March 30 by a group of assessors under a Resolution passed by the Senate which requested a survey be made this year and every five years hereafter.

Easter Is Christian

(Note: See last week's advertisement, "Easter is Heathen.")

To the Editor:

The Communists are trying to undermine our sacred holidays, Christian institutions, and the Bible itself. Hence this rebuttal.

Christians celebrate the Lord's resurrection, not the day. God condemns no day, only the evil done in it.

Christians have proven their Sunday, Christmas and Easter, tomid them good, and hold fast to them. Only those who fail to observe these holy days have rejected knowledge.

Christians do not worship any idol at any time. Easter sunrise service is not "sun-worship." Christ "the Son of Righteousness shall arise, with healing in his wings." The rising sun is symbolical of the risen Christ. We worship Christ, not the sun.

Jesus was not "exactly" three days in the tomb and Jonah was not "exactly" three days in the fish. "Three days" in Biblical language is a part of any three calendar days. Even a child should know this.

True, some have only a judge. It is those who are concerned only with "days," ritual, lies and formalities.

We observe Thanksgiving. So do the heathen. Must we be worse than the heathen? Baal-worship never defiled Sunday, only the idolators. God never condemns a day, only the wickedness done in it.

Angels were the first to celebrate Christmas and Easter. Are we better than the angels?

The "mark of the beast" is membership in the Communist International. Russia is the only anti-Christ power-head among all nations, past or present. She is the "great red dragon." Even a child must know this.

Saint Nicholas of Santa Claus Lore had no connection with the Nicolaitans of Revelations. He was born hundreds of years later. For shame, such ignorance!

Christians are forbidden to observe circumcision, "lest they bring themselves into bondage."

Christians are expressly forbidden the Passover, "for no uncircumcised person shall eat thereof." (Exodus 12:48.) One should know these elementary things before trying to teach others.

Christ converts heathens to Christians, pagan holidays into Christian holidays, sinners into saints, and ignorant fools into wise men.

The Jewish Covenant is the Christian Commandments. The Sabbath and Passover are Jewish memorials. Christians are not Jews.

The mark of the Jew is circumcision and his memorial is the Passover. The mark of the Christian is baptism and his memorial is the Lord's Supper. We are not Jews. We have gone on to far greater glory, "for there is no other name given among men whereby we might be saved."

Christ was a Jew until he was baptized in Jordan. There he became the head of the Christian church, "and the gates of hell (and the Communists) shall not prevail against it," nor against our Christian holy days, which he established by his birth and resurrection.

Expensive Yawn - - - - -

"The most expensive yawn in America," says a recent commercial advertisment, "is the one that kills a network television show. Last year it killed approximately one out of every two evening network shows. . .The cost of these false starts and fast flops is staggering."

No doubt! The yawn that says "Not interested!" is the death sentence upon anything. It is sad that some very fine programs have been killed or corrupted by the public yawn.

A pertinent comment in this regard was made a few weeks ago Edward W. Greenfield, who writes a column, "Pause for Reflection." Said Mr. Greenfield: "We got along for generations without television. It is not the fate of programs on the airways that should worry us, but something of vastly greater importance, though entertainment, TV and otherwise, may be a contributing factor.

"I'm talking about the yawn that is killing America! The yawn that says 'Not interested!' to the crying moral and spiritual needs of our time; to the social, political and economic trends which are leading us into collectivism and socialism, pronouncing the death sentence upon freedom.

"Because we seem to be more interested in passing verdicts on TV channel offerings and comparable trivia, we are letting the concerns of mind and soul and their expressions in the world of public affairs go unexamined, uncultivated or unchallenged.

"To shrug, stretch, and go to sleep on the crucial matters of faith and freedom—THAT is the most expensive yawn in America!"

There is indifference to corruptness of public officials and many radical labor leaders. There is indifference to the importance of voting, of selecting high type candidates. Many are indifferent to the teachings of Christ. Our readers could add many, many more instances where the citizens are indifferent. We believe Mr. Greenfield shows us a valuable point to consider.

The Oakland-Mt. Lake Park Lions club's tenth annual show, "Funhouse 90," postponed from March 19 and 20, will be presented tonight and tomorrow night, April 2nd and 3rd. The snow was postponed when Southern High school was forced to postpone its operetta on account of inclement weather, making its impossible to construct the stage in the time allotted.

Plans were completed for a promotional membership campaign, soon to be launched, at a meeting of committee chairmen and officers of the Garrett County Republican Women's club at the home of Mrs. Kermit Glotfelty, president, Tuesday evening, March 31. Twenty-two attended.

Problems confronting the county were discussed. Mrs. Glotfelty reported on suggestions given to her by Thomas Bundy, president of the Uniontown Chamber of Commerce concerning an effort to have industry move to the county. He suggested that every business man in the county ask salesmen coming into their places if their companies are planning to expand.

Grantsville To Get Dial Phone System

The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone company has completed final plans to provide dial telephone service in Grantsville area by the end of the year.

The conversion is being done at the request of the Springs Mutual Telephone company of Pennsylvania which now provides the service in that area.

Construction crews of the company will begin work in four or five weeks on the new central office building which will be erected behind the Grantsville creamery.

The exchange name will be changed from Grantsville to TWin-oaks 5. This is necessary in order to make the exchange an eventual part of the nationwide dialing system.

The company expects to rebuild completely at least 90 percent of the entire exchange area and all present subscribers will be visited to have a new telephone set installed. Because the new telephones will not be in use until the conversion in November, most homes will need both phones until the new system is working.

The free calling area will be extended to include Salisbury, Pa., along with Grantsville, Bittinger and Springs. Calls to these areas will be dialed direct. Other calls will be handled by the Cumberland office.

Telephone officials esimate the cost of providing dial service in the Grantsville area will be approximately $253,300.

The company said present subscribers of the Spring Mutual and other persons desiring dial service must make formal application. A temporary office has been set up in the Edwards building, in Grantsville. The office will be open Thursday and Friday, April 2 and 3, from 10 a. m. until 9 p. m., and Saturday, April 4, 9 a. m. to 5 p. m.

Mr. Wagner was a member of the Board of the United Mine Workers when Philip Murray was vice-president. Following Mr. Murray's subsequent move to the AFL about 1920, Mr. Wagner remained with him through his long period as president of the organization, and stood with Mr. Murray when the AFL and CIO merged several years ago. Wagner has been national president of the Gas, Coke and Chemical Workers of America and has represented the CIO at the United Nations.

The talk will be on "Why Unions." A question and answer period will follow.

Teacher Pay Bill Result Uncertain

Gov. Tawes' proposal to boost school teachers' salaries was described as resting on "dead center" yesterday after finance committees of the legislature argued for more than an hour behind closed doors over whether to approve it.

There reportedly was much sentiment expressed in committees to send the proposal to the legislature's deep freeze—the Legislative council, between sessions study group.

The matter was not put to a vote however, and apparently was to be taken up separately in the two committees.

Aides of Gov. Tawes denied reports that he has "cooled off" to the proposal which he submitted as one of his major legislative goals of the session. Tawes already has appropriated $2,700,000 in his budget to finance the first year of the program which calls for statewide minimum salary scales to be raised from present $3,200-$5,000 levels to $4,000-$6,000 over the next four years. This would have no effect, however, unless the implementing legislation were enacted.

May Adjourn Saturday

In the meantime three high priority items, the budget, new Potomac River compact and reorganization of the Tidewater Fisheries Commission, were disposed of Wednesday by the Legislature.

They cleared the decks considerably in the drive to close down the session on Saturday. A possible crimp to these adjournment plans could be the teacher salary bill.

The budget providing for spending nearly 451 million dollars went into effect with final senate action. It is about 50 million dollars more than the current budget but is balanced without any new or increased taxes.

The governor planned to sign the new Potomac River compact and also the new Tidewater Fisheries commission bill.

An adjunct to the budget began to move. The House tentatively authorized borrowing of $14,101,000 for buildings and lands. This is $489,650 less than recommended by Gov. Tawes. The House is expected to clear the capital improvements bill to the Senate today. Among the biggest questions remaining to be settled are salary raises for school teachers and state employes.

Bloodmobile Visit To Kitzmiller Set For Next Wednesday

"We live on the edge of disaster." "It is no longer safe to meet our bare blood quotas." "We regret that we must warn our public that greater stockpiles of blood products are urgently needed for future national emergencies than were needed during World War II."

These statements were made by American Red Cross officials in announcing the blood collection to be in the area next week.

The bloodmobile unit from Johnstown will be at Kitzmiller, next Wednesday, April 8, and will be set up for business in the school building from 1 to 6 p. m. The number of pints desired is 85.

Mrs. Grover C. Stemple, blood recruitment chairman for the county, said this is the first visit of the unit to Kitzmiller in four years and she expressed the hope that the people of the community would respond with enthusiasm.

The Ladies auxiliary to the Kitzmiller fire department is sponsoring the visit. The Steering committee includes Mrs. Earl Shank, Mrs. Ralph Calandrella and Mrs. Carl Mosser.

Center Street Elem. PTA Re-schedules Meeting Date

Center Street P.-T.A. will postpone its regular meeting scheduled for April 6, in order to join with the Dennett Road P.-T.A. in preparation for the annual carnival.

The date for the joint meeting is Thursday, April 23, at 7:30 p. m., at the Center Street school, it was announced by Robert B. Sincell president.

The tentative date for the Fun Carnival is Friday, May 29.

Charles F. Hammond continues to remain as a patient in the Garrett County Memorial hospital, suffering from an injury to his left foot. He showed some improvement this morning.

OFF FOR ADVENTURE—Three high school students from Silver Spring, began an Easter vacation venture last Saturday morning. They took off from Gormania, W. Va., in a homemade raft, in an attempt to float down the Potomac river to Washington, D. C. The trio is composed of Hank Raymond, Mac McPherson, Jim Ohlmacher, who attend John Carroll and Northwood High schools around Silver Spring. They camped along the river bank on Friday night and got underway about 9:45 Saturday morning. Their home-made method of transportation includes 45 inner tubes shaped around a quantity of slats. The tubes are piled in several thicknesses, and there is an outboard motor to propel the craft. Mrs. Eleanor Markel, of Gormania, took a picture of the unit as it began its journey. Its progress has not been reported.

Plow Demonstration Set For April 10th

A plow adjustment demonstration has been scheduled for Friday, April 10, at 9:30 a. m., it was announced by James A. Mellenry, county agent. The demonstration has been arranged by Mr. Mellenry, in cooperation with the Agricultural Engineering department of the University of Maryland. It will take place at the farm of Robert O. Glotfelty, two miles west of Bittinger on the Cherry Creek road.

The demonstration will be under the supervisiop of Mr. Mellenry and Guy Gienger, from the university department.

Mr. Mellenry said that many farmers of the county already had started their spring plowing with equipment that has become out of adjustment. He pointed out that improperly adjusted plows created several problems. They do a poor job of plowing and require considerable more power than is usually necessary to do the job.

All farmers and machinery dealers are invited to attend the demonstration. Mellenry said that farmers who want to bring their plows are urged to do so.

The demonstration will include the showing of different amount of pull for different plow adjustments; how to adjust a plow and different type of jobs plows will do when properly adjusted. All types of plows will be considered.

The demonstration will be conducted from 9:30 to 12:30, Mr. Mellenry concluded.

Phone Service Cut By Dynamite Blast

Local and long distance telephone service through the Oakland area was disrupted Tuesday for more than five hours after a highway dynamiting accident severed lines near Swanton.

The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone company said a construction crew working on a highway had set off some dynamite. Rocks were hurled into the air and hit the A. T. and T. trunk line from Cumberland to Clarksburg, W. Va., severing 20 pairs of wires. Only two wires were undamaged.

The accident occurred about 2 p. m., and normal service was restored about 7:15 p. m. Residents of Oakland were unable to call Cumberland, Piedmont, or Baltimore. Service also was curtailed between Cumberland and Clarksburg.

Teletype circuits also were affected.

Demand For Auto Tags Hits New High

The demand for automobile license plates hit a new record at the end of March. Some 3,500 tags were sold by evening of March 31, compared to 3,350 last year.

The last few days have been ones for the county treasurer, Joseph H. Welch, and his assistant, Mrs. Gordon Sanders. The treasurer's office issued 329 sets of plates on Tuesday. The biggest rush was on Saturday when 313 were issued during a three-hour period.

Mr. Welch said he had been notified that applications for truck tags had been mailed to owners on Tuesday. Truck owners have until May 1 to purchase tags and have them placed on their vehicles.

Apparently some 500 automobile owners have not yet obtained their tag, since this is the approximate number issued annually.

Conservationists To Meet

The Garrett County Conservation association will meet at the fire hall in Oakland on Tuesday evening, April 7, at 8 o'clock.

James Bowers, deer biologist for the state of Maryland, will speak to the group on the deer situation in the county. All are welcome.

House Approves Bill To Aid Fire Depts.

The House of Delegates last Friday passed a bill providing for financial aid for volunteer fire companies in the county, in addition to the help already being received.

The legislation is included in House bill 719, sponsored by the county delegation, directing the County Commissioners to levy a tax of five cents on each $100 of assessable property, to be paid to existing or future departments.

The amount to be paid any department is to be determined jointly by a representative from each volunteer fire company and the County Commissioners.

Funds must be used only for purchase or upkeep of equipment or buildings and each department is required to file annual reports with the commissioners. The bill would take effect January 1, 1960.

Leslie E. Savage, chairman of the county delegation, said that fire departments already were receiving $9,000 annually from the Commissioners and this levy would provide $17,000, or an additional $7,960. The bill passed the Senate on Tuesday.

Bingo Bill Passes

Also passed by the House last Thursday was House bill 712, sponsored by the county delegates Savage and Elizabeth Bray. It would legalize bingo and raffles for certain types of non-profit organizations in the county.

4-H Public Speaking Workshop Scheduled

Speak for Yourself" will be the theme of the 4-H Public Speaking Workshop on April 4, in the County Extension Office at 10 a. m.

This workshop is designed for any 4-Her who is interested in learning about speaking whether in conversation with friends or any other activity like giving a demonstration at a club meeting.

45,000 Trout Are Being Stocked In Area Streams

The stocking of 45,000 fresh water trout in 50 Maryland trout streams started last week and will continue for several weeks in the future, it was announced by Albert Powell, superintendent of hatcheries of the Maryland Game and Inland Fish commission. About 40 percent of the trout will be stocked before 5:30 a. m., Wednesday, April 15, opening day of the trout fishing season, according to Ernest A. Vaughn, director.

More than 105,000 adult trout, averaging two fish per pound, over 8 inches in size, have filled the ponds at Bear and Beaver Creek hatcheries. The annual stocking of these 18 month old beauties will cover 190 miles of trout streams in ten Maryland counties.

Some 16,000 truck miles will be required to stock the fish. Forty percent of the trout will be delivered to the three counties of Western Maryland, 30 percent to Frederick, Montgomery, Howard and Carroll counties, and 35 percent in Baltimore, Anne Arundel Harford and Cecil Areas.

In order to provide maximum fishing success to the angler, 40 percent of the trout will be stocked before April 15, 35 more percent before April 22, and 15 additional percent prior to April 29 and an additional 5 percent before May 6. The balance will be placed by Memorial week-end.

Other Fish Stocked

Sixty-five impoundments have recently received adult largemouth bass and chain pickerel (pike) it was also announced. More than 8,000 legal sized bass and 2,600 chain pickerel were the totals listed. About ten percent of the bass have been tagged with jaw ring tags according to Edwin M. Barry, chief of Inland Fish management. A three-year bass evaluation study is now being designed to determine the value of the commerical bass purchased and stocked in inland water. The commission is urging the return of all tagged fish to local game wardens or fish and game personnel. Creel censns, spillway escapement and netting studies are also to be carried out by state fish managers to round out the program.

Oakland's First Fire Company

Fire is man's best servant, but uncontrolled can be his worst master. At time it has destroyed in hours values that have been brought into being by the industry of generations. Worse than that it can be an appalling killer, inconsate, impersonal, sparing none, neither aged and helpless or the new-born babe. By prompt action individuals can often stop the beginning of a conflagration but once a blaze gets started it is time for concerted action, for teamwork. Twenty organized and trained men multiply an inexperienced individual's efforts by much more than twenty. When a blaze starts or threatens quick and effective action is imperative. Experienced fire fighters say that more can be saved during the first five minutes than in the next five hours. They wax eloquent too on the importance of the gray whiskered proverb about an ounce of prevention.

These considerations and many others were in the minds of Oaklanders when on May 7th, 1894, they gathered together at Sturgess Hall to organize a fire company. With Dr. Henry W. McComas and Albert G. Ross serving as temporary chairman and secretary, the following were present and expressed willingness to join the projected organization: E. H. Bartlett Jr.; Edw. Hall, Jos. Martin, R. C. Townshend, Geo. Crim, Chas. Bosley, John Davis, Thos. Little, Thos. Martin Jr., Benj. H. Sincell, Wm. A. Sturgiss, Wade H. Hinebaugh, Teen Clagett, David Martin, Dick Bartlett, and Albert G. Ross

Jos. Martin was appointed to canvass the town and recruit additional members. Scott T. Jones addressed the meeting giving much practical and valuable advice.

At a meeting in the hall of Hamill and Little on May 24th a permanent organization was effected, and officers for the year elected as follows: President R. C. Townshend, Vice President Teen Clagett, Foreman D. E. Bolden, Vice Foreman Joseph Martin, Secretary A. G. Ross, Treas. Thos. Little, Trustees Dr. H. W. McComas, E. H. Bartlett Jr., and Charles Bosley.

A committee was named to draft by-laws: Thos. Little, D. E. Bolden, and A. G. Ross. Twenty two members were enrolled, which was considered a very good beginning.

On May 31th a third meeting was held at City Hall. The city fathers were requested to purchase for the fire company needed materials, a bell, a desk and office supplies.

Acknowledgment is in order to the officers and members of Oakland's present day, well organized, well equipped, and efficient fire fighters of the long-ago. These minutes contain no previous mention of a fire engine. However at this third meeting a decision was taken to test "the fire engine," on the Monday following. No details appear about the engine. The gasoline engine had not then came into wide use anywhere. Early fire engines were pumps mounted on wheeled vehicles propelled to fires by the firemen themselves. The men also powered the pumps by means of handles attached to a horizontal axis to which was fixed the pump's drive shaft in the manner of railroad hand cars used by section men before the advent of the motorized "Speeder." Such hand operated and hand propelled engines are pictured in Currier and Ives Lithographs of about 1860 and some decades later.

It is noteworthy that the names of some good mechanics appear in the 1894 roster. Quite possibly these men contrived a fairly workable and efficient fire engine.

In 1894 the town had no water system. For fire fighting household wells were the main reliance, except perhaps when a fire occurred near Wilson's Run or the Little Yough River.

Fifteen years later, on April 1st, 1909, a contract was awarded for a water system, the cost $38,000. This sum included the cost of installing water and sewage lines, the pump house, a hose house, and a 300,000 gallon reservoir on Crook Crest. The contractor was to furnish all pipe and other materials.

Returning to the 1894 minutes, measures were taken to have the advantage of affiliation with the Maryland Fire Association. Some means of sounding the alarm when fires occurred or threatened was an imperative need. In those days there was no local telephone service; the siren alarm had not then been developed. The best alarm 63 years ago was a good bell. The bell 240 pounds, the cost $25 less 10%. Eventually the bell was procured from the McShane Bell Foundry of Baltimore and mounted for use.

A librarian, Eugene Hart, was elected by acclamation, This seems to have been the beginning of a library in the town of Oakland. The company subscribed for the Baltimore American and purchased other reading matter including the Encyclopedia Brittanica. Members were assessed ten cents to help meet these expenses. The library continued to grow; a committee was appointed to further a circulating library.

The company was now organized on solid footing. Between the years 1894 to 1898 many other needs arose and with them came mounting expenses. A better lighting system was needed for the headquarters. Energetic committeemen persuaded the city fathers to meet the expense of wiring the building for electric lights and the installation of one outdoor light. Also the council voted $15.00 to help pay for an electrical alarm. The question of incorporation was discussed and a committee appointed to handle this. Ladies of the town organized fund raising activities. One festival in June 1895 netted $63.90 which was applied to payments on the Encyclopedia. Another festival in 1896 cleared $46.19.

During those years Oaklanders were proud of a musical organization that for all around excellence had made itself a fame very far beyond its immediate locale—Smith's Military Band, named for its director, Samuel C. Smith. The band gave a number of fund raising concerts.

Coats and helmets were purchased; a tongue for the fire truck; a duty trumpet; a pitcher for pouring acid into fire extinguishers. The town council provided a new stove for company headquarters.

A meeting of January 13, 1896 was unusual—it was suspension night. That is, some members worked in jeopardy of suspension for delinquencies. What these latter were was not specified in the minutes, but presumably they were failures to attend meetings or to pay dues. Some were reinstated; others were not. Fifteen were suspended. Two new members enrolled, Edward and Elwood Offutt.

Others who were officers and members during those years and whose names have not appeared were: Ernest Townshend, J. L. Townshend, Wm. R. Offutt, John Dailey, Howard Hoffman, John Andrews, Guy Kerber, David Glaze, Guy Chisholm, Paul White, Wm. E. Rice, Harper Bartlett, John Martin, Clarence Stemple, E. Helbig, S. Lawton, Joe Wolf, Jack Scalley, Wm. E. Broderick, W. H. Spedden.

The old minute book ends with entries of 1898.

By modern standards the equipment was inadequate but there is little doubt that with what they had those gallant firemen of two generations ago did very well.

Senate Cloakroom

By J. GLENN BEALL
United States Senator from Maryland

Ah! Sweet History!—Too much revenue no place to spend it! That was the unique problem which faced Chester A. Arthur and Grover Cleveland. Every President, from Washington to Eisenhower, has fretted over balancing the budget. Arthur and Cleveland found theirs out of kilter because tax money poured in too fast. Arthur glumly looked at all that money, and complained: "Swollen revenues lead to spending." The overabundance of money, coming from customs duties (there was no income tax in those days), was the reason Cleveland wanted to lower tariffs.

The contrasting picture today is of a President trying to build a balanced budget structure by eliminating extravagant spending, and, on the other hand certain of our citizens apparently impatient for the opportunity to huff and puff and blow the house down.

Hello, Outer Space! Who's There? — Definite, serious steps are being made by the Space agency leading to the sending of a rocket to Venus, one of our close little family of planets, "clustered" about our sun (which is but one of millions of such suns, which we call "stars"). There are problems, of course, but they will be solved. We'll get to Venus. Nevertheless, there are those who dismiss the idea of "flying saucers" from other planets as preposterous. Isn't it stupid—and conceited—for us human beings to think no one else in the universe is as intelligent as we are?

A famous physicist, when asked if it were possible for the planet Earth to be destroyed by nuclear power, answered: "Yes, it theoretically could happen, but it isn't as if the Earth were one of the major planets."

The ever-expanding capability of mankind to think beyond itself is one of the things that keep us hopeful.

Space Science On Its Way—The National Aeronautics and Space Administration announces a program of research appointments in theoretical and experimental physics associated with space exploration. The appointments are intended for scientists of exceptional creative ability who wish to free themselves from academic responsibilities in order to devote extensive time to basic research.

A Congressional committee has been informed that Space scientists are working on a missile whose booster stage would return to the launching site where it could be refueled and used again.

Should We Be Scared?—The impending Berlin showdown monopolizes the headlines, with the Russian Premier alternately playing it hot and cold and our Western leaders repeating that, come what may, we will honor our moral commitment—in Berlin, we will not back up an inch under threat and attempted intimidation. So, we have a crisis. Your sons and daughters and mine are asking us if we should be scared.

First, I feel we should keep the situation in some sort of perspective. We have been having these recurrent "showdowns" with the Soviets for a long time now and we might as well accept the fact that we are going to have them for a long time to come—while the Kremlin continually probes for a soft spot in our alliances.

Remember last Fall when war or peace seemed to hinge on Quemoy and Matsu? Or last summer when our Marines landed in Lebanon? Remember Hungary? And Suez? And Indo-China? And the Berlin airlift? Each of these held the seed of World War III, just as surely as does the Berlin impasse of 1959. This is not to minimize the gravity of the Berlin problem, but to say that steady nerves is what the Western world needs, not a panic response to each and every gamble launched by the Kremlin.

There have been demands from some quarters that we mobilize additional troops and enlarge our European ground defenses to meet the present challenge. President Eisenhower wisely says No! In the first place, we could not match, man for man, the ground forces of Russia. It would be futile and disastrous to attempt it. If we were to mobilize partially or fully at every onset of recurring crises, the United States would soon be drained of economic vitality, our ace-in-the-hole. President Eisenhower says that any war in which we might become involved in Europe would be a nuclear war. If we are to prevail, it could not be otherwise.

As for nuclear power, we have the assured capability of destroying Russia if we strike fast enough. With that assurance, comparative stock-pile figures are academic.

We hate war. We want peace. But to have peace in today's world, it seems we must be prepared to win a war.

Committee Works On Military Preparedness—The Senate Committee on Armed Services, of which I am a member, continued hearings this past week on military construction. In both executive and open sessions, we heard testimony of Secretary of Army Brucker and General Lemnitzer, the new Army Chief of Staff, and other witnesses of the Army, Navy and Air Force. The Preparedness Investigating Subcommittee heard testimony on major defense matters with especial emphasis on the military budget and the Berlin situation. Among those heard were Air Force Chief of Staff General White and Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff General Twining.

Area Redevelopment Bill Reported—Our Senate Committee on Banking and Currency reported the Area Redevelopment Bill, to establish an effective program to alleviate conditions of underemployment in affected areas. We began hearings on regulating bank mergers. We also approved Presidental nominations to the Council of Economic Advisers and the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System.

Maryland Gets Federal Aid—The Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare tells me that Johns Hopkins Hospital has been granted the amount of $254,000 as the Federal government's share of the cost of its project for additional facilities and alterations to existing facilities; also, $80,902 has been certified for immediate payment to the Cecil County Board of Education as part of the Federal program to provide financial assistance for schools in "Federally affected" areas. The General Services Administration has just awarded two contracts related to the new Dental Research Laboratory building at Bethesda, Maryland.

Something For Nothing?—Your government has nothing which it can give you—it can only return to you part of what it takes away in taxes.

THE COUNTRY-PULPIT

WEEKLY SERMON by Pastor P. F. Nieuwkoop

Daniel WEBSTER'S CONFESSION

"I believe Jesus Christ to be the Son of God. That miracles which He wrought establish in my mind His personal authority and render it proper for me to believe whatever He asserts.

"I believe therefore, all His declarations, as well when He declares Himself to be the Son of God as when He declares any other proposition.

"I believe there is no other way of salvation than through the merits of His atonement.

"I believe that the Bible is to be understood and received in the plain obvious meaning of its passages, since I cannot persuade myself that a book intended for the instruction and conversion of the whole world should cover its meaning in any such mystery and douht that none but critics & philosophers can discover it."

The statement was taken from Daniel Webster's written confession of faith which he handed to his Pastor in 1807. Daniel Webster is only one of the many great men of stature who did not believe that the wisdom of this world was greater than the revelation found in the Word of God. The Christian Faith can boast of leaders from all walks of life who sought and received the forgiveness of sins as they humbled themselves before the Saviour and received eternal life from His hands.

ENGLANDER'S PHARMACY Monthly News

A Message from Clinton W. Englander, "Your Pharmacist"

"Door-to-Door Peddling of Drugs, Vitamins and Other Medicines will be outlawed by the New York City Board of Health" said Dr. Roscoe P. Kandle, Commissioner of the Department of Health.

Dr. Kandle said: "Many door-to-door peddlers make wild, irresponsible and fradulent claims about the diseases their products will prevent or cure. The courts have forbidden such claims, but the individual peddlers make such claims orally."

Another Source of Great Danger is Their Sale of Food Supplements, most of which have little value. Because potent vitamins, which can accomplish much good, are regulated by law for sale in a pharmacy under professional supervision, many opportunists skirt the law by calling them foods. To do this the strength is so reduced that results ore negligible. Yet, the prices they charge are usually much higher.

There is No Reason for Anyone to Gamble With His Health. Our desire to protect and keep our good professional reputation is your assurance that your health will always be our foremost consideration. The products we supply will always be dependable and fairly priced. In this competitive age, no one can sell for less and give equal value or quality.

Be Safe. Depend on Your Physician to Tell You What Medicine to Take and Always Get it from a Pharmacist.

Orally Administered Polio Preventive Being Tested

Encouraging results from tests of orally taken anti-polio virus pills have been reported by the Minnesota health department in Minneapolis. The immunity provided is similar to that of a person who has actually had polio and recovered. The new method contains live virus, instead of the killed viruses in the present available Salk Vaccine, according to Clinton W. Englander, of Englander's Pharmacy.

In the future it may be possible to swallow an anti-polio pill that may confer immunity against the disease for as long as seven years, but it will take a few more years to make all the tests needed for this new method. Right now the Salk vaccine, presently available should be used, it was stated.

'Teachers' Pay Bill Earmarked 80 Pct. State Aid to Salary

Legislative committees were assured by state officials and [illegible] that 80 percent of the state aid provided under the new school teacher pay raise proposal will go for salaries.

This decision removed an [illegible] political issue cast up to the Legislature's Fiscal Research bureau. The only amounts excluded will be 20 percent which goes to each county for school supplies, heat, light, janitorial service and similar purposes with each boost in salary scales.

Dr. Thomas G. Pullen, Jr., state superintendent of schools said the plan was worked out during six weeks of conferences with the governor and his aides and represent recognition by the governor "of the problem of acquiring good teachers for every child in this state."

There were representatives from Garrett county among the 300 or more attending a hearing on the bill on Tuesday.

The estimated 31 million dollar additional cost to the state for the four years of the program does not include increases in the number of teachers during that period and will cost the state closer to 16 million in it's fourth year than the 10 million announced, according to one senator.

The measure is expected to be approved.

The State Teachers association furnished the breakdown of how new state aid to education would be distributed to subdivisions by the fourth year of the pay raise plan as it becomes fully effective.

Shown in order are the total additional aid, the amount which must be spent on salaries, the present number of teachers and supervisors and the average new salary money per teacher:

Garrett county—$142,182; $114,438; 191; $601.

WHERE DID THE PRESCRIPTION SYMBOL Rx COME FROM ?
Authorities disagree. It may be an abbreviation of the Latin word "recipe" (you take), or it may have been the sign of the pagan god, Jupiter. Another theory claims that scholars of the middle ages (often both physicians and mathematicians) used the Latin word "radix" to signify answers to difficult multiplication problems. "Radix" was later abbreviated to Rx and adapted to represent medical answers to medical problems.
Which is right? Take your pick. And whether your doctor gives you a prescription or an "Rx" you can always be sure you'll get prompt efficient prescription service from us.

Senate Cloakroom

By J. GLENN BEALL
United States Senator from Maryland

Hey! Wait For The Trains!—The subway through which little underground trains will ply between the brand new Senate Office Building and the Capitol was completed the other day and they started to cover it over. The covering was halted abruptly, however. Someone remembered they still had to get the trains down there.

Black-Eyed Susans Have Their Day—On Maryland Day, March 25, I introduced in the U. S. Senate a joint resolution designating the Black-eyed Susan as the National Flower. I proposed Maryland's State Flower for the national honor previously sought for the rose, the marigold, the carnation, and the corn tassel.

In my remarks on the Senate Floor on the observance of Maryland Day, I referred to the reasons we call Maryland the Free State.

Sun-Powered Spaceships—The scientists who are credited with our progress thus far in space exploration are now "thinking out loud" about the kind of vehicles which will carry earth men about the Solar System. The spaceships envisaged would really be two ships connected by a half-mile cable and swinging around one another in flight, to provide the centrifugal force which they say is necessary for men to live and work in space. They believe the ships would be driven by engines powered by the sun's rays. Necessary in the plan would be a "universe mirror", orbiting at the same speed the earth revolves, to concentrate light and heat from the sun.

By-products of the "universe mirror", the scientists say, would be the melting of icebergs, the freeing of icebound harbors, the giving to cities of night light as bright as day, and the changing of deserts into fertile lands.

Committee Work, Full Schedule—During the past week, our Senate Committee on Banking and Currency held hearings relating to reserve requirements to be maintained by member banks of the Federal Reserve System. A subcommittee of our District Committee considered problems of underfed children in D.C. schools. Our Committee on Armed Services continued hearings on the long list of military construction projects proposed by the President.

Defense Preparedness—Six launching pads—for ballistic missiles are being rushed to completion at Vandenberg Air Force Base in California. Three new antisubmarine weapons have been unveiled by the U.S. Navy; a lightweight, high-speed torpedo capable of seeking out fast subs at great depth and two new mines that can be dropped from fast, high-flying planes and sink to the bottom to escape detection. Our air defenses are to be directed from underground; the Department of Defense has approved a site in the Cheyenne Mountains for a dug-in combat-operations center, to cost 30 million dollars.

Weapons, $1.00; Good Will, 9 Cents—Congress will not hesitate to vote a military budget of more than 40 billion dollars, yet voices are raised in protest at spending or lending less than 4 billion for constructive peaceful purposes which could command respect among the uncommitted peoples of the world. We could be the most mighty nation and at the same time lose the battle of the world if we do not help our world neighbors. President Eisenhower said: "Our expenditures for mutual security are fully as important to our national defense as expenditures for our own forces. . . If we are wise, we will consider it not as a cost but as an investment—an investment in our present safety, in our future strength and growth. . ."

It is sometimes said in derogation of dictators and backward peoples that the only language they understand is force. Shall we Americans lay that indictment against ourselves in our relative treatment of weaponry on one side and a contribution to a civilized world on the other? Will we begrudge less than 10 cents in peace potential for the dollar we spend on war potential?

Is Berlin A Smoke Screen?—While everybody is worrying about the Berlin "crisis", watch for the Russians to make a grab for Iraq, a strategic Middle East land in the very heart of an area containing 63 per cent of the world's oil reserves. It's a Moscow trick Start a "crisis" in one area to distract attention, and then make a grab in another part of the world. If Iraq goes, there goes not only Europe's oil supply but possibly the whole Middle East!

One-Third Of Your Income, Maybe More—Once, someone said publicly something about one-third of our people being ill-housed, ill-clothed, ill-fed. Then, things began to happen! The so-called "Haves" were taxed and taxed to take care of the so-called "Have-Nots." The result is indicated in two items:

(1) A survey shows that the average American family with an annual income of $4,500 probably pays about $1,425 in taxes, or just under one-third of its total income. While some taxes are well publicized, hundreds more are hidden. The Tax Research Institute dug up some interesting facts: on a man's suit, 116 taxes; on a woman's hat, 150 taxes; on a loaf of bread, 151 taxes; and so on.

(2) My colleague, Senator Byrd of Virginia, has discovered that the U. S. Treasury issues regular checks to nearly 40,000,000 people. Inasmuch as a large percentage of these might be considered heads of families, it is quite possible that half of our total population are receiving income from the Federal government.

Goodwill Embassy Tour—A visit in an Islamic mosque! plus a little bit of Chile, Vietnam, Egypt, and other exotic places! as reflected in their embassies; add tea at the embassies of Turkey and the Union of South Africa!—all this equals a never-to-be-forgotten experience which is to be yours, for the price of $4.

A group of Congressional and Cabinet wives (including Maryland's Margaret Beall) in interesting themselves in a worthy cause, came up with a unique and interesting project. In order to help the Goodwill Industries in its work of rehabilitation for the physically handicapped, the ladies devised a tour of interesting embassies of foreign countries.

The time of the tour this year: the afternoon of April 25th.

Mrs. Roy E. James is President of the Goodwill Guild. The General Chairman of this year's Embassy Tour and Tea is Mrs. Everett McKinley Dirksen. Tickets are being handled by Mrs. John G. Ladd, 2819 45th Street, N. W., Washington, telephone EMerson 3-3746.

Honored By American Jewish Congress—Last week at a special award banquet in Baltimore, the American Jewish Congress presented me with the Stephen S. Wise Memorial Award for such services as I have been privileged to render in the battle for human and civil rights. Fully aware of the nature and meaning of the award, I was most humbly grateful.

Is Your Name GREEN?

Green, an old and honored surname, is principally of English and Scottish origins. It owes its use chiefly to the fact that in ancient and mediaeval times practically every village had its green or unenclosed common land that was used free of charge by the people for the grazing of cattle. Thus, Green was bestowed, when surnames first came into vogue, upon those whose homes were near such land.

It is said that Green is also of Irish origin. In this connection it stems from the Gaelic "uaihne" meaning the color "green." The Irish members of the Green family were of consequence in the kingdom of Thomond as far back as the 11th century, and in later years they were numerous in County Cork.

John Green (1730-1793) and Timothy Green (1733-1812) served as colonels respectively in the Virginia and Pennsylvania troops during the Revolutionary War.

The first census of the United States, taken in 1790, has eighty-six listings of persons by the name of Green who were residents of Maryland and heads of families at that time.

Benjamin H. Green and Simeon W. Green were school trustees respectively of Selbysport District No. 2 and Bloomington District No. 4, Garrett County for the year ending May 1882.

William Henry Green (1825-1900) was professor of Oriental and Old Testament Literature at Princeton, New Jersey.

Henry Green (1828-1909) was Justice, Supreme Court of Pennsylvania.

Hetty Howland Robinson Green (1835-1916) of New York City was said to have been the richest woman in the world and probably the greatest woman financier who ever lived.

Louis Craig Green is professor of mathematics and astronomy at Haverford College, Haverford, Pa.

Theodore Francis Green has been United States Senator from Rhode Island since 1937.

Charles M. Green is president, Sperry Gyroscope Company, Lake Success, N. Y.

Heat from Milk Used To Heat Milk Room

Each day enough heat can be removed from cooling 200 gallons of milk fresh from the cows to help heat the milkroom or preheat 50 gallons of milkroom wash water economically, according to U.S. Department of Agriculture.

M. Conner Ahrens of USDA's Agricultural Research Service in cooperation with the Washington Agricultural Experiment Station, has shown that heat energy equivalent to about 4,000 kilowatt-hours of electricity annually can be removed from 200 gallons of warm milk daily. Mr. Ahrens used a 400-gallon milk tank equipped with a 2-horsepower refrigeration unit. Milk was collected from the tank every other day.

A part of this heat can be used for milk house heating—states A. V. Krewatch, Extension Agricultural Engineer of the University of Maryland, College of Agriculture. For instance, the refrigeration unit of a direct expansion bulk milk tank can be so located that the fan on the condenser can blow out during the summer and by the flip of a door can be made to circulate the heated air in the milkroom during the winter.

Krewatch emphasizes that the condenser on air cooled refrigeration equipment should not be located in a corner or against a wall without being vented to the outside during summer. The equipment cannot do an efficient job if it must operate in its own hot air. Ice bank type milk tank equipment dissipates its heat over a long period of time and its efficiency depends on good milk house ventilation during the summer.

Gen. Charles DeGaulle became president of France and named as premier Michel Debre.

By S. A. KAPLAN

THE TWELVE SPIES

(This story is based on Numbers 13 and 14)

HELLO BOYS AND GIRLS!

Doesn't it make you feel good when mother and dad express absolute confidence in your word; when they trust you and are willing to put you on your honor because they believe your promises? You don't like to be mistrusted do you? How then do you suppose God must feel when we mistrust His Word and question His promises as they are recorded for us in the Bible?

God had promised to give the children of Israel the land of Canaan which anciently was inhabited by powerful godless nations. The Israelites should have believed God's word that He would help them to conquer these heathen tribes. We read that when they reached the border of Canaan they decided first to send out twelve spies -- one out of each tribe -- into the enemies' land and to report back what they had seen. You can imagine how risky that must have been for those men to walk up and down that land for forty long days. But God protected them and they were able to bring back with them figs, pomegranates, and believe it or not, one cluster of grapes so large that it took two men to carry it between them on a stick.

Two of the spies brought a good report, but the ten remaining, unbelieving spies brought back an evil report. "The land," said they, "floweth with milk and honey, and this is the fruit of it." And they added cowardly: "Nevertheless the people be strong that dwell in the land, and the cities are walled, and very great .... and there we saw the giants .... and we were in our own sight as grasshoppers, and so we were in their sight." Unbelief is contagious, and we read that, "All the congregation lifted up their voice, and cried; and the people wept that night .... and they murmured against Moses and against Aaron: and the whole congregation said unto them, Would God that we had died in the land of Egypt! or would God we had died in this wilderness! Then they permitted their feelings to rise against God and they said: "Wherefore hath the Lord brought us unto this land, to fall by the sword, that our wives and our children should be a prey? were it not better for us to return into Egypt? And they said one to another, Let us make a captain, and let us to return into Egypt." Thus they accused God of promising them something that He could not possibly make good.

The two faithful, believing spies, Joshua and Caleb, tried to quiet the people, and encouraged them to believe God's promise saying: "Rebel not ye against the Lord, neither fear ye the people of the land; for they are bread for us .... the Lord is with us: fear them not." But we read that, "All the congregation bade stone them with stones." Had it not been for God, they would have carried out their murderous design. You see, boys and girls, what unbelief can do for us. It makes cowards out of us, and brings out the very worst in our natures. For their great sin, they had to wander in the wilderness for forty long years, and as they had wished, that generation all died in the wilderness, excepting Joshua and Caleb the two faithful spies. How great will be their reward! The Bible says: According to your faith so be it unto you." So let us not be faithless, but believing, ever trusting the Lord to do for us that which we cannot do for ourselves.

To Know Egg Buying Can Save Money

Hard to tell a good egg from a bad egg, by just looking. That's why eggs cartons are labeled by government standards, to insure that you get what you pay for. That's why you find eggs cartoned in four quality grades, says William Langston, University of Maryland marketing specialist.

Eggs labeled Grade AA or Grade A, are, of course, top quality. These eggs have a large amount of firm white and a well-rounded, upstanding yolk. Their high quality and freshness can be most appreciated when used for poaching, frying, or cooking in the shell.

Grade B and C eggs have thinner white, the yolks may be somewhat flatter—and the yolks may break easily. Many families, however, find it economical to use these eggs in scrambling, and for other cooking purposes. The eggs offer the same food value as higher-priced eggs.

In the summer and early fall when medium and small eggs are plentiful they are likely to be very good buys because they are priced considerably lower than the mere difference in the weight implies.

Ever wondered about the difference between buying brown eggs and white eggs? The color of the egg does not indicate the food value of the quality of the contents, says Langston. There is absolutely no reason for paying a higher price for a particular shell color. Very often, he adds, a consumer can save money by buying brown eggs where white eggs bring a higher price or vice versa.

How about blood spots? Do they mean that an egg is inferior in quality? Langston says that a tiny blood spot in the yolk does no harm to the nutrient and eating appeal of the egg. Some strains of chickens produce eggs containing more blood spots than others and the tendency toward blood spots seems to be inherited. A new electronic device has recently been developed to detect blood spots in eggs and it may be that there will no longer be found in top-graded eggs sold in the stores.

An extra egg in your recipes for most dishes will generally improve texture, flavor, and appearance.

Cancer Is Subject Of Civic Club Meet

Cancer was the subject under discussion at the regular monthly luncheon meeting of the Oakland Civic club on Tuesday afternoon.

A film, "Time and Two Women," distributed by the American Cancer society, was shown. Dr. Arthur Jones, county health officer, was narrator and he was assisted by Mrs. M. George, county health nurse from the northern part of the county.

Dr. Jones also gave a talk on cancer, stressing the importance of a physical check-up by the family doctor at least once a year. He declared cancer was no respecter of age as it strikes, infants, adolescents and the middle aged. As a result of a program of research, medical men hope that a cure for cancer will be available within ten years.

Following the program Mrs. O. T. Graser, president, conducted a brief business meeting calling attention to the State convention in Baltimore April 19, 20 and 21, and the annual district meeting at Frederick April 29.

Wed Sunday at Oakland

Miss Carolyn Louise Lewis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Asa Lewis of 38 Abby Street, Oakland, became the bride of John Walter Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter D. Johnson of White Bear Lake, Minnesota, at 2 p. m. Easter Sunday, March 29, in St. Paul's Methodist Church. The candle-lit ceremony was performed by the Reverend Charles Godwin, pastor.

The altar was decorated with Easter lilies, palms and ferns and Mrs. Fred A. Lantz played the traditional wedding music and accompanied the soloist, Mr. Lantz. The selections were "I Love You Truly," "Through the Years," "O Perfect Love" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attended by Miss Elaine Lewis, sister of the bride, as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Mary Phelps, Lawrence, Massachusetts; Miss Christine Frazer, Wilmington, Delaware and Miss Rebecca Johnson, sister of the groom. The bride wore a floor length gown of embroidered silk tulle over taffeta with a sabrina neckline and a very bouffant skirt and long sleeves with calla lily points at the wrist. There were tiny rosebuds embroidered on the neckline border and overskirt. Her three-tier veil of imported silk illusion was held in place by a crown of lilies of the valley. She carried an Easter lily and white rose buds on a white prayer book with streamers of rose buds tied with white ribbon.

The maid of honor's gown was a waltz length gown of aqua nylon over matching net and taffeta with scalloped sabrina neckline and a yoke of exquisite lace and short lace sleeves. A narrow self band at the waistline formed an Empire peplum. She wore a matching open crown picture hat and carried a basket filled with an Easter lily and surrounded with an arrangement of spring flowers of complementing yellow color.

The bridesmaids were attired in gowns and hats of the same description and carried baskets with flowers of complementing aqua color.

Mrs. Lewis, mother of the bride, wore a navy blue dress with white accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

Honored by Tawes For Forest Service

Henry C. Beckingham, state forester for Maryland Department of Forest and Parks, has been honored by Gov. Millard Tawes for his 39 years of service and achievement.

A certificate of merit was presented Buckingham, former district forester for Western Maryland, by Joseph E. Naylor, director of the department, at a luncheon at Annapolis.

Three other Forestry department workers in district 1 will be honored soon for their years of service. They are Elmer H. Ungle, 15 years; Ward Lane Vahbs and Robert De Witt Bond, both 10 years, all of Garrett county.

Certificates will be presented by District Forester William H. Johnson, himself a 26-year veteran of department service.

Buckingham went with the department in 1928 by State Forester Fred W. Besley. Later he was district forester for Western Maryland. Upon Besley's retirement in 1947 Buckingham was appointed state forester. He also filled an interim appointment as state director of forests and parks in 1958.

A graduate of the University of Connecticut in forestry, he also holds a master's degree in forestry from Yale university. Reforestation, practical forest management by private owners for profitable products, and forest fire control have made material advances under his administration. He is credited with much of the leadership in establishment of the state forest nursery at Harmans. In the past decade the state has taken a recognized position among leading states in reduction and control of forest fires.

Mary Fraley Johnson Receives Praise For Concert Participation

Mrs. Mary Fraley Johnson, wife of David Johnson and daughter of Associate Judge and Mrs. Neil C. Fraley, Fourth street, received favorable reviews by music critics following her participation in two concerts at Bradenton and Sarasota, Fla.

The occasion was the season finale for the West Coast Symphony orchestra.

One reviewer declared: 'Soloist Mary Fraley Johnson, playing 'Concerto for Cello and Orchestra in A Minor,' by Camille Saint-Saens, gave a healthy vindication of the local orchestra's policy of encouraging up and coming artists. And if a few more young Americans have as much talent and devotion for the cello as she has, the instrument will soon gain the place it deserves as solo medium . . . Mrs. John's main fortes are her flawless tones and her expert technique. Such important assets undoubtedly can give her the boldness needed to rise to fame."

Mrs. Johnson played the adagio from Luigi Boccherini's cello concerto for her encore.

Another reviewer remarked: "Mary Fraley Johnson amply displayed her sensitive musical knowledge and technique with her beloved string instrument . . . The smoothness and the subtlety of the artist's nuance emerged best, it seemed to this reviewer, in the encore piece, a richly shaded, haunting and beautifully melodic "Konzert for Violincello" by Luigi Boccherini. Mrs. Johnson's rendition against the muted orchestra background utterly charmed her audience.'

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Day	Book	Chapter	Verses
Sunday	Psalms	42	1-4
Monday	Psalms	66	11
Tuesday	Psalms	84	1-12
Wednesday	John	3	1-14
Thursday	John	21	15-25
Friday	I Corinthians	15	1-58
Saturday	Revelation	1	1-20

Mother's wearing her smart new hat, Susan's curls are brushed till they shine, and Dad's looking pretty sharp, himself, in that pale gray suit.

If the Browns look like a family starting out on a pleasure ride — well, that's exactly what they're about to do. They're going to church.

The Browns are regular churchgoers. But this is their secret. They go to church not only because they feel they should, but because they want to. Church, for them, is one of the most joyous occasions of the week.

No one ever said that going to church had to be a glum, long-faced affair. Going to church isn't a duty. It's a privilege.

Make church your destination this Sunday. And go joyfully.

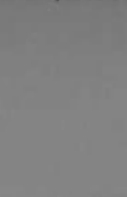
One Plus God

Lesson for April 5, 1959

"ONE PLUS GOD" is a slogan that might fit many a strong life. It is not only the secret of such men as were the prophets of old, not only for Saint Paul and Saint Augustine and Martin Luther, and other famous persons admired by Christians. The reader should realize that this can be true of every one who puts his trust in God. The price of admission to the goodly company of the saints is not cheap, but it is in every one's reach: Faith.



Dr. Foreman

Loyalty

This was true of the famous Old Testament hero named Samuel. He was what in football language is called a triple-threat man. He was a priest, prophet, judge, military advisor; and tradition even says he was a writer, though of course he did not live long enough to have written the books that bear his name in the Old Testament. (They do not claim to have been written by him.) Before his time there had been no kings, and indeed not very much unity among the tribes of Israel. Under his leadership the tribes were better united, and it would not be much exaggeration to say that Samuel "licked the tribes into shape"—the shape of a kingdom which he turned over to the first king-by-title, Saul. It is true that King Saul did not pay attention to Samuel's wisdom; but all the same, after the old prophet was dead, Saul thought so much of his advice that he actually tried to conjure him out of his grave just to hear him again.

What was the secret of Samuel's power over Israel? First of all it was a contagious loyalty to the one true God. It was a time when most men worshipped many gods. Even the Israelites did this. Samuel ran the risk of being looked at as a crank or a fanatic, but such was his known loyalty to God that when he challenged Israel to throw away their idols, they did. There must have been something in his life that made even those primitive men sure that one-plus-God means greatness.

Prayer

Another marked feature of Samuel's life was his prayers. We have on record the story of his very first prayer. It was not a begging request, not a "Gimme" prayer at all. It was "Speak, Lord; for thy servant heareth." Even as a boy he would rather hear what God has to say than to pour out words before God. How seldom it is that people in praying give God any chance to speak! The Lord seldom has much to say to a man who insists on talking every minute.

Another feature of Samuel's prayer life was that he prayed for others, even when those others had turned their backs on him. Samuel did his best to persuade the Israelites not to have a king. He knew that "power corrupts" and he predicted accurately the injustice and tyranny which their future kings would show. But they wanted a king all the same; yet in taking leave of them Samuel was not bitter. "Far be it from me that I should sin against the Lord by ceasing to pray for you," he said.

Wisdom

Samuel was an example of what we nowadays call a circuit judge. He held court in three cities, including his home town. (This alone is remarkable.) He was not (on the one hand) the kind of religious person who retires to a cell and there spends his life in prayer. He was a man of affairs, trusted by high and low. He was not (on the other hand) the kind of religious person who keeps his religion with his hymnbook—in church, where he takes it out and gets loud and happy over it once a week—only once. Samuel on the contrary was a man whose religious faith was the foundation of his wisdom. Religion did not lift him "out of this world;" it gave him insight into the problems of this world. His one-plus-God life was not for himself alone; God in life helped him to be a help to others. Perhaps one strong reason why there are not more persons who deserve that "One-plus-God" description, is that too many of us want to have God by the hand to serve ourselves rather than others.

REV. C. P. ANDERSON

CONVINCED OF THE RESURRECTION

John 20:28, "My Lord and my God."

Thomas was not present the first Sunday night that Jesus appeared to the disciples after his resurrection, but he meets with the other disciples the second Sunday night. Thomas had said that he could not believe until he saw Christ for himself.

Jesus knows all about the doubt of Thomas. So he appears to the disciples the second Sunday night, the doors being closed on the Sunday night before, and challenges the doubt of Thomas with the words: "Reach hither thy finger, and see my hands; and reach hither thy hand, and put it into my side; and be not faithless, but believing." Thomas recognized the voice of Jesus. He recognized that familiar and dear face. There were the wounded hands and the side. But Thomas did not need to put his hand into his Savior's wounded side. A crisis had come in Thomas's life and faith had to act and to decide. Faith is higher than knowledge. Thomas did not understand how Jesus came into that room, and how he rose from the dead, but he knew that both were facts. So here Jesus was and Thomas must decide what to do and at once. He surrenders to the risen Christ: "My Lord and my God." The man who has struggled with his honest doubts has risen by faith and experience to the noblest confession in the gospels. The doubter, the pessimist, the skeptic, has become the man of sublime faith. The risen Christ met Thomas with proof that won.

How did Thomas reach this high confession? We may be sure that he reached it through the death and resurrection of Jesus. These are the two events which have occurred between the time when Thomas with the rest of the disciples forsook Jesus and fled, and the time when he said, "My Lord and my God."

To these words of Thomas all Christians must come. It is not enough to hear of Christ, or to confess him along with our friends as our Lord and our God. The belief of others will do you no good, for no truth is truly yours until you have made it yours by struggle and toil, and found its echo in your own heart.

Sen. John Marshall Butler

The Osmosis of Ideologies

During the course of recent hearings before the Joint Economic Committee, more than one economic theorist suggested that we must strive for a rate of growth approximating five percent a year in order that we might maintain our position in the competitive struggle with the Russians. Whether the rate of growth should be two, five or ten percent, it must be measured in physical units and not in dollars. Physical units in this sense are intended to mean greater production of goods and services, better tools and equipment, improved methods and managerial techniques, more advanced research and in the last analysis, a keener dedication to thrift and hard work by everyone. Otherwise, if the ware-price spiral and its inevitable inflationary by-products continue, the Communists will have achieved their expressed goal—to conquer the world without having fired a shot!

In his book entitled "The Economic Consequences of the Peace," the widely-known British economist, John Maynard Keynes, commented: "Lenin is said to have declared that the best way to destroy the Capitalist system was to debauch its currency." Then, after detailing some of the harmful effects of inflation and money debasement, Keynes added: "Lenin was certainly right. There is no subtler, no surer means of overturning a society than to debauch the currency. The process engages all the hidden forces of economic law on the side of destruction, and does it in a manner which not one man in a million is able to diagnose." Some of Keynes' economic theories are highly unacceptable to me, but it would be extremely difficult for anyone to put up a valid argument against his statement just quoted.

Among the hidden forces to which Keynes alludes would most certainly be the incentive of the individual, or more precisely, the lack of it. In this regard, the public accounts of his eight-hour conference last December note that Senator Humphrey asked the Soviet Premier about Red China's experiments with compulsory communal living. Mr. Khrushchev is said to have replied: "They are old fashioned, they are reactionary. We tried that right after the revolution. It just doesn't work. . . . You know, Senator, what those communes are based on? They are based on that principle, 'From each according to his abilities, to each according to his needs.' You know that won't work. You can't get production without incentive."

Incredibly, the tables are being turned. The Russians are adopting capitalistic concepts while we slowly embrace Marxism, pure Socialism. Incentives are the essence of free competitive enterprise. Government paternalism, excessive taxation, deficit financing and an inflationary economy are no substitutes.

John J. McMullen, chairman, and Edgar T. Bennett, constituting the State Roads Commission of Maryland, acting for and on behalf of the State of Maryland vs.

Harold H. Pigott
Mollie Hawkins, widow
Tom Hawkins, tenants

No. 1482 Miscellaneous In The Circuit Court for Garrett County.

The object of this suit is to acquire by condemnation certain tracts or parcels of land situate in the Sixth Election District of Garrett County, Maryland, belonging to Harold H. Pigott, Mollie Hawkins, widow, and Tom Hawkins, tenants.

The Petition states that the Petitioners constitute the State Roads Commission of Maryland and are charged with the construction and maintenance of highways and bridges in the State of Maryland.

That they have determined it to be necessary and proper to acquire for the purpose referred to in said Petition, and in connection with the construction and maintenance of the highway system of the State, certain tracts or parcels of land situate in the Sixth Election District of Garrett County, consisting of 1.64 acres, more or less, being between the lines marked "Right of Way Line" as shown on Plats Nos. 20341 and 20342, which is being taken in fee simple, and 0.24 acres, more or less, also shown on said Plats, for slope and drainage easements

TOGETHER with the buildings and improvements thereon and the rights, alleys, ways, waters, roads, privileges, appurtenances and advantages to the same belonging or in anywise appertaining, together with the right or easement to create, use and maintain on the land shown hatched thus / / / / on the hereinbefore mentioned Plats Nos. 20341 and 20342, insofar as their property rights extend, such drainage structures and facilities as are necessary to adequately drain the roadway and or adjacent property and such slopes as are necessary to retain the said roadway and or adjacent property, it being understood that at such time as the contour of the land over which this right or easement is acquired is changed so that this easement required for slopes is no longer necessary to support or protect the property hereby to be acquired in fee simple, then said easement for slopes shall cease to be effective, together with the right to create, use and maintain on or across the adjacent land of the defendants, such waterways and or inlets and outlets as are necessary for the drainage structures indicated in the legend shown in the left hand corner of the hereinbefore mentioned Plats Nos. 20341 and 20342, together with any right, title, and interest of the defendants in and to the existing bed of U. S. Route 219, lying between the lines marked "Right of Way Line" as shown on Plats Nos. 20341 and 20342, and together with the perpetual right to erect and maintain between October 1st and April 1st of each and every year, on the adjacent land of the defendants, within one hundred feet of the land and hereby condemned in fee simple, snow fences, provided that said snow fences shall not interfere with the construction and use of buildings now erected or hereafter erected, with growing crops, or roadways.

The Petition further states that the said property is now held under the provisions of a deed from Mollie Hawkins, widow, to Harold H. Pigott, dated January 3, 1944 and recorded on July 10, 1941, in Liber A.G.R. No. 133, Folio 280, among the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland.

That Mollie Hawkins and Tom Hawkins are Tenants on said property, the terms of which are unknown to your Petitioners.

That the land and property is sought to be condemned in connection with the State System of Roads and Bridges, and especially for the construction of the U. S. Route 219, Hoyes toward McHenry, in Garrett County, Maryland.

That the Petitioners are unable to make an agreement with the defendants and that the Petitioners have deposited a check in the amount of Four Thousand Five Hundred ($4,500.00) Dollars, in the hands of the Clerk of the Circuit Court for Garrett County, in conformity with the provisions of Article 89B, Section 9, Public General Laws of Maryland, said Petitioners deeming the said sum to be the fair value of the land taken and the damages done to the property, and that it is in the public interest for them to take possession immediately upon depositing said money and that they are taking possession for the aforesaid purposes.

That the defendant, Harold H. Pigott, is a non-resident of the State of Maryland, residing at R.F.D. No. 2, Shinnston, W. Virginia.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN to Harold H. Pigott, who is a non-resident of the State of Maryland, residing at R.F.D. No. 2, Shinnston, W. Virginia, to appear in this Court, in person or by solicitor, on or before the 24th day of April, 1959, and show cause, if any they have, why the said property or said defendant's interest therein should not be condemned as prayed in said petition.

Deep Creek Regatta Set For July 25-26

Plans are already underway for the annual Deep Creek Lake Yacht club regatta, to be held on Deep Creek Lake, July 25 and 26, according to John F. Schaidt, club commodore.

The regatta will comprise five separate events with a series of three races scheduled for each. Events are Maryland Snipe championship, Maryland Rebel championship, Deep Creek Lake Thistle championship and the Maryland Flying Scot championship.

A skippers' meeting for all classes will precede the races, in the morning. Races will get under way at 11 with a Flying Scot event and with Thistles, Snipe and Rebel races will follow after fifteen-minute intervals.

Second races are slated for the same afternoon. Third races are billed for Sunday.

Individual first, second and third-place trophies will be awarded in each event in which ten or more yachts participate. First and second trophies will be presented where six to ten yachts participate, while a first place trophy will be awarded in any class with less than six boats participating.

There is an inscribed perpetual Maryland Snipe championship trophy which will be retained by the Yacht club of the winner for one year. A special award is also in store. In order that the 1959 Maryland Snipe championship will certainly be a Maryland property owner, one-half acre of land on the crest of Backbone Mountain will, immediately after the races be deeded to the winning skipper his or her heirs, successors and assigns in fee simple forever.

A social hour and buffet dinner will be held at Mt. Lake Park hotel on July 25.

Regatta chairman Fred Steiding, assisted by John Geare, set up a number of committees including, dates and events, racing, buoys, trophies, and reception.

Life Can Be Worth Living

Many times I say, "When I became a Christian, somehow everything in my life was changed." Then in a variety of ways they testify how these changes have taken place. The problems of the home were changed. The drudgery and hum drum of everyday labors were changed. The despair of the future was changed to joyful anticipation. And in addition, the blessing of giving purpose to our present lives. The trouble with many people today, they have no purpose in living. Just to exist from day to day is not enough to please God or bring satisfaction to the heart of man. God has placed us on this earth for a purpose. The first purpose is that we might bring glory to God. The second purpose and in line with the first is that we might accomplish something worthwhile for time and eternity. We can never get our sights straight until we have been to the cross. When we see Christ, as our substitutionary sacrifice, redeeming us so that we might live to the glory of God, then our outlook is changed and life becomes worth living. Every aspect of our lives will be affected. We just cannot be the same after accepting the work accomplished on Calvary. Have you been to the cross?

GOD'S FORGIVING LOVE

(This story is based on Exodus 25-27; and 36-37)

HELLO BOYS AND GIRLS!

Doesn't it make you feel good when mother and dad so gladly forgive you when you confess to them some wrong you have committed? And why do you suppose they are so willing to forgive you? It is because they love you so dearly. In today's story we will learn how eager God, our heavenly Father, is to forgive us our sins when we truly repent, and it will help us to better understand His tender, infinite love for us--a love so strong, so deep that it cannot be measured.

To show His forgiving love after Israel had sinned so grievously in worshipping the golden calf, God called Moses up into the mount, and there for forty long days Moses was given a view of God's glorious dwelling place in heaven. He was instructed to make a "pattern," or duplicate, of it here on earth. And why was he to build this tabernacle? In order that God "might dwell among them."

You have never seen a more beautiful structure than that earthly sanctuary, for God Himself was its architect. God gave Moses the plan in every detail--the exact size, the materials to be used in its construction, and the articles of furniture which it was to contain. The tabernacle was made of acacia boards, which were set in silver sockets. The walls were overlaid with pure gold. Have you ever see a structure that looked as if it were all made of pure gold?

This "sanctuary" consisted of two apartments, (or rooms). The first apartment was called the "holy place," and contained a table which was overlaid with pure gold. Upon this table twelve unleavened cakes, or loaves, were placed each week. On the opposite side of the room was the golden seven-branched candlestick which gave the only light in the sanctuary, for there were no windows in it. The third article in this room was the golden altar of incense, which stood before the curtain, or "vail," that separated the two rooms. This curtain, or "vail", was beautifully embroidered with golden cherubim, or angels, and was of blue, purple, scarlet, and fine-twined linen. No language can describe the glory of this room--the gold-plated walls reflecting the light from the golden candlestick, and the brilliant colors of the richly embroidered curtains with their shining angels.

The second apartment was even more glorious. It contained a golden chest, or "ark". On top of this chest were the figures of two golden angels. Between them shone a bright, mysterious, supernatural light called the "Shekinah," a token of God's presence. The angels looked reverently down upon the ark, inside of which were the two tables of stone upon which God had written the Ten Commandments with his own finger. Around the sanctuary was a spacious court.

Just imagine yourself standing there, outside that gloriously beautiful structure. Wouldn't you have liked to enter into it? But no! No one was permitted to enter except the priests; and only the high priest could enter the second apartment, and that for just one day in a year, on the Day of Atonement.

Every morning and evening the Israelites brought their sacrifices of lambs, etc., to the sanctuary, there to be offered for them to atone for their sins. And what did those sacrifices signify? They represented Jesus the Lamb of God, Who died for the sins of the whole world. And why was God so willing to offer up His Son, Jesus for us? Because of His amazing love for us all, as we read in John 3:16--"For God so loved the world, (which includes you), that He gave His only-begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life." Aren't you happy to know that the great God Who has created us loves us so? Shouldn't that awaken love and gratitude in your heart for Him?

VOLUME 83. OAKLAND, GARRETT COUNTY MD., APRIL 9, 1959. PER COPY, 8c NUMBER 6.

New Life - - - - -

This is a wonderful time of the year. There's the beginning of new life everywhere. Spring is "bustin' out all over."

It seems to me that now is the time for resolutions, not January 1. For life takes on new meaning. There ought to be a surge of ambition in every one, and we ought to do something about it before the usual "spring fever" catches us.

But really, now this is the time to make your plans for the summer activities. Business people at the Lake are bestirring themselves. They look for a big season. A concerted effort is being made by the town of Oakland to provide an adequate water supply that will make it possible for small industries to settle here.

Much activity is noted in the dairy business. There is an ever increasing demand for more milk, and it was pointed out a few weeks ago just how much money is brought into the county through the sale of milk and milk products Our salvation on the mountain top is to put our trust in farming and recreation. Then when some small industry lights it will be the frosting on the cake, and not the cake itself.

Paige Hickman, former creamery man in Oakland, said just the other day that too much industry had practically ruined the Ohio Valley for farming, and it was an unfortunate event. Here we have the facilities for taking care of additional dairy cows and beef cattle, and can keep on an even keel with our renewed efforts.

We see new life in building activity. Farmers are improving their dairy equipment, adding barns and other needed outbuildings.

We see new life in nature, with buds opening, leaves beginning to break forth.

Easter has just passed and with that event we see new life in the resurrection of Jesus Christ and the hope that it gives every person in the world who acknowledges Him as their Saviour.

It's a time for new thoughts, new activities, a new outlook on life. It's a time for decision too, as to what things come first. It's great to be alive.

Council Retains Dr. Baumgartner For President

Dr. E. I. Baumgartner was re-elected president of the Oakland City Council at an organization meeting on Monday night in the council chamber.

Employes who were reappointed to positions included Mrs. Gladys Nordeck, clerk-collector; Clyde Sines, street superintendent; James Lewis, water superintendent; Henry Arnold, police chief; Leslie Baker and Percy Lawton, police; James J. Carney, weighmaster; and Lewis R. Jones, city attorney.

Committee appointments were not made Monday night but are expected soon.

The council also is composed of Henry W. McComas, Robert E. Maroney, H. Robert Gibson, Howard J. White, John Wolf, with Russell L. Smith as mayor.

The group heard several complaints about various streets and alleys and decided on an inspection trip to be made today on all streets and alleys, for the purpose of making recommendations for improvement. Mrs. Sarah Wine appeared to ask that the town improve the alley between 4th and 5th streets on Quality hill, north of Alder.

Ben DeWitt appeared to complain about dogs running at large. C. C. Mason asked once again about the possibility of water and sewerage for a new home he constructed near the high school.

Albert Walter complained about a Beaver dam built on the Dead pond and council agreed on plan to trap beavers and move them elsewhere. Council also agreed to install septic tank on property of R. J. Ruckert, at the west edge of town, Golf Course road.

A permit was granted Mrs. Frances Matthews to erect 16 by 24 storage room and garage in rear of Jan Florists, Alder street. Another permit sought by Ralph Smouse to install 500 gallon underground gasoline tank at his Body Shop, was deferred.

The bonds of the clerk and treasurer were approved. The council agreed to pay Oakland cemetery committee $200 and to take a page advertisement in the county fair association book

Kitzmiller and Edgar were given the go-ahead signal on construction of new spring-house for which a bid had been accepted last year.

Council also agreed to replace Bruce Lohr's fence destroyed dur-

Spring In the Air

Spring definitely was in the air for at least two days this week, but there were indications of a setback this week-end. While the mountain top was bathed with 70 degrees temperatures on Tuesday and Wednesday, there was an announcement Wednesday night over the radio that it was snowing in Chicago with the storm heading eastward

A rundown of the week's weather showed rain and snow last Friday with continued rain on Saturday. Sunday and Monday were clear but comparatively cool and windy.

Oakland Council Adopts Daylight Saving Time

The Oakland mayor and town council, in regular session on Monday evening, adopted daylight saving time for this year beginning Sunday morning, April 26.

Just how many others towns of the county would follow suit was not known at this time. The county offices will be prohibited from adopting daylight time since the question appeared on the general election ballot November of 1956 and was defeated by a vote of 3,312 to 3,150.

The County Commissioners took no definite action in the matter, which made standard time official for the county business. However, a number of offices are expected to announce that during the summer season those employes who normally go to work at 8 o'clock and quit at 5 o'clock, would go to work at 7 o'clock and quit at 4 o'clock.

The county school system planned to operate on daylight time because of the difficulty in making school bus connections with school buses operated in Allegany county who carry some Garrett county children to schools in that county.

Last year Friendsville, Accident, Crellin, Mt. Lake Park and Bloomington adopted daylight time, and it is presumed they will repeat their action this year.

Daylight time will end officially on the last Sunday in September, which is September 27. None of the towns of the county nor the School Board plan to continue daylight time any later than September 27, even though some eastern cities carry it through to the end of October.

Del. Buckel Decries Lobby of Teachers

The school teacher lobby Saturday was called a monster "trying to bleed the state white" by Del. Buckel (D-Garrett).

He cast the only vote against a pay raise for the teachers. This was the House version to make no pledge of raises beyond next year.

"I never had strong convictions about the teachers until last night," the first-time delegate said.

"After that pressure, I was certainly disguisted.

"Last evening in our lobbies I wondered who was going to do the legislating. Almost every man was cornered and we had to fight our way into the chamber.

"If we're going to be controlled by pressure groups and other departments of the state, heaven help this State."

Buckel recalled that earlier in the session the lobbying activities of Jack Pollack, Baltimore Democratic leader, had been criticized on the floor.

"He's a very little fish in the pond compared to what I saw last night," Buckel said.

Asserting he owes the first allegiance to the State and second to his county, Buckel expressed concern over financing of the teacher pay raises.

"I'd like to ask their pressure groups and the teachers who is going to pay if they keep coming down year after year," he said.

Paid representatives of the Maryland State Teachers Assn., PTA leaders, county school superintendents and Dr. Thomas G. Pullen, State superintendent, have been on the scene while legislators wrestled with the pay proposition.

Jury Awards Webers Total of $20,500.00

A Garrett county Circuit court jury awarded the H. Weber and Sons company $20,500.00 for some 26 acres of land following a trial on Monday and Tuesday.

The state had offered the company $12,765 and the Webers were seeking $10,000. The trial took all of Monday and most of Tuesday before a decision was agreed upon.

The state took 18.07 acres of land in fee simple, 6.28 acres for easements and rights of way, and 1.51 acres for stream changes.

Attorneys for the Webers were W. W. Dawson and W. Dwight Stover, while Herbert Cohen of Cumberland, and Stuart F. Hamill, Jr., argued for the State Roads commission.

The Webers had previously agreed with the commission for the price of two buildings which were on the property. The amount in this instance was in the neighborhood of $9,000.

Thieves Still Busy In Area But No More Thefts Here

Although no additional robberies have occurred in the Oakland area since the middle of March, there has been activity in other areas.

Another safecracking job was pulled off in the Petersburg area last Friday night. Authorities in Maryland, West Virginia and Pennsylvania have been faced with several safe-crackings in the past several months. More than $1,000 was taken from a Pepsi Cola plant in Cumberland. There have been other "safe jobs" in Hyndman, Pa., Kingwood, Romney and Oakland.

In Petersburg the thieves took more than $600 from Southern States store. They entered by a back door and prior to entering the building they broke into a garage and stole two tanks of oxygen and a torch. They cut a hole in the center of the safe and used a wire to "fish" out the money. A large amount of money was overlooked.

Building Torn Down

The demolition of the former Martin residence, corner of Third and Oak streets, is about completed. It is planned to erect a filling station on the corner property.

George H Wagoner was given a permit at the March meeting of the Mayor and Town Council to erect a block building, 40 by 50, for use as a service station. Wagoner declared he planned to remove trees from the sidewalk, make a 40 foot driveway from both Oak and Third streets, leading to the building and to cover the entire lot with blacktop. The cost was estimated at $15,000 to $20,000.

THE COUNTRY-PULPIT

WEEKLY SERMON
by
Pastor P. F. Nieuwkoop

"Birds of a Feather"

There is an old saying that seems to have a lot of sense ot it. It says "Birds of a feather flock together." You do not see Sparrows flying with a flock of Robins, or Robins flocking with Crows. The intended practical application is that people travel in company which are in many respects like themselves. This is vividly demonstrated in Acts 4:23 which reads, "And being let go, they went unto their own company." Peter and John had been arrested and when they were released, they immediately sought the company of Christians and related what the Chief Priests had said unto them. Dr. Bob Jones once said, "What you do when you can do as you want to, is what you are." When the disciples were released and free to go where they wanted to, they went unto their own company. It is as natural as the birds that flock together. Now tell me, do you prefer the company of Christians or that of the world? Are you found among God's people in the Church services on Sunday and Prayer Meeting or do you prefer the places of amusement and organizations of this world? Your answer should demonstrate to you what kind of a "bird" you are. Perhaps you need to be converted?

Early Lawn Care

Now is the time to do some of the early lawn work. Rake over any bare spots, rolling and fertilizing as necessary. Crabgrass Control Weed Killer will not hurt the grass.

It is getting pretty now for any spot reseeding that your lawn might need. Better wait until September. This is the best time for planting new lawns.

To get your grass off to a good start, apply from 10 to 20 pounds of 5-10-5, or a similar balanced fertilizer for each 1000 square feet.

If you think you have a fertility problem, it would pay to have a soil test made. Then you can apply the kind and amount of fertilizer you need. It will guide you on liming too. Your County Agent will give you all the details you need for securing a free soil test, which is one of the services of the University of Maryland Department of Agronomy.

You can control wild garlic with the ester form of 2,4-D. Follow directions on the container closely. Don't use this weed killer on newly seeded areas. And don't forget to completely rinse your sprayer with household ammonia. 1 cup in 2 gallons of water. To play safe it is a good idea to use a separate sprayer for weed killers. Just the slightest trace of weed killer may damage vegetables or flowers the next time you spray with insecticides.

BRADLEY YODER

Among the many talented academic senior boys, I found the President of the Senior Electronics Club. This academic senior, Bradley Yoder, has a very interesting hobby in amateur radio. He enjoys this very much since he has talked in twenty foreign countries, some on every continent on a radio he built himself. Another favorite hobby of his is ice skating.

"Brad", 17 years of age, has had all A's and B's since the ninth grade. Among his activities in school, he was a member of the National Jr. Honor Society, participated in the Physics assembly and the Latin assembly.

Brad," son of Mr. and Mrs. Alva Yoder, plans to attend Goshen College in Indiana and major in physics.

I find Bradley another active young person in his church. He is a member of the Springs Mennonite Church, a choir member, is Vice-President of the church youth group and has been in the men's chorus.

Courses in which he is enrolled in school are algebra II, physics, Latin II, English, solid geometry, trigonometry, and world history.

National Library Week Is Designated April 12th to 18th

April 12-18 has been designated National Library Week, it was announced today by Mrs. Goldie B. Bittle, County Chairman. Book displays will be featured in The First National Bank and The Garrett National Bank. Posters and streamers symbolizing the theme "Wake Up and Read" will be noticeably prominent in the schools of the county, as well as in the business establishments throughout the county.

Emphasizing the rewards of reading for fun, knowledge and advancement, the program, with the theme "Wake Up and Read" will once again be a community effort in individual cities, towns villages throughout the United States where citizens of all occupations will unite in a campaign to encourage reading in homes schools churches, businesses, and civic centers.

Sponsored by the National Book Committee, Inc., in cooperation with the American Library Association, the Civil National Library Week, March 1-7 enlisted the active support of over 5,000 communities whose wide variety of activities awakened a sense of personal need as well as responsibility for the status of reading in the community.

In explaining the aims of the 1959 expanded program the National Book Committee states: "We want to heighten the national interest in reading, and shorten the step from curiosity to conduct by encouraging people to visit a library, a bookshop, a newsstand. That step may be short but it can lead to new frontiers for millions."

Letter to the Editor

To the Editor, The Republican.

I have read with interest in your paper, the articles against and for Easter. I do not subscribe to everything said in "Easter Is Heathen," and I take exception to some statements in "Easter Is Christian."

The writer in "Easter in Christian" indulges in sarcasm.

The angels did not celebrate Christmas or Easter. They announced the birth and resurrection of Christ. Can anyone show the word Christmas, Easter or Sunday, in the Bible?

The only one time that the word celebrate occurs in the Bible was when death was designated. I-Sam 38-18.

Death was not present when Jesus was born, neither was death present when he arose. But Life was present at both events. And concerning Holy Days: There is only one Holy Day. The Ten Commandments give man all the necessary instructions he needs to live a just and righteous life. Remember the Sabbath and keep it Holy). We are not told to remember Christmas or Easter, etc., and keep them Holy. It is good for us to observe and commendable too, to observe and commemorate the birth and resurrection of Jesus; but to make a Holy Day of Christmas and Easter is going a little too far.

"The rising sun is symbolical of the risen Christ." We would infer from: this that there never was a sunrise before the advent of Jesus. There is absolutely no connection whatever between the Son of God and the solar Sun. The rising sun heralds the beginning of another day and not the resurrection of Jesus.

He evidently arose a long time before sun up. We read in scripture that the disciples started for the tomb at the beginning of dawn. Now there is quite a little lapse of time between dawn and sunrise and when they arrived at the tomb, Jesus was already risen.

The explanation of circumcision and the Passover are a little vague and confusing. You read Phs. Luke 2:18: "And when the eight days were accomplished for the circumcision of the child, his name was called Jesus", and also read Luke 22:15: "With desire I have desired to eat this Passover with you." Of course we are not Jews, but Jesus was born a Jew, was reared a Jew and observed all the Jewish ceremonies and kept all the festivals including the Passover.

But this does not change the fact that He is the Son of God and the Saviour of mankind. He instituted the Lord's Supper or Communion for us to commemorate His vicarious death on the Cross and His triumph over death that we may be reconciled to God. This is the plain simple truth.

Respectfully,
ROOF BEACHY,
Jennings, Md.

Assembly Adjourns In Surprise Move

The General Assembly adjourned Saturday night. The adjournment was sudden and unexpected for the House of Delegates and resulted in the dumping of the school teacher pay raise and veterans bonus bills into the lap of the Senate.

The Senate refused to accept a House version of a $100 school teacher pay raise plan which the delegates tossed to it as a take-it-or-leave it proposition in quitting at 6:45 p. m. The Senate adjourned sine die at 11:28 p. m., Saturday.

In adjourning the Senate Majority leader Northrop remarked, "If the governor wants a school teacher pay raise this year he can call us back into special session." There are indications that a special session will be called.

Northrop said the Senate had been willing to sit down in conference committee to reconcile differences with the House and that he had no advance knowledge of early House adjournment.

The school teacher bill which the Senate had insisted on was the governor's program. It called for boosting minimum salary scales by $500 to $1,000 over the next four years.

The bonus bill had been passed by the Senate but did not come up for a vote in the House. The Bill called for a seven-cent per gallon increase in the State tax on beer to finance the 90-million-dollar bonus program.

Milson C. Raver executive secretary of the Maryland State Teachers' association, expressed regret that Gov. Tawes is satisfied with the watered down House version of his program for teacher salaries."

In a reverse move, the state employes who also had been demanding a raise were left out by the House. The Senate had approved it.

For the bonus bill it was the 11th time one had been introduced in the legislature. It was the fifth time the Senate passed one and the first time it was given a favorable report by the House Alcoholic Beverages committee.

Gov. Tawes praised the general assembly and said the legislation it enacted gives him "strong confidence that we will be able to accomplish much." In a letter to members of both houses he referred to several proposals toward "the betterment of Maryland."

He mentioned creation of a new Department of Economic Development and reorganization of the Roads commission, Planning commission and Department of Tidewater Fisheries as leading to more efficient government.

Should Request Applications

Persons with last names starting with H, I, J, or K, who have not received their application to renew their operator's license were advised to write the Department of Motor Vehicles at once.

Persons should give full name and correct address, with number of present license. James B. Monroe, commissioner of motor vehicles, said these applications may be among the thousands returned to the department by the postoffice department. Licenses of persons in the H, I, J, and K group expire on June 30.

Explains Summer Guest Program

Summer guests can mean added dollars to the family income, Mrs. Jenks Beachy told the March meeting of the Rural Development Committee. Mrs. Beachy explained how her family has opened their home to city people who wish to spend several days to several weeks in the country.

All that is required for a summer guest program is an extra bed room or more and the desire to extend hospitality to city folk. Additional kitchen facilities are usually not necessary.

Mrs. Beachy said that her guests are no problem because they entertain themselves. No time or facilities are provided for purposes of recreation. Many guests prefer to visit the many scenic attractions in the county or just relax at the house.

Although the Beachys have never advertised, they have had from five to fifteen guests each week during the summer vacation period. Many guests return summer after summer and recommend the Beachy's hospitality to their friends.

The Rural Development Steering Committee has planned a one session, discussion type meeting for persons interested in considering a summer boarder program in their home. Mrs. Beachy, Miss Ida Engle, and Miss Ethel Grove, home demonstration agent, will be present at this meeting to discuss the arrangements necessary for the guest program and answer questions. Any person interested in further information about the guest program or meeting may call the County Extension Office.

Leader Workshop Held By 4-H'ers

"4-H Leaders Teach Others" was the topic of the last in a series of 4-H local leader workshops held in the lodge hall of the Western Maryland 4-H Center, Bittinger, on April 6.

Connie Crowe, 4-H'er from Monte Vista club, gave a demonstration on measuring dry ingredients. A discussion by the leaders followed to determine the steps of the demonstration or what was done and the key points of the demonstration, or how to do each step. Judging a demonstration by the leaders was the next phase of the workshop in which one was presented by Mrs. Paul Stull, Assistant Home Agent, in order for them to determine the placings and decide on what was needed to improve it.

Discussions, illustrative talks, films, and tours were presented and information given by the Assistant Extension Agents to show how each are used to teach in 4-H.

Leaders attending included Mrs. Taft Oursler, Mrs. Ross Crowe, Miss Ivadene Matthews, Miss Vera Arnold, Mrs. Ralph Buckel, and Mrs. George Shawley.

The series of local leader meetings were developed to help the 4-H leaders their job as the result of a request made by them last year.

On April 4, Maryland ratified the 14th amendment, almost 91 years after it became an integral part of the supreme law of the land.

Revise Regulations On Strip Mining

The Legislature approved and sent to Gov. Tawes, prior to adjournment a bill to revise regulations on strip mining.

The measure sponsored by Delegates Coulon of Allegany and Buckel, of Garrett, will boost from $100 to $300 the amount of bond operators are required to post per acre to insure they will fill in open areas after mining them.

This is to permit sufficient funds to hire outside contractors to handle the backfills if the operators don't do it themselves.

At the same time the bill as amended, removes a four-acre limit now set on operators for obtaining permits and reduces from $200 to $50 the filing fee required for such permits.

It further provides that at the request of a landowner and with the approval of the director of mines, a pond may be constructed on mined property in lieu of a backfill.

Easter Recess And Easter—Congress is now taking the customary Easter recess. We will be back in session on Tuesday, April 7th. The Easter observance turns our thoughts to Divine Providence. Ours are a religious people. Religion has played an important part in our history. Many of our Presidents have been devout, praying men. When problems bore down upon them, they would pray for guidance. It is significant that it was during the administrations of these men that outstanding steps of progress in our nation's history were taken.

At Easter we commemorate the sacrifices of Jesus of Nazareth who suffered that we might have a more abundant life. Today there is need for a spiritual faith to meet threats to our survival. The spirit of Easter gives hope for a future which, though beset with problems and dangers, may be ripe with promise.

Senate Pre-Easter Achievements—The Senate in this session Liberalized the cloture rule; Admitted Hawaii as a State; Voted for 2.7 billion dollars in low-cost housing over a six-year period; Extended the draft four years; Authorized a supplemental 48 million dollars for the Space agency; Voted 465 million dollars for airport construction; Increased World Bank resources by amounts the President requested; Voted 389.5 million dollars for alleviating unemployment in depressed areas through a redevelopment program; Provided 200,000 dollars to enable the Joint Economic Committee to study how the economy is ticking.

Senate Work Continues To Increase—A study of records brings out some interesting contrasts in the weight of Senatorial work of the 85th Congress as compared with that of the 1st Congress. In the 1st Congress, there were considered in the Senate 126 bills and resolutions; in the 85th Congress, 5,046 were considered. The number of laws enacted in the 1st Congress, under the heading of public acts and resolutions, was 108; in the 85th Congress, 936. The number of private acts and resolutions enacted in the 1st Congress was 10; in the 85th Congress, 784. In the 1st Congress, in the Senate there were 70 committee reports; in the 85th Congress, 2,505. The number of nominations confirmed by the Senate of the 1st Congress was 221; of the 85th Congress, 103,311.

"What's The M. O.?"—The modus operandi, or mode of operating, in Congress is interesting to observe. Those of us who work with legislation realize that the most important requirement in the progress of any legislative measure is a hearing before a Congressional committee. Every bill introducted in the Senate or the House is referred to the committee having jurisdiction. Unless the committee acts favorably upon the measure, the latter usually dies aborning.

The introduction of a bill is the easiest step; the obstacles and the hard work come later. When a hearing is scheduled, it means that the committee desires to explore the merits of the proposed measure. Witnesses, whether they be for or against a given measure, are given opportunity to testify before the committee or subcommittee to advance their views. If the majority of the committee is convinced that the measure should become law, it is then" reported". Sometimes there are minority reports in opposition. If a bill is not favorably looked upon at a hearing, it is not "reported" and, for that session at least, it is normally a dead issue.

Maryland Flood Control Project—General Person, Assistant Chief of Engineers for Civil Works, tells me that a flood control project for Kitzmiller, Maryland has been approved. The project is to be on the North Branch of the Potomac. Project approval and construction is contingent upon local cooperation and participation. The cost is currently estimated at about $340,000, of which about $280,000 would be the Federal share and $60,000 the local share.

International Inspection? Nyet!—The Russians talk of banning nuclear tests and of halting nuclear production, but they object to any effective international inspection system. "Ay, there's the rub!" Devices for detecting nuclear explosions may be effective for tests but not for the manufacture of nuclear bombs.

Some pressure is building up in Congress for a few "internationally directed" nuclear explosion tests—to determine whether detection systems are reliable. There is conflicting scientific and political opinion as to whether present detection devices are trustworthy for underground explosions.

Regardless of this, the Administration has no intention of backing away from its original proposals for international inspection system.

Where's The Seltzer Bottle?—Air Force officials report to me that their researchers are developing a gadget like a siphon bottle to enable weightless space travelers to move around inside or outside of their rocket ships. Actual experiments with the device, called a reactor gun, have been performed under conditions of weightlessness. The reactor gun, consisting of a package of high-pressure air bottles and a short length of hose with nozzle and valves, is strapped to the space traveler's back. To go one way, the space-suited voyager points the nozzle in the opposite direction and presses the handle. The reaction of the high-pressure air rushing out of the nozzle provides sufficient force to propel the man from one point to another.

Without a propelling device, I was informed, the weightless space voyager finds it very difficult to control his movements. By using a reactor gun, it is believed that he will have complete control of his movements simply by "firing" the gun, to start, stop, or change direction.

Music For Young America—Maryland students planning Spring tours of the Nation's Capital will be interested in the opportunity of attending Music-For-Young-America concerts by the National Symphony Orchestra. The concerts will be held every evening for five weeks, April 15 to May 19. The manager of the National Symphony wishes to extend, through me, an invitation to the young people of Maryland to attend one of these concerts. Free tickets will be available to groups who make their reservations through my office.

In conjunction with the concerts, the National Symphony will hold the Merriweather Post Contest, which is open to all high school violinists, pianists and cellists. The winner will receive a prize of $2,000 and a contract to make solo appearances with the National Symphony.

Capitol Mystery! Bones! Workmen excavating the foundation for the Capitol's new east front came up with a surprise—old bones. But bones of what? Were they the remains of some prehistoric Indian, or of a Revolutionary warrior? Or were they grisly evidence of a crime at the very seat of the nation? No such thing. They proved to be merely chicken, turkey, pig and ox bones.

Somebody just had a cook-out, a barbeque, the experts decided. But who? Historians went through the files and decided it was none other than George Washington. The theory is that on the evening of the cornerstone laying, September 18, 1793, the Father of His Country threw quite a whingding.

Identifying a Christian

How can one tell whether a person is really a Christian? Can he tell because he claims to be a Christian? Well hardly, for a vast majority making this claim, I'm afraid, are false professors. Can one tell because a person has been baptized and is a member of some church? No! this is not the test either, for in this day of easy baptism and Church Membership many have these qualifications but may be like Simon the sorcerer in Acts 8:13 who was baptized and was still not a Christian. Well, what about those people who are engaged in social services, or who give vast sums for worthy causes; who visit hospitals, sanitoriums, etc. - - do not their works prove that they are Christians? No! I'm afraid not. A person may be a great humanitarian or philanthropist and still be an unbeliever. What tests can be made of a real Christian then? First, we would expect him to know how to become a Christian according to the way spoken of in the Bible. Second, we would expect him to know something about the time and place of his experience of becoming a Christian. Third, we would expect that there would be an evidence of a change for the better in his life. Can you pass this test?

Read Label When Buying Grass Seed

When it comes to buying lawn grass seed, the best rule is to read the label and know what you're buying says Joe Newcomer, University of Maryland Extension agronomist and seed specialist.

All seed is required to be labeled according to State law, he points out, but the label only tells you what's in the container not whether it is the seed needed for your use. The law requires the label to indicate the kind of seed in the mixture, the percentage by weight of each kind, the germination percent, and the date of test.

Choosing the right lawn-seeding mixture, then, involves the reading of the label and selecting a mixture containing the desirable kinds of grass in the proper proportion.

Good grass seed for lawns is slow to germinate and costs more, but once established is fine in texture and growth is permanent. The coarse grasses that green up fast, are cheaper and may not be permanent. A good lawn grass seed mix should contain 75 percent or more of the fine permanent types of grass.

Newcomer listed the following as fine permanent grasses that are desirable for lawns: Kentucky Bluegrass, Merion Kentucky Bluegrass, Red Fescue and Bentgrass. The coarse grass which are undesirable for lawns are Kentucky 31, Alta Tall Fescue, Meadow Fescue, Timothy, Red Top and Ryegrass.

Most persons are motivated by the first fine Spring days to work on the lawn, but this is not the best time to seed lawns. Late August and early September are the most ideal for establishing such grasses, Newcomer reminded. Early spring plantings in February and March are also suggested.

We've read and heard a lot about "Creeping Socialism"—the kind of totalitarianism that sneaks its way into the economy of a nation, so disguised and camouflaged that an unsuspecting public doesn't recognize it.

A splendid example of "creeping socialism" was the Tennessee Valley Authority. Under the guise of flood control and irrigation it got Uncle Sam into the electric power business. Sounded very plausible—dams had to be built to hold back the flood waters, so why not use the overflow waters of those same dams for developing hydro-electric power.

So far, the taxpayers of the USA have poured approximately 1½ billion dollars into TVA. That ain't hay even in these days of wild government spending and inflation. But all that 1½ billion wasn't spent on hydro-electric power development. You see, socialism in the Tennessee Valley got up off the floor—it ceased to creep and started to walk. That came about when the great "yardstick" added steam production of electric energy to its hydro-electric production. No matter how the socialists may try to figure it, there is no flood control or irrigation hooked up with the production of electricity from steam.

And now if the citizens of this country don't act and act fast, TVA is going to stop walking—it is getting ready to gallop. And it surely will gallop if the Davis Bill (H.R. 4266) is passed by the Congress.

This Davis Bill (H.R. 4266) would remove what few restrictions now encompass TVA—it would turn this socialistic agency loose from all control of the Congress. It would permit the TVA to issue its own revenue bonds—with no limit—it would cunningly exclude such bonds from the Federal Debt limit—it would invite cancellation of the obligation of TVA to repay to the Federal Government the money it has already spent—it would permit TVA to expand its service area again no limit! and raid the customers of its tax-paying power company neighbors.

During the last session of Congress this Davis Bill (H.R. 4266) was referred to the House Rules Committee, where it was rushed through after inadequate hearings by a narrow margin. It was then approved by the House Rules Committee. It will be scheduled in the next session of Congress for a full House vote.

Surely TVA is an evil thing for the taxpayers under the present laws. It pays no Federal taxes. It pays no State or local taxes except for a measly token amount in lieu of such taxes. It pays no interest on the capital which the taxpayers have invested in it. It keeps all its profits. It is free of the Federal, State and local regulations under which investor-owned private utilities rightfully must operate. And most damnably of all, it lures businesses away from other areas where taxes must be paid by all.

The TVA was to have been a yardstick—a measuring rod to determine a fair price to be charged for electric current. It is exposed at anything ever conceived in this country, or any other for, fallen as far short of its proclaimed intent. The rates charged in on two elevated platforms with stalls that hold them in two rows at angles much like cars are angle parked at a curb. There are six cows on each side of Wilbur's Parlor. He works to milk them from a pit. At milking time he opens the entrance door by pulling a cable. Twelve cows come in, and the gates are closed. The angle position of the cows spaces their udders only three feet apart, and the operator only needs to walk eighteen feet to milk twelve cows. As the milking operation begins all the cows in one row are washed and dried, and the milkers are attached. Then the other row is washed. As the first row of cows milks out the milkers are shifted across to the other row. Then the first row of cows are released and another group of six comes in and the milkers are shifted across again. This cycle goes on until the job is complete.

The milk at no time is exposed to stable fumes or dust but, carried through transparent filters into a glass pipe line directly into cans sealed by vacuum that are linked together in the milk house. The operator needs to neither stoop nor reach to do the milking.

The job of milking is done by a low vacuum Chore-Boy milker. The wash up operation is automatic. The milkers are placed in a stainless steel vat and a vigorous circulation of hot water with cleansing and sterilizing solutions assures that the equipment is always clean. The wash up job may be done while the operator is feeding or doing other chores.

The most interesting feature about Wilbur's new Parlor is that it is of his own design. With the help of his brother Dave he built the Parlor and stalls, and had never seen one like it. A half circular or balloon roof with green plastic-glass sky lights covers the milking parlor, and two large bins for storing the dairy feed for the cows are up next to the roof. Feed is hauled in a bulk truck and blown into the vats through steel tubes. It is fed to the cows through tubes that lead from the overhead storage bins to the feed boxes.

Two Big Ones That Didn't Get Away

The Story of a Kidnaping Party Involving Two Civil War Generals And Nine Garrett Countians.

Felix G. Robinson

Garrett County mud got on the shoes of soldiers in the first and last wars fought on United States soil. Washington and Braddock marched their troops through the northern end of the county and both saw defeat in the two succeeding Julys of 1754 and 1755. In the southern end of the county there was heard on a few occasions the tramp of the Blue and the Grey between 1861 and 1865. One of the most spectacular episodes of a very spectacular war was the kidnaping of two Union Generals. Among the kidnapers were blue derring-dos from Oakland and vicinity who were later to be neighbors of their victims.

During this war many a stalwart from the area, now Garrett County, served in the Union army. A quarter century after the conflict Crook Post, Grand Army of The Republic, named for the famous General George Crook, numbered at least sixty. Also living in the County were a lesser number who had fought bravely for the lost cause of the South. Whether they wore the Blue or the Grey they now lived together in amity, harboring no malice, each enjoying a merited esteem. For among those who had drawn the sword for Dixie were a hand-picked platoon of adventurers who belonged to the free lance organization known as McNeill's Partisan Rangers, led by Captain John Hanson McNeill. Its operations were mostly in the valley of the South Branch of the Potomac.

The total number of this Spartan band was not more than two hundred of which thirty were Marylanders. Nine of these thirty either were native Garrett Countians or lived there after the war's end. They were: Charles James Dailey, W. Wallace Chisholm, Edward R. Browning, William D. Hoye, James W. Mason, Henry W. Ridder, John L. Harvey, William H. Poole, and John Baptist Fay.

These Rangers rarely mustered more than 75 riders for any single operation during their two years of existence. Between planned raids they often returned to their homes except those who lived behind the Federal lines as in the case of the Garrett Countians. McNeill's Rangers inflicted an immense amount of damage to the Union war effort: cutting oft supplies, interrupting communications, destroying railroad and other installations. Their competence and maneuverability made it necessary to employ large forces of Union troops in the defense of the long and vulnerable tracks of the strategically important Baltimore and Ohio Railroad. Captain McNeill was a born leader, always on the alert, knowing every square foot of the landscape in which he operated, striking swift and sudden blows when and where they were least expected, and always resourceful in the face of danger. Twice the Rangers entered Garrett County. In April 1863 they were part of a force of 800 to 1200 mounted troops detached by Confederate General William E. Jones to destroy the Baltimore and Ohio railroad bridge across the Yough River, and to collect horses and cattle enroute. This bit of regular and irregular cavalry was commanded by Colonel Harman, General Jones meanwhile proceeding with his main force along the Northwestern Turnpike towards Clarksburg and Fairmont.

John B. Fay in 1861

Drawing by Barbara Moon

During the following year the Rangers destroyed much railroad property at Piedmont, W. Va. They then attempted to blow up the railroad bridge at Bloomington, a mile upstream. Stronger Union forces from Keyser arrived in time to drive the Dixie men away.

The Rangers most spectacular exploit was the capture of Union Generals Benjamin F. Kelly and George Crook in the heart of Cumberland, then garrisoned by six thousand Union soldiers. This daring raid was planned by John Baptist Fay, who also took part in its execution. After the war he lived in Oakland for about 25 years.

There are several Oaklanders who remember him and his outstanding family. He was a lawyer, hotel owner, a very polemic newspaper columnist. He was Editor of the Mountain Democrat for several years. He was one of Oakland's much-loved citizens. Upon leaving Garrett County he entered the service of the Federal Government as a land agent.

There have been many conflicting versions of this capture written during the past ninety odd years. This story is derived from

We have all seen it! That sudden transition from tears to a smile as a child reappraises the situation.

Do we, when we grow up, lose that ability to emerge quickly and completely from every crisis?

Probably not! But our thinking processes become more complex . . . consequently slower. It takes us sometimes days, weeks, even years, to reappraise a situation.

But, significantly, one of the common effects of religious faith in the life of an individual is a marked increase in the ability to understand a crisis and emerge from it happily. Those who are conscious of the power and love of God seem to have an immediate source of courage and hope.

Observing this fact, the careless man thinks of the Church as a refuge in time of crisis. The thoughtful family makes worship and church school part of every week, knowing that the spiritual insights gained each Sunday will shrink every crisis . . . conquer every fear.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Officer Material

Lesson for April 12, 1959

THE NAVY HAS a word for a school where men from the ranks are studying to be commissioned officers: the "Officers' Material School." Not every enlisted man can be admitted; only those who seem to have what it is going to take to be an officer, and that is a good deal.

Dr. Foreman

The Bible tells a story of a man from the ranks who was good "officer material" but who (like some Navy candidates) flunked out. He did not fail, however, for lack of the stuff of which success can be made. Next week's study concerns his failure; this week's thought is given to what could have been his success. He held a good hand, we may say, but he played it badly.

Head and Shoulders

Look over the cards he held. First, he had what everyone noticed the first moment they looked at him: he stood out in any crowd, head and shoulders above the rest. He would have sat tall in the saddle (only no one around there rode horseback); he stood tall on the ground. He was strong enough to butcher and cut up a yoke of oxen by himself, and in a fight he had proved himself a lion. Men have been successes in life without extraordinary strength; but for a leader of men, a store of extra power and energy is important. Some investigator found that executives in business are on an average, taller and heavier than the men lower down the ladder. The executive needs the extra power for the extra drive. But of course a giant can be a fool. You cannot predict how much of a leader a man will be merely by measuring the distance from his crew-cut to his heels.

"When they molded him, the molder broke the mold," it is said of some people. It could have been said of Saul. He was not only head and shoulders taller than most. He was a head smarter than most. Good brains, common sense, and plain horse sense in the make of life. Some people seem afraid to think. They are quiet, modest and reserved. If in originality there was a real force of character, a quick flash of decision, a fearless approach to all problems that you have the makings of a great leader. Now Saul started out in such a way. We read of him that a famine army was besieging the city of Jabesh, and they came to make a "treaty" by putting out the right eye of every man in the town. All Israel heard about it, and there was loud wailing in the land. But when the news came to Saul he did not weep a tear. He took a yoke of oxen, cut them up with his own hands, sent pieces around to every tribe, with the message: Be at Jabesh, ready to fight, or have your oxen made into sour-meat like this!" It may have been rough, but it got results.

A Modest Patriot

Above all, the Israelites were looking for a man who loved his country, the whole land and people of Israel. Saul by his action at Gilead had proved himself such a person. He not only would make a sacrifice for his country's sake, he had the ability to inspire others also. He had shown there too that he placed the interests of the tribes as a whole above the interests of any one tribe or city; and that conversely the fate of any one city was the concern of all. Our country could use more patriots of this stripe today, men who like George Washington can see beyond the limits of their own state and live as citizens of the American Union. We need men who will not be indifferent to the troubles of other parts of our land, who realize that the tragedy or the glory of one city is the tragedy or the glory of all.

We don't need men who shout and brag about how much they love their country. Senators Snort and Phogbound are always with us; but politics with them is a way of making money without too much work. Patriotism is nothing to be shouted about; it is a quality that shines best in a modest life. Saul at the beginning was almost too self-effacing. The office had to seek him, and that was good. He was king only because the people demanded him and God through the prophet destined him.

Mr. Fay's own account as found in one of his scrapbooks loaned the author by his daughter Mrs. Helen Howes of Arlington, Virginia. It is because of the authenticity of the material as derived from the author both of the plot and its account that I think it is timely for the readers of American history to get 'straight' the story about Kelley and Crook; and that it is also fitting the story be published in Oakland where the author Fay spent a long section of his life. Mr. Fay's story was published by the Baltimore Sun many years ago.

By the time of the Cumberland exploit of February 21, 1865 Lt. Jesse McNeill had succeeded his father, John Hanson McNeal, as leader of the Rangers. The elder McNeill had died of wounds received in an action near Mount Jackson, Virginia, in October 1864.

Now to get on with the story of Mormon Rangers. Let us begin with a quote from John Baptist Fay's account.

"Lt. McNeill consulted me as to the feasibility of getting into Cumberland and capturing Generals Kelley and Crook. He referred to suggestions I had made his father during his lifetime, to capture General Kelley, and informed me of his desire to capture both generals if on examination it was found to be practicable. Cumberland was my native place. I had on several occasions entered it with ease—once remaining a week—and on my giving McNeill every assurance that his design could be successfully executed it was determined to make the attempt. I was commissioned to proceed at once to Cumberland and its vicinity and prepare the way for our entry by learning the number and position of the picket posts, the exact location of the sleeping apartments of the generals, and any other information deemed necessary. With me went C. S. Hallar, a teenage lad from Missouri."

Fay's mission was successfully carried out. Cumberland was then a town of about eight thousand people. Between six and eight thousand Union troops occupied the city. Besides Kelley and Crook three other Union generals were tarrying there—Generals Light burn, Duvall, and Rutherford B. Hayes, the latter a future President of the United States.

At a pre-arranged rendezous Fay rejoined McNeill and 37 Gideon-picked men. Traveling at night the party forded the icy waters of Potomac west of Cresaptown and took the New Creek road, now the McMullen Highway. Every move was fraught with peril. Union forces were in complete control of the surrounding countryside. Their cavalry vigilantly patroled all the roads leading to and from Cumberland.

Two miles outside of Cumberland a cavalry picket was encountered. He was caught unawares by these "thieves" of the night who captured and silenced him. One pistol was discharged, an occurrence that endangered the whole enterprise and which it had hoped to have avoided.

It was an hour and a half before dawn. A thin crust of snow was on the ground. Tread silently and lightly; not the sound of crunched snow or the crack of a twig must betray their whereabouts.

The second and inner picket was a mile away at the junction of the old Frostburg Pike (now Braddock Rd.) and what is now Green Street. This post was quickly surrounded and captured without shooting or noise. Now the party was inside the picket lines and near the heart of the slumbering city.

Two squads of ten men each were detailed to effect the capture of the generals by going to their hotel rooms where they were asleep. Instead of being quiet—now that they were completely surrounded by the enemy they feigned their alliance with the boys in blue by whistling Yankee tunes and bandying words with isolated patrols and guards as they rode up Baltimore Street to destiny. Some of the men wore Federal overcoats. In the dim light no difference could be noted between the blue and the grey.

One squad led by Sgt. James W. Kuykendall stopped at the Barnum House where General Kelley was quartered. This building later was for many years known as The Windsor Hotel. As this is being written it is being razed. The ground on which it stood is to be used as a parking lot. The men quickly got the drop on the sentry at the door and disarmed him. They went upstairs, entered General Kelley's room, aroused him, and with menacing carbines and pistols requested him to dress quickly, informing him that he was a prisoner of Robert E. Lee. Kelley and his adjutant, Major Melvin, were taken down to the street and mounted on horses held at the hotel entrance.

The other squad in charge of Sgt. Joseph L. Vardiver went to the Revere House, a hundred or more feet up the same street where General Crook was sleeping. This famous Tavern of Stage Coach days now houses the Kenneweg Grocery Company. In capturing General Crook the same routine was followed as in the capture of his colleague. The Generals, although brave as lions, had no chance to resist. Carbines and pistols are eloquent persuaders.

After securing the Rangers mounting headquarters flags the whole party rode down Baltimore Street in a quiet and dignified manner to a large livery stable they located where Baltimore Street crossed Will's Creek by the Chain Bridge. From this stable several fine horses were taken including "Philippi", General Kelley's favorite charger, named for the first battle of the war at Philippi, West Virginia. General Kelley was severely wounded there.

The raiders then turned left toward the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal and came unexpectedly upon a dozen guards. They were immediately surrounded and captured. After destroying their guns and ammunition the captured soldiers were abandoned as the raiders could not be encumbered with more prisoners. It was time to make speed. The column galloped along the towpath of the Canal until halted by a picket a mile out of town. Instead of overpowering this handful of men the raiders again used subtlety instead of force by telling them they were General Crook's bodyguard going out to intercept a party of Rebel raiders reported ranging the neighborhood. On this intelligence the picket stood aside.

Four or five miles further the boom of cannon was heard giving the alarm. Although sixty rugged miles intervened between them and safety the kidnapers with a good head-start breathed easier. Yankee troops dominated the sector that had to be traversed. During the flight Union cavalry was sent in pursuit from both Cumberland and New Creek. Those from Cumberland came in sight of the escapees, voluntary and involuntary. Shots were fired but to no purpose.

The Rebels and their prisoners finally arrived in safe territory. In 24 hours they had ridden 90 miles in wintry weather over mountains, valleys and streams with very little nourishment for man or beast.

Enroute to General Early's headquarters at Staunton, Virginia, General Kelley, as might be imagined, was not in exhuberant spirit. Crook, a younger man, was almost imperlurbable. He is said to have seen humor in the episode, and to have "ribbed" Kelley in jocular fashion. Both men, together with their captors, expected the war to end in a matter of weeks. The Confederacy was in its death throes. All the military knew this at the time. Under the circumstances the courageous exploit of the Rangers did not attract the attention it deserved.

Some years after the War General Kelley bought Swan Meadows, originally part of the pioneer Ashby farm in the Gortner community. The house he occupied until his death in 1891 is now haunted by Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Lichty.

General Crook's military career was long and controversial. Before his death in 1890, at the age of 62, he and Mrs. Crook had planned to spend their declining years in Garrett County. They built a very unusual house atop a hill west of Oakland village. For several years it was the summer residence of

Children's BIBLE STORY

BY S. A. KAPLAN

THE FIRST EARTHQUAKE

(This story is based on Numbers 16)

HELLO BOYS AND GIRLS!

Do you know when the first earthquake took place in this world, and where it happened? The Bible not only tells us when and where it happened, but it also informs us why it happened.

As you know, Moses and Aaron were God's appointed leaders of the children of Israel during their forty years journey in the wilderness. Moses had a cousin whose name was Korah. Korah was of the tribe of Levi, and was a man of ability and influence; but he was not satisfied with his position, and permitted feelings of jealousy to rise up in his heart against Moses and Aaron. It wasn't long before he began plotting how to get these top positions of authority for himself. At first he started a whispering campaign, and soon found two influential sympathizers, Dathan and Abiram, princes in Israel. Others joined them in the rebellion, among them no less than 250 princes. Unitedly they went to Moses and Aaron and openly accused them. "Is it a small thing," said Dathan and Abiram to Moses, "that thou hast brought us up out of a land that floweth with milk and honey, to kill us in the wilderness, except thou make thyself altogether a prince over us?" What a base and untrue accusation! They forgot Moses' self-sacrificing efforts in their behalf; they forgot his long patience with them; they forgot God's long-suffering love towards their continual murmurings against Him.

When Moses heard their accusation he fell on his face before God praying the Lord to help him, and the Lord answered his prayer. As the people assembled themselves before God, "The glory of the Lord appeared unto all the congregation." However, Korah, Dathan and Abiram were not among the assembly, and so Moses together with seventy leaders went down to the tents of these men. The multitudes followed them. God thru Moses warned the people: "Depart I pray you, from the tents of these wicked men, and touch nothing of theirs, lest ye be consumed in all their sins." The people obeyed, but the rebels stood defiantly in the doors of their tents. Then Moses said in bearing of all the congregation: "Hereby ye shall know that the Lord hath sent me to do all these works; for I have not done them of mine own mind. If these men die the common death of all men... then the Lord hath not sent me. But if the Lord make a new thing, and the earth open her mouth, and swallow them up, with all that appertain unto them, and they go down quick into the pit; then ye shall understand that these men have provoked the Lord."

As soon as Moses had finished speaking, "The earth opened her mouth, and swallowed them up and their houses" ... and they "went down alive into the pit, and the earth closed upon them."

Just think of it, this was the very first earthquake since the creation of this world, two thousand years before! That is why Moses called it a "new thing." And it all happened because of the sin of envy. Are you tempted, boys and girls, to be envious of your friends and playmates? Remember this story and ask Jesus to help you to get rid of these unchristlike feelings, for then and then only will you find happiness and true satisfaction in life.

It Pays to Own a Dodge!

(It could save you hundreds of dollars!)

Okay, it's settled. You've thought about it and talked about it and now you've decided: A new car—and soon. Now for the jackpot question. Which '59 car will it be?

Unless you happen to be a Mr. Gotrocks, you'll probably think pretty carefully before you finally make the move. You'll do more shopping and compare more closely. And you'll ask yourself some basic questions. How much will a new car cost me to buy? How much will it cost me to drive? What do I get for my money?

There is no mystery about new car prices

Until this year, it was hard to compare different makes of cars to find which offered the most value for the money. It was like comparing apples and bananas. But not any more. Not since all new cars are required to carry price labels. Now, for the first time, you can compare various makes and models and see exactly what you're getting for your money. It's like exposing the hole cards in a game of stud poker: You know exactly where you stand.

Why should you buy a Dodge?

No one has to tell you that there are a number of cars on the market that sell for less than a Dodge. No cigar on that count. You know it and we know it. But there are things you get in a Dodge that you simply can't get in these other smaller cars.

And this is important. Dodge gives you all of these things—the bigness and roominess, the comfort and ride, the luxury and prestige—for less than other cars in its field.

It's not just a few dollars less, either; in many cases it's literally hundreds of dollars less. Some Dodge models are even priced lower than the so-called "low-priced cars." (We'll be happy to show you the actual suggested retail prices.)

All cars cost money to run—but how much?

It would be nice if you just bought a new car and that was that. It didn't burn gas. Didn't use oil. Never needed service. But that's wishful thinking. Cars do use gas and oil. They do need service occasionally. But that doesn't mean that all cars cost the same to drive and maintain. Not by a jugful. There's a big difference.

Dodge is designed to run for less

Dodge has always had a reputation for economical operation. People who have owned them have found it costs less to run a Dodge, and that a Dodge needs service less often.

Take gasoline economy. The new Dodge 326 cu. in. Red Ram V-8 engine, because of its design and efficiency, will take you miles farther on a gallon of gas than any other V-8 in the Dodge field. You save money every mile you drive.

But that's only part of the story. The way Dodge is engineered and built saves you money on such things as engine wear, brake relining, tune-ups, spark plug replacement. When you add them all up, they represent quite a saving. Another reason why it pays to own a Dodge.

What do you get for what you pay?

According to Manufacturer's Suggested Retail Prices, Dodge generally costs less, model for model, than other cars in its field. Fine and dandy. But while price is important, it isn't the only consideration. The real standard of value—whether you're buying a new car or a can of beans—is what you get for what you pay. It's the "extras" you get at no extra cost that really determine which car is the best buy.

Dodge gives you more for less

Talk is cheap. Anyone can make claims. So let's be specific about the extras you get in Dodge at no extra cost. Torsion-Aire Ride—conceded the finest suspension in the industry—standard equipment on all Dodge models. Total-Contact Brakes, Safety-Rim Wheels, Electric Windshield Wipers, Independent Parking Brake—all standard on Dodge. Of course, you can also choose from such Dodge options as Push-Button Driving, Full-Time Power Steering and Swing-Out Swivel Seats.

There's a big difference in comfort, too

Goodness knows, we certainly don't want to knock competition. But we feel obligated to point out the comfort and convenience of the '59 Dodge. If you've tried getting into some of the other '59 cars you know just what we mean. To say it is difficult would honestly be an understatement. That's why we hope you'll come in and compare the difference in Dodge. How much easier it is to get in and out of a Dodge. How much more comfortable it is to sit in a Dodge. How much more room you have to stretch out. Really, it pays to own a Dodge.

It doesn't cost a penny to get the facts

We don't expect you to rush in and plunk down your money for a new Dodge just on the basis of what you've read. But if what you've read seems to make sense, we do hope you'll stop in to see, to drive and to price a Dodge. We think it's a whale of a buy, but then maybe we're prejudiced. Why not drop in and judge for yourself. We'll be more than happy to give you all the facts. No obligation, of course.

The Spreading Communist Conspiracy

Another island of freedom—Tibet—has been inundated by the tidal wave of international communism. With an irreverence for truth, morality and ethics which has typified the malignity of this spreading conspiracy, the Soviet Chinese cast aside a 1951 treaty which guaranteed religious freedom and political autonomy to the Tibetans as a mere piece of paper. As the free world traverses the treacherous path to another summit conference, this latest ravage of a free and brave people should prove for all to see, or better said, for all who want to see, the futility of negotiating with a pack of global cutthroats.

Even so, it is reasonable to expect that the chant for recognition of Red China will soon be joined by a sing-song chorus proclaiming that the Chinese Communists were merely putting down an "armed rebellion." All too soon, the Red China lobby, in the United States as elsewhere, will be seduced by the propaganda of the Communists. Our people somehow never seem to catch the meaning of the sage maxim that "the past is prologue." Some of our good neighbors are unwitting accomplices of those who would exploit the decency and traditional tolerance of our Nation.

Of late, some church groups and other organizations have echoed the Soviet-inspired call for U.S. recognition of Red China. While affirming that "such recognition does not imply approval, "a resolution adopted last November in Cleveland at the Fifth World Order Conference of the National Council of Churches declared that our Government" has demonstrated a frightening insensibility to international reality." The ensuing plaudits of the Communist press caused many to dissociate themselves from this Cleveland action. But still there are those who loudly insist that the American people must face up to reality that Red China is a powerful ogre with which we must deal and which must be admitted to the United Nations.

To them, against the background of history and the Tibetan situation, it should only be necessary to recall that Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., characterizes Red China in these words: ". . . It is unthinkable that a regime that stands convicted of aggression by the United Nations and whose conduct continues to be that of an international bandit and blackmailer should be permitted to sit in the United Nations. . ." In stating that recent developments only intensify my opposition to the extending of diplomatic respectability to Red China, I suppose the Baltimore Sunpapers will again vilify my position as nonsense." However, with this latest capstone of depravity, it is suggested that the iconoclasts of the Sunpapers are themselves nonsensically insensible to the appalling realities of the communist conspiracy.

That the defendant, Harold H. Pigott, is a non-resident of the State of Maryland, residing at R.F.D. No. 2, Shinnston, W. Virginia.

COMPLAINANT
vs.
Thomas H. Kingsley and Alice Huntington Kingsley his Wife, Huntington Drive,
Bridgeville, Pennsylvania;
John C. Mahon and Betty Jane Mahon, his wife,
Law and Finance building, 4th Ave. Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.
RESPONDENTS
No. 4930 Equity in the Circuit Court for Garrett County, State of Maryland.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

The object of this suit is to procure a Decree to set aside, vacate and annul that certain Deed dated February 13, 1958, from Thomas H. Kingsley and Alice Huntington Kingsley, his wife, to John C. Mahon, which is recorded among the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland, in Liber No. 209, Folio 118, and to obtain a Court Order for said property described therein to be sold by a Trustee appointed by the Court to satisfy the claims of the Brookside Lumber and Supply Company, a Corporation, Complainant.

The Bill states that the Respondents, Thomas H. Kingsley and Alice Huntington Kingsley, his wife, were seized and possessed of certain lands in Garrett County, Maryland, conveyed unto them by a certain deed from Richard S. Browning et al., dated October 18, 1951, and duly recorded among the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland, in Liber No. 171, Folio 313, and that being so seized and possessed they by deed of February 13th, 1958, granted and conveyed the said lands to John C. Mahon, of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, which deed is recorded among the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland, in Liber No. 209, Folio 118. That while being so seized and possessed of the land so conveyed to them by the deed from Richard S. Browning et al., Thomas H. Kingsley and Alice Huntington Kingsley, his wife, became indebted unto the Plaintiff, The Brookside Lumber and Supply Company, for a large sum of money, evidenced by their promissory notes now past due and upon which notes Judgments for the amounts due thereon have been entered in the Court of Common Pleas of Allegheny County, State of Pennsylvania, in favor of the Complainant herein. That at the time of making and delivering the deed to John C. Mahon the said Thomas H. Kingsley and Alice Huntington Kingsley, his wife, were largely indebted to the Complainant and others and were insolvent and had not the means of paying their debts including the debt due the Complainant, apart from the property so conveyed by them to the said John C. Mahon, and that the said conveyance was fraudulently made and for a simulated and pretended consideration and was made to and for the purpose, to hinder, delay and defraud the Complainant and his other creditors of their just and lawful debts. That the said John C. Mahon, Respondent, is not a bona fide purchaser for value of the aforesaid property.

IT IS THEREUPON this 6th day of April, 1959, ORDERED by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland, in Equity, that the Complainants by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some Newspaper published in Garrett County, Maryland, once in each of four successive weeks before the 1st day of May, 1959, give notice to the above said absent Respondents of the object and substance of this Bill, warning them to appear in this Court in person or by Solicitor, on or before the 16th day of May, next, 1959, to show cause, if any they have, why a Decree ought not to be passed as prayed.

Point System For Traffic Violators Given And Explained

Here is the way the point system bill enacted by the Maryland Legislature previous to its adjournment, will crack down on repeated traffic law violators in the state. It will go into effect December 31, 1960.

There are 14 different infractions which can result in suspension or revocation of a driver's license. Half of them, the seven most serious offenses, will lift it after the first violation. Through the lesser ones, one will accumulate points leading to revocation.

Conviction can result in the following entries on the driving record.

Moving violations such as running through a stop sign—1 point.

Violations contributing to an accident — 3 points.

Speeding 10 m.p.h. or more above a posted limit — 3 points.

Reckless driving—3 points (originally 4.)

Failure to report an accident—5 points.

Permitting an unlicensed operator to operate your motor vehicle—4 points.

Leaving the scene of a collision with no personal injury involved—8 points.

Leaving the scene of a collision where there has been personal injury — 12 points.

Operating a motor vehicle after suspension or revocation of license—12 points.

Obtaining or attempting to obtain a driver's permit by misrepresentation — 12 points.

Loaning or altering a permit—12 points.

Conviction for any homicide, or assault committed by means of an automobile — 12 points.

Driving under the influence of intoxicating liquor or narcotic drugs — 12 points.

Any felony involving use of an automobile — 12 points.

The proposed law provides that an accumulation of three points brings a warning from the Department of Motor Vehicles. Five points will require you to visit the department for a conference. Eight points will suspend a license for 2 to 30 days and 12 will revoke it.

If you can show that denial of the right to drive a motor vehicle to work will adversely affect your employment. A total of 15 points will be required for suspension, and 18 for revocation.

The first suspension would be for 2 to 30 days. Subsequent suspensions would run from 15 to 90 days.

Points assessed against you could not be retained for more than two years (originally three) following their assessment.

A major amendment written in by Senate and accepted by the House stripped the commissioner of motor vehicles of the power to change points.

THE EASTER IMPULSE

Pastor, Oak Park Church of The Brethren

"With great power gave the apostles witness of the resurrection of the Lord Jesus: and great grace was upon them all." Acts 4:33

In spite of the mixed features of the day's observance, display of new clothes, extravagant profusion of flowers decorating our churches, and programs of sacred music, the spiritual significance of our American Easter celebration is unsurpassed by any other Christian festival.

How can this spiritual impulse and power of Easter Day be conserved and utilized for the increase of the Christian faith? For the disciples, Resurrection Day was the birthday of a new religion, the Christian faith. Forty days later, after His final disappearance from the earth they went everywhere telling the story of the Master's death and triumph over the grave.

If our churches would conserve the religious interest of Easter their members must recapture the joyful enthusiasm of those early disciples in their worship and their sacrificial devotion to the Christian enterprise. It can be done today but not without a price.

If the religious impulse of Easter is to be better utilized, members of our churches must know the power of the resurrection. The apostle Paul's deepest longing was that he might know Christ and the power of his resurrection. The impulse to tell the story of Christ and the resurrection sent those first Christians throughout Judea and Asia Minor and on into Western Europe, facing imprisonments, and martyrdom for the sake of the Gospel. The glorious power of Christ's resurrection is available for Christians today, if they will pay the cost in sacrificial suffering and devotion.

"With great power," wrote Luke, "the apostles gave their testimony to the resurrection of the Lord Jesus, and great grace was upon them all." And the word of God increased and the number of disciples multiplied greatly.

If we would utilize the spiritual resources of our Easter celebration our church members today must speak the Gospel message not only boldly, but with positive conviction. Not unless and until the Church has a message of positive conviction of the truth of the Gospel to be believed and above all to be lived, will it be able to utilize fully the spiritual urge toward religion which Easter so gloriously embodies.

Seek Reliable Help For Termite Control

Don't panic over the discovery of termites in your house. True, they won't do the house any good, but even after you suspect their presence, there is usually time to have a reputable pest control specialist inspect the building to determine the damage and indentify the insect, says Ted Bissell, University of Maryland Extension entomologist.

Termites don't work so fast that a few weeks or a few months will add greatly to the amount of damage. However, if you panic over the situation, you may find yourself with an "infestation of pocketbook termites." This is the "variety" that migrates through the country charging exorbitant prices to exterminate termites—often when there are no termites in the building.

Even when there is an infestation of termites, in many cases, these itinerant exterminators lack a proper knowledge of termites and how to control them. In these cases, they have been known to charge high prices for ineffective work, and then leave the area.

This is the time of the year when termites swarm. Many people class them "flying ants," but termites differ from ants in that they have a thicker "waist" instead of the thin "wasp waist" of the ant. Termites are black in color. The flying termites are the "queens" and "kings" that mate and fly away to start new colonies.

Damage is caused by the worker termites that are soft and white and about three-sixteenths of an inch long. Worker termites will not expose themselves to air currents, and so will not eat away the outer surface of the wood which is infested.

If there is no reputable professional pest control operator in your community, contact your County Agent or the local Chamber of Commerce who will advise you.

Job Destruction - - - - -

We were struck with the false ring of a slogan conceived by several thousand unemployed workers assembled recently in Washington. U.S. News and World Report termed it an "artificially contrived demonstration to attempt to prove that the Administration isn't doing enough to create jobs." The slogan was "Get America back to work."

There was nothing wrong in the slogan itself. We'd like to see every person who wants employment to have it. But the trouble is with the one who engineered the demonstration and probably had a lot to do with coining the slogan—Walter Reuther, labor leader, who has a wary eye on the presidency of the United States.

An investigation of conditions will discover that labor unions have forced prices up to the point where the products of companies have been priced out of the market, thereby creating the unemployment they blame on government. That fact is becoming clearer in the United States as more and more foreign companies are underselling American concerns. Buyers by the hundreds of thousands are taking advantage of lower priced goods in foreign countries. The astounding rise in the sale of foreign cars is just an example. Foreign steel is being purchased whenever possible.

Here you have it in a nutshell. As the U.S. News also declared, "The labor monopoly and inflation have stunted job creation." Radical labor leaders would attempt to try to put Americans back to work with additional government spending that reminds one of the boondoggling days of the 1930s. Such efforts never did reduce unemployment and it merely got government further in debt.

The chief cause of this unemployment problem in the United States today is the continual hike in wage contracts by large labor unions, regardless of a person's productive worth or improvement in the things he manufactures. In this agricultural and recreational area we are not too adversely affected, but the problem is with us just the same. The coal industry in nearby West Virginia is sick. It costs more to produce than the product is worth. It's the same story in other classifications. Until labor really realizes its responsibility to society there will be no real improvement in the unemployment problem.

Final Plans Made For Air Raid Alert

Final plans for the county's participation in the national civil defense exercise "operation alert" were announced by Fred Tichnell, county civil defense director.

The exercise will be held Friday, April 17 and Saturday, April 18, and all cities and counties in Maryland will participate.

On April 17 a statewide air raid drill will be conducted. At 11:30 a. m., the alert signal is to be sounded, at which time all radio and television stations will be ordered off the air by the Federal Communications Commission. The only stations that operate on Conelrad (640 or 1210) will return to the air. The drill will be conducted from 11:30 until 12 o'clock noon.

Mr. Tichnell said that in some parts of the county it may not be possible to hear the Conelrad signal and that people should not become alarmed. Persons unable to hear the Conelrad signal are urged to notify their nearest CD official to be plotted for future planning.

The alert signal will not affect traffic. The second step will be at 1:30 when the take cover signal is sounded. Traffic is to stop and people seek shelter at this time. All police in the county will assist in stopping traffic.

In addition to the traffic drill the exercise will include a simulated bomb hit in various parts of Maryland. A sealed envelope to the director will indicate the position of these "hits." The envelope will be opened at 1:50. State CD headquarters will be advised by phone or radio the extent of damage in the county. Recovery steps will be determined.

Mr. Tichnell called attention to the two signals to be sounded on April 17. The first at 11:30 will be the alert signal, a three to five minute steady blast on sirens. At 1:30 the take cover signal will be sounded. This is a three minute warbling tone or short blast on sirens. The air raid drill will terminate at 1:35 which will be automatic, without any siren signal.

Southern P.-T.A. Set For Monday Night

Parents attending the next meeting of the Southern High school Parent-Teacher association on Monday night at the school, will have an opportunity to meet with the instructors their children will be having next year.

The meeting will start at 7:15 with teachers in their classrooms for visits or conferences. A brief business meeting will follow before the grade level meeting gets under way.

Eleven members attended a meeting of the board of directors this past Monday night when the program for the approaching meeting was outlined.

Howard White, president announced he had tickets for the Garrett County Council PTA dinner which was to be held at Kitzmiller on May 22.

Teachers Elect

Garrett County Teachers elected Eugene Flinn as president of the county association at a meeting in Southern High school on Tuesday evening. He succeeds Charles Strauss.

Others named were Miss Elaine Chrisman, first vice-president; Charles Strauss, second vice-president; Mrs. Anna K. Beachy, secretary; Mrs. Hildred Mulvey, treasurer.

Representing the county at the annual convention will be W. Kenneth Johns, Charles Strauss, Earl Savage and Merle Frantz.

Reports of various committees were heard including legislative, by Ralph Beachley; auditing by Earl Savage; PMPA public relations by Miss Viola Broadwater; Rathbun loan fund, by Darrell Malone; insurance, Eugene Flinn; and the meeting with the Board of Education, by Merle Frantz.

The inaction of the recent legislature and the salary scale for teachers were among the items discussed.

Dog Ordinance To Be Strictly Enforced

In following through on their determination to enforce the dog tax regulations of the county, the County Commissioners announced this week that new dog tags are here and would go on sale right away.

The effectiveness of the license would be from July 1 to June 30, 1960. After July 1, dogs not bearing a dog tag will be destroyed. The tags have been turned over to Joe Welch, treasurer, who is responsible for the collections.

The cost is $1 for each male or spayed female, $2 for each unspayed female; kennel license, $10, for not in excess of 25 dogs, and $20 for more than 25 dogs.

This particular bill was killed in the finance committee in the Senate. The bill had passed the House of Delegates but by the time it got over into the Senate there was not much time left, and in the ensuing shuffle it never got out of committee.

Youths Are Nabbed On Auto Count

Two youths from Oakland are being held at Morgantown, W. Va., charged with tampering with an automobile.

Police identified the pair as Charles Leo Baker, 22, and Carl William Wilson, Jr., 18.

Police said they received a number of complaints from residents about tampering cases. One last call came from a postoffice employe who reported two youths tampering with a car on the postoffice lot. The arresting officers said Baker was standing on the opposite curb as a "look-out" while Wilson was inside a car attempting to start the motor.

Thieves at Northern Get Slight Reward

Thieves broke into Northern High school at Cove on Monday night and defaced a number of doors in their attempt to discover a quantity of money. Their efforts were rewarded with $1.38, 10 stamps and three pounds of fish.

Paul Muha, principal, said they had damaged considerably the front doors, by using a crowbar, and five doors in the building were defaced and damaged.

Authorities were called to investigate but their efforts have been fruitless thus far.

There were also reports of robberies in the school at Brucetон Mills, W. Va., and a store in Aurora, W. Va., the same night.

Activities remain quiet in the Oakland area. Authorities have been keeping close check constantly since a series of robberies in Oakland several weeks ago.

Special Legislature Session Agreeable To Three Legislators

In an effort to get reaction to a special session of the legislature to enact teacher salary increase legislation, Ralph Beachley, member of the Maryland State Teachers' Assn. committee on legislation, sent out a questionnaire to the four members of the state legislature from Garrett county.

Two questions were asked. 1. Do you favor a special session of the legislatpre to take up the question of increased salaries for teachers? and 2. if Governor Tawes would call a special session would you favor a. a four year program as outlined previously; b. a proposed one year program; c. no increase; or d. other plans?

Senator Bernard I. Gonder and Delegates Leslie Savage and Elza Bray on question (1) said they would have no objections if Governor Tawes is willing to call the special session. Delegate Elbert E. Buckel said he was opposed to a special session.

On question No. 2, Senator Gonder and Delegates Savage and Bray said they would favor the four-year program. Buckel said he was opposed to the four-year program, the one-year program and was opposed to an increase. He said he favored a merit system plan for paying teachers.

Beachley, also is a member of the legislative committee of the Garrett County Teachers' association.

Rare Negatives Are Discovered in Home

Some 150 rare negatives of people and events of long ago, were recently discovered in the Lawton home on Pennington street, and a number of them are being enlarged in an attempt to identify them.

They were found by Bernard Nally, painter, who has turned them over to Emory W. Adams. Mr. Adams is having enlargements made.

The negatives are the old glass wet plate type, which was the successor to the Daguerreotpye and came into being in the middle of the 19th century. Undoubtedly some of the negatives date back to the middle 1880's. They are five by seven and four by five in size.

One shows the old amphitheatre in Mt. Lake Park under construction. Another shows Mrs. Henry McComas, Sr., in the back yard of her home with one of her children. Another shows George Kerns in the uniform of some organization. Others show the streets of Oakland, one right after a fire which consumed the entire block on west Second street. There are pictures of some of the stores of the day. The Rudy building, then the Offutt building; the Garrett National Bank, and the boardwalk beside it that led to the railroad station.

Some fifty of them have been enlarged and Mr. Adams is going slow on the balance as each enlargement costs $1.50.

The plates were the work of the late Samuel Lawton, a photographer, the father of Mrs. Bertie Thrasher, of Oakland.

6-inch Snowfall Halts Spring Trend

A sudden swirling snowstorm last Sunday morning caused a sudden halt to the approach of spring. It caught many residents wearing spring apparel at church services and dumped at least six inches of snow on the ground by nightfall.

Temperatures dropped to 30 degrees or below by evening. The storm was from the east and piled up moderate sized drifts in a number of places. The State Roads commission sent out 15 trucks and 31 men in Oakland and Accident areas to keep roads in condition for driving. The County Roads department also was busy on secondary highways.

The unexpected snowfall followed a period of two days of rain on Friday and Saturday. Monday remained cloudy with Tuesday clear and cool. The sun's rays began to have some effect yesterday and it remained clear and warm today.

Tawes Won't Call Special Session

Gov. Tawes announced yesterday he would not call the Maryland Legislature into special session to consider a new pay raise for public school teachers.

The governor made the announcement after conferring with Dr. Thomas G. Pullen, Jr., state superintendent of schools, and Milson C. Raver, executive secretary of the Maryland State Teachers association.

Raver had requested an extraordinary session after the legislature, in its regular session ended April 4, failed to adopt a four-year pay-raise program proposed by the governor.

The House passed a one-year version of the plan to hike teacher pay an average of $400 over a four-year period. Delegates then adjourned, leaving the Senate the choice of accepting that or rejecting it. The Senate, which had passed a four-year measure, failed to go along with the House and the measure died.

The governor said in his statement he had reminded Pullen and Raver he had included the pay raise as part of his campaign last fall.

Tawes recalled the legislative history of the proposal and said, "I told Dr. Pullen and Mr. Raver that in view of this legislative history I did not believe that it would be wise to call the General Assembly back into session. I told them it was not my concept of the democratic process for a chief executive to call the Legislature back into session because it failed to go along with a part of the executive program.

"I repeated that the plan presented was—and still is—my program. But I said I did not have a closed mind on the subject and if the Legislative Council in its deliberations this year can produce improvements I shall be glad to accept them."

Collision Kills Crellin Man

Gerald Gank Dies Of Fractured Skull; Upole Held For Manslaughter

Gerald Eugene Gank, 43-year-old Crellin man, was killed last Thursday night, April 9, when his pick-up truck collided head-on with another truck on State Route 39, about three miles west of Oakland. The accident occurred during a heavy fog.

He was pronounced dead on arrival at the Garrett County Memorial hospital in Oakland. Death was the result of a fractured skull.

Albert Lee Upole, 31, of Oakland, identified as the driver of the second truck was placed in the county jail on a charge of manslaughter by automobile. He was placed under $1,000 bond on Saturday and released pending a hearing set before Trial Magistrate Boyd Sanders, Sr., on Monday April 20, at 10 o'clock a. m.

Cpl. Samuel Conrad of the Maryland State Police, investigated the collision which occurred about 7:35 p. m. He said Upole, who was treated for scalp cuts and shoulder bruises at the hospital, was traveling toward Crellin while Gank was headed east toward Oakland.

Upole told the officer he saw headlights of another vehicle coming toward him on his side of the highway and swerved to the left to avoid a collision.

Cpl. Conrad said Upole apparently swerved his truck directly into the path of Gank's pick-up. Both drivers apparently were driving alone. Corporal Conrad turned the case over to W. Dwight Stover, state's attorney, after placing the manslaughter charge against Upole.

The deceased, who would have been 44 years old last Friday, was a native of this county and a son of Mrs. Mary Etta Gank, Hutton, and the late George Gank.

Surviving besides his mother are four children, Mrs. Wayne Biser, Oakland; Mrs. Norma Wilson, Masontown, W. Va.; Mrs. Bobby Harsh, Hutton; and Gerald E. Gank, Oakland; six grandchildren; seven brothers, Earl and Glenn, Keyser; Ray, Lester, Ross and Gilbert, Hutton; Percy, Independence, W. Va.; four sisters, Mrs. Robert Lantz, Hutton; Mrs. Daniel Roy, Bergoo, W. Va.; Mrs. Joseph Johnson and Mrs. Clyde Sisler, Dearborn, Mich.

Mr. Gank was a coal miner and had worked for the Stanley Coal company in Crellin for 18 years.

Funeral services were conducted Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Oak Park Church of the Brethren. The Rev. Edward G. Wenger, pastor of the church, officiated, and burial was in the Oakland cemetery.

Red Cross Campaign In County Continues

Donations for the 1959 Red Cross drive are still being accepted according to James McHenry, county fund chairman. To date, $1,756 has been reported. He noted that additional money is needed to carry on the program. General Alfred M. Gruenther, National President of the Red Cross has officially announced an extension of the national campaign "in order to give every American an opportunity to contribute."

For those citizens of Garrett County who have not as yet contributed the Chapter would like to point to the Blood Program as an example activity. Each year some 365 pints or one pint of blood per day, is used. In other areas hospitals charge $25 to $75 per pint. In Garrett County this blood is free except the small transfusion charge. At the cost of $25 per pint dollar and cents wise, this means $9125.00 saving to county residents per year. This is only one program conducted by the Red Cross. Those in charge issued an appeal for every citizen to invest in the Red Cross Program.

The American Way

EDITOR'S NOTE: Alfred P. Haake, Ph. D., is a noted economist, public relations consultant, author and lecturer.)

From the crude beginnings of man's efforts in quest of security against the elements, wild beasts and other men, there developed the institution we call government. In exchange for protection of person and property against adverse elements and forces, man gave up a measure of control over himself to certain other men whom he recognized or accepted as "rulers" or government.

Down through the years government was carried on by men who had control over the well-being and destinies of other men. Some of these "rulers" were good, some bad, but always they were recognized as "sovereign" over the people they ruled. They constituted what we know as government by men." Even when bad governments were kicked out by death, insurrection or whatever means, their successors took over their powers and still constituted "government by men."

When Jesus was asked whether it was in accord with Jewish law to pay tribute to Caesar, he finally replied—"Render unto Caesar the things which are Caesar's; and unto God the things that are God's." It was an ingenious and wise reply, but it left unanswered a vital question: "What are the things which are Caesar's?"

Under government by men it is Caesar who determines which are the things due him. And as history progressed, men sought more and more freedom for themselves from the tyranny of "government by men." The culmination of this long struggle came with the birth of the little nation called "The United States of America," a federation of thirteen sovereign states, which recognized the ultimate sovereignty for government as residing in the individual citizens, and not in the men chosen to govern the rest. That was one of the greatest days in history, for it marked the establishment of a new and dynamic principle called "government by LAW."

Government by law still requires individual human beings to carry on the detailed acts and functions of government, for law and order, but those individuals are limited in what they can do, and are finally subject to the will of the people. If the men in government are found untrust-worthy they can be ejected. If their acts are contrary to the will of the people, they can be negated or corrected by the people.

The utterly vital requirement for such a principle of government is a standard or implemented expression of the will of the people as to the principles which shall guide and limit government. That document is our Constitution of the United States. So long as the Constitution lives we shall have government by law. But when the Constitution becomes only an empty phrase or is openly disgarded by government reaching for more and more power, with less and less regard for the limitations placed by the Constitution—we are moving back from government by LAW to the earlier and despotic government by MEN.

As Woodrow Wilson pointed out: "The history of liberty. . . is the history of the limitations of governmental power."

The United States prospered and grew strong under the magic incentives provided for and protected by the Constitution. But then there came a change in the people. Whereas our Founding Fathers were concerned with self-government and the ultimate effects of actions and policies, later generations were lured by politicians to see only the present advantages of proposals, with no regard for the collective wisdom and experience of the past, or the inevitable effect on the future.

As Montesquieu pointed out, "the deterioration of every government begins with the decay of the principles on which it is founded." Today, people in quest of security, thinking only of some immediate apparent advantage, are willing to sacrifice their freedom and reponsibility, bit by bit. For the bribe of what seem easy benefits from the federal government, they permit further encroachments on their own rights and responsibilities, with no thought of the ironic increase in cost of the bribe to themselves. Giving other men more power to govern them, they lose the capacity to govern themselves. Khrushchev does not need to go to war to establish communism. We are doing it ourselves.

Agriculture Census To Be Taken In Fall

Dean Gordon M. Cairns of the University of Maryland College of Agriculture today called the attention of all Maryland farmers to the Census of Agriculture which will be taken in the fall of 1959.

The fame census is taken every five years. The last such census was compiled in 1954. This year's census will start in late October, in areas where the annual harvest is completed early. It will start in early November in the remaining areas.

In this period of rapid technical changes in agriculture, the information secured through the 1959 census will be of great value to farmers in deciding on the management methods needed in the operation of their farms during the next five years. "It is important that farmers of our state maintain or keep an accurate set of records. Doing so, will aid each farmer in the Nation to have accurate and reliable information from the census as a guide to his management decisions."

The census questions will call for three kinds of information:—First, a count of farm resources, such as area of farms, acres of crop-land, acres used for pasture, numbers and kind of livestock and poultry on farms, number of persons working on farms, number and kinds of farm equipment, etc. —Record of farm products sold in 1959, such as how many acres of corn and bushels of corn were harvested, how many hogs were sold, how much milk was sold, etc. —Selected farming activities. How many days did the farmer work off his farm? How much fertilizer and lime was used this year? How much was spent for farm labor? for custom work? for gasoline and oil?

The Act of Congress providing for the census, prohibits the making of census information for an individual farmer, or farm, available to any tax or investigation agency. Census takers are required to take an oath to keep all census information confidential.

Children's BIBLE STORY

By S. A. KAPLAN
Assisted by Mrs. Kaplan

THE SMITTEN ROCK

(This story is based on Numbers 20, and James 3).

HELLO BOYS AND GIRLS!

Have you ever seen a lion tamer perform? We are told that, "Every kind of beasts, and of birds, and of serpents, and of things in the sea, is tamed, and hath been tamed of mankind," with but one exception. Can you guess what that one exception is? The tongue; The Bible tells us that, "the tongue can no man tame; it is an unruly evil, foll of deadly poison." Don't you wish at times that you had not spoken those hasty words? In today's story we will learn how a few hasty words spoken in anger by Moses kept him from entering the Promised Land.

When the forty years journey of the children of Israel in the wilderness was almost over, and they could see the Promised Land in the distance, their faith and confidence in God was tested. Their water supply was suddenly cut off. All through those long forty years their every need had been miraculously supplied by God, and never for one moment should they have permitted themselves to mistrust His loving care for them. Put instead, of remembering God's merciful dealings with them in the past, they looked at appearances, and began to mormur against Him. "Would God that we had died when our brethren died before the Lord!" they moaned. In other words, they wished that they had died with wicked Korah, and his companions, who so miserably perished in the earthquake! "Wherefore have ye made us to come op oot of Egypt," they complained to Moses and Aaron, "to bring us in onto this evil place?"

God in love overlooked their base ingratitude, and in answer to Moses' and Aaron's prayer, Moses was told to, "Take the rod, and gather the assembly together .... and SPEAK YE to the rock before their eyes; and it shall give forth his waters". But instead of just SPEAKING to the rock, Moses in a fit of anger said to the people: "Hear now ;e rebels; must WE fetch yoo water out of this rock?" and then he SMOTE the rock TWICE. The water goshed out all right, but by his angry words Moses set a wrong example before the people, and God coold not let it pass by onnoticed. Besides, by his rash act, Moses took away the important lesson that God had designed to teach us. The smitten rock, you see, represented Jesus, Who was only smitten once for our sins. All we now have to do in order to receive help, is to SPEAK to Him.

"Because ye believed Me not," said the Lord to Moses and Aaron," therefore ye shall not bring this congregation into the land which I have given them;" and Joshua was chosen in their stead. What a keen and bitter disappointment that most have been to Moses and Aaron, after they had waited so long for this great experience of leading Israel into the Promised Land; and no amount of pleading on their part availed them.

Yes, boys and girls, when we lose our tempers, and permit ourselves to speak angry words, we can never know what great blessings we lose. Let os rather ask the Lord to help us to he more like Him--Who was patient and kind, even when He was severely provoked, and we shall not ask in vain.

Letter to the Editor

The Republican,
Oakland, Md.
To the Editor:

As Galileo said: " . . . if it be a question of words and names—I will be no judge of such matters." The dictionary clearly defines the words holy, symbolical, sarcasm, and celebrate. Easter is mentioned in Acts 12:4, and several times in older Bibles. Christmas and Sunday are described, rather than named.

Symbols precede events. God speaks to us with symbols, the universal language. "Day unto day uttereth speech, and night unto night sheweth knowledge."

"But unto you that fear my name shall the Sun of righteousness (Christ) arise with healing in his wings." Malachi 4:2. And in verse 5: "I will send you Elijah —" (John the Baptist) of which Jesus said: "This is that Elias which was for to come."

"Behold, I Paul say unto you that if ye be circumcised, Christ shall profit you nothing." Gal. 5:2 Is that vague? Fairly clear, is it not?

Peter speaking of Paul's writings said: " . . . in which are some things hard to be understood, which they that are unlearned and unstable wrest, as they do also the other scriptures, unto their own destruction." II Peter 3:16.

In New York a Jewish family urged me to come and eat with them contrary to Jewish law, for God had graciously healed their son. Love is greater than law, and stronger than death. In Catholic homes also, this same spirit was prevalent.

All that we dedicate to God is holy, for holy means dedicated, whether it be days, people, places, or things. (See Webster).

As to sarcasm, I am in good company, for Job, Solomon, and Jesus used it liberally. And now with the words of Zophar, I will answer my critics: "Vain man would be wise, though man be born like a wild ass's colt." Job 11:12.

Yours truly,
ERNEST G. GNEGY

Listen Americans!

BY GEORGE S. BENSON
President of Harding College

Recently in Boston's big Symphony Hall, not far from the scene of many heroic events in American history, a group of farm leaders erected another monument worthy of the attention of citizens throughout the nation. The delegates attending constituted the leadership of Farm Bureau organizations in 19 states and Hawaii. Without a dissenting vote, they adopted a declaration of American citizenship for the nearly 8 million citizens now counted within the nationwide Farm Bureau family. It is a challenge to 170 million Americans! It declares:

"Nations may live or die, but nations which live by the great principles of Christianity can be expected to endure. The true measure of a nation is found not in its census, the size of its cities, the yield of its crops, nor the strength of its armies, but in the kind of people it has as citizens.

"Ours is the privilege of citizenship in the United States of America. It is a symbol of hope in the eyes of millions of people throughout the world who cannot claim it as their own. Yet we — in the relative ease, luxury, and abundance which is America — tend to take for granted that this privilege is ours forevermore.

"While many citizens are apathetic and unconcerned, there are those throughout our country and the world who are diligently striving to deprive us of this most prized possession or to render it worthless. We need to appreciate more fully our heritage of freedom, count our blessings, and rededicate ourselves to active participation in preserving the principles upon which our republic was founded.

"The time is upon us when we must assume the responsibilities of citizens and earn anew the right to our heritage. We urge every citizen to pursue with vigor the basic responsibilities of citizenship — active participation in the party of his choice with emphasis on work within his precinct; continuous study of the issues, and voting in every election whether local, county, state, or national. Citizens should concern themselves with the selection of candidates and in evaluting them with special reference to their philosophy, competence, and character.

"We recommend the continuation of active citizenship programs for all — including programs of American civic education and the accurate teaching of history, market economies, and true citizenship in our schools, institutions, and local organizations, to the end that generations to follow may enjoy the priceless freedoms and opportunties of the American system.

"Young people have a special stake in the outcome of the current attempt by some people to change our economic system and our form of self-government. They need to learn the great truths underlying our American system and participate actively in programs designed to strengthen it. It is, therefore, important that teachers, clergymen, and all who help shape the character of young people be adequately and properly trained. Farm Bureau has a special opportunity to join with others who hold beliefs similar to ours in formulating and carrying out programs designed to achieve these goals. Farm Bureau should assume leadership in obtaining this helpful cooperation."

Farm Bureau people generally believe that government paternalism for any group hinders genuine progress for all and endangers everybody's freedom. Our whole population needs a good strong dose of this philosophy.

Senate Cloakroom

By J. GLENN BEALL
United States Senator from Maryland

Johns Hopkins Professor, "Spaceman"—The race into space would seem to be a game for the youth, but those selected by the Space agency as possibilities for its man-carrying Project Mercury capsule are over 35. Now comes the newest spaceman, 54-year-old Dr. John Strong, physicist at Johns Hopkins University. Strong, at home these days in the skin-tight pressure suit and space helmet, is preparing to soar 15 miles high in the Navy's Stratolab gondola to hunt with a spectroscope for traces of water in the atmosphere of the planet Venus. As Venus seems the likeliest of the planets to be inhabited, because of its similarities to Earth—the next step is to find out if there is water there.

First Man On The Moon—Our scientists have unveiled a science-fiction petal-plucking robot which may be the first "man" on the moon. It rivals a human in what it can do. Its makers say that remote control over many thousands of miles—with the robot on the Moon and its human operator on Earth—is feasible. The mechanical man can hammer a nail into a board, unscrew a bolt, or twirl a hula hoop. Its touch is so deft it can pluck petals from a flower.

Eisenhower's Popularity—As we returned from the Easter recess to continue our work on legislation on the Senate Floor and in committee, one fact stood out: An impressive number of Senators, both Republicans and Democrats, reported that, back home, President Eisenhower's popularity is soaring. Various reasons are given. The two most often heard: 1) people like the President's handling of the Berlin crisis; 2) They like his fight for a balanced budget. It appears now that, although the President's budget requests will be exceeded, they will not be exceeded by as much as was previously expected.

Two Bills Introduced In Senate—This past week I introduced in the Senate a bill to permit the flying of Old Glory for twenty-four hours of each day on the estate in Carroll County, Maryland, which is the birthplace of Francis Scott Key, and at Key's grave in Mount Olivet Cemetery, Frederick.

I also introduced a bill to provide more liberal deductions on the income tax returns of the elderly D. C. residents. The laws of Maryland and Virginia give certain preferential exemptions for medical expenses for persons 65 years of age and over, while the law of the District of Columbia provides no such consideration. My bill would amend the D. C. Code to make it equitable in comparison with the more liberal provisions of those of the adjacent States.

Armed Services—(1) In this fast moving age, weapons are quickly outdated. The modern equipment of today is antiquated tomorrow. The Department of Defense wants to get rid of billions of dollars' worth of surplus defense equipment and supplies. Unwanted stock includes tanks, planes, ships, bulldozers, rifles. Before the house-cleaning can start, however, Congress must lift a restriction on the disposal of surplus material. The Defense Department figures that the sale of the surplus items will bring in about 10 billion dollars.

(2) The Armed Services have personnel training problems which were undreamed of a decade ago. Missiles and other present day weapons are far more complicated than were World War II weapons. Instead of reducing the number of personnel needed, missiles have multiplied them in some instances. Both "limited warfare" and "massive retaliation" require trained personnel, and great numbers of them.

(3) Navy planners are studying huge caves in Alaska and around Bizerte, Tunisia, as possible shelters for ships and submarines against enemy H-bomb attacks. Most of the Navy officials still think, however, that fleet dispersal is the best protection.

(4) The Navy has plans for a radically new submarine-chaser for coastal and harbor defense. It's a 100-ton hydrofoil with a speed of 50 miles per hour—able to overtake the fastest atomic subs.

(5) Reassurance from our military men! U.S. military might is at its peak, according to expert testimony before Congressional committees. We are informed that, should the Russians attack now, there is nothing they could do to prevent our destroying them. And they know it! Hence, no war in the immediate future!

"Summit" Need Not Be Total Loss—The North Atlantic Treaty Organization (composed of free Western nations) met last week in Washington, spotlighting unity and firmness on basic general principles:

—No yielding on Western rights in Berlin.

—No sellout of West Berlin's 2,500,000 people.

—No agreements that are not self-implementing and enforceable.

The NATO nations did not agree, however, on tactics and policies. The proposals and suggestions now go to a "working group" which will blueprint something the foreign ministers can take to the May 11th Geneva meeting with the Soviets, the prelude to a Summit Conference of the heads of state.

It seems to me that we could snatch a propaganda victory from the Summit Conference by making a big issue of Freedom. The Russians are demanding a "free city" of West Berlin. What about "free countries" throughout Europe? If Russian Premier Khrushchev is willing, as he has stated, to agree to UN supervision of the "free city" then he should be equally willing for UN supervision to determine the extent of freedom permitted the people of East Germany, and Poland—and Czechoslovakia, and so on. Here is an opportunity for a diplomatic offensive. The summit Conference need not be a total loss to us.

Robert A. Taft Memorial—On Tuesday, April 14th, friends and admirers of the late Senator Robert A. Taft will join together at a ceremony to dedicate a memorial erected in his honor on the Capitol grounds. The monument is a 100-foot marble tower with a 27-bell carillon and a 10-foot bronze statue of the Senator. Bob Taft is the only Senator in history to be honored with a memorial built with private funds on the U.S. Capitol grounds.

Federal Activities In Maryland—Postmaster General Summerfield tells me that final approval has been given for the construction of a new Post Office at Leonardtown, Maryland.

The Federal government has purchased a 6-acre tract of land in the outskirts of Cumberland on which to establish a U.S. Army Reserve Center.

Commissioner of Education Derthick has informed me that financial assistance has been approved for schools of Frederick County, as a "Federally impacted" area. The amount of $130,773.23 in Federal funds has been allocated, of which $83,567.00 had been certified for immediate payment.

"Play Ball"—The voice of the umpire echoes across the land—from ball parks and sand lots, heralding the opening of the season for a great American sport, baseball. In addition to fun and recreation, baseball has provided opportunity for development of sportsmanship and competitive spirit among our youth.

Sermonette By Area Ministers

United Pentecost Church of Sang Run
PASTOR-REV. RALPH JACKS
"This Is The Stone"
Acts 4:11 & 12

This is the stone which was set at naught of you builders which is become the head of the corner. Neither is there salvation in any other for there is none other name under heaven among men whereby we must be saved.

There were the words spoken by the Apostle Peter when asked, "By what power or by what means this man had been made whole, who for forty long years had depended on the aid of others." Now through prayer and faith in Christ stood before them every bit whole. The question was being asked; by what means this came to pass. The Apostles could only point them to the one who a few days before had hung on Calvary in mockery and shame between two thieves, and tell them that through him whom they had set at nought was this man now free.

While the world is sitting in the center of crime, and the clouds of war hang low over our head and the grip of afflictions are shaking the world, there is a stone, a sure place of safety and a standing place, and that is Christ Jesus.

While many have placed their hope and security in the wavering things of this world, there is a shelter in the time of storm and a sure hiding place in the solid rock.

Romans 14:17

The Kingdom of God is not meat and drink, but righteousness and peace and joy in the Holy Ghost. Even today, the stone which the builders rejected the same is become the head of the corner. Though they were looking for the Messiah, and freedom from bondage and the cry was going out for new leadership they had set at nought, crucified and done away with the very source of help they needed. So while the world is bending under the weight of the day, the Bible points us to the stone which is Christ and states that he is the door and by him if any man enter he shall be saved and go in and out and find pasture. Luke states, Whosover shall fall upon that stone shall be broken but on whosoever it shall fall it will grind to powder.

Rules On Deductions Other Than Cash

Restaurant owners, hotel operators, hospitals, and others who pay their workers in a medium other then cash were advised to make Social Security tax deduction on the value of such payments, according to James A. Gwinn, manager of the local Social Security office.

The value of payments such as meals, room and board, or merchandise furnished an employee are to be added to his cash pay, and Social Security tax paid on the full amount when the employer's quarterly tax return is submitted.

If payments of this type are not reported, the worker's retirement benefit, or payments to his survivors, will be adversely affected, Gwinn explained, since all Old-Age & Survivors payments are based on the person's total earnings under Social Security.

Tragic Failure

Lesson for April 19, 1959

KING SAUL had the makings of a success, but he failed. We must not exaggerate his failure, for there were some who remembered him with pride, and even named sons after him. The great Christian apostle Paul had been named Saul by his family, for example. Nevertheless, as a [illegible] kings went, and especially when [illegible] compared with [illegible] Saul [illegible] [illegible] last week, he was [illegible] like a man who [illegible] a good man who [illegible] plays [illegible] and [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

Congressional Viewpoint

Sen. John Marshall Butler

The Sound and the Unsound

President Eisenhower's request for authority to spend $4 billion next year for economic and military aid to foreign countries will, in the county week receive a searching "going over" by the Congress. Few Americans find fault with the basic proposition that we must join with our friends in fortifying the battlements of freedom against the inroads of communism. But, they do strongly object to the manner in which their tax dollars have been cavalierly doled out. Our more wealthy economic organization of uncertain purpose with little hope that even a fraction of it be returned to the Federal Treasury.

Four billion dollars is an astronomical sum. The taxes paid in 1957 by 41 of the largest U.S. industrial corporations did not equal that amount. In fact, these corporations paid a total of $38 billion in Federal taxes, based on sales of $91 billion. Production of these goods required the utilization of assets valued at $73 billion. And, in the process, more than 4 million persons were employed. These taxes, then, would support only the foreign aid program leaving nothing for our own defense expenditures, interest on the public debt, veterans, agriculture, reclamation, education, slum clearance and housing plus a score of other public projects.

More perplexing are the suggestions of an articulate group of citizens that by spending a few additional billion dollars annually, to be supplied, of course, by the American taxpayers, through the United Nations the living standards of the massive population of Asia and Africa can be improved. This is a cruel hoax. For example, to equip Asia with basic industrial equipment would cost about 3 times the U. S. national income, or more than a trillion dollars; or to express the problem in another way, to give all Asians the same capital per worker as the Japanese were using prior to World War II would require 150 percent of our national income, or nearly $470 billion.

One foreign aid program or a U.N. program the latter based on grants and loans to the U. N. from our Government will never solve the needs of these people. Through private investment, American enterprise can greatly aid in the evolution of a strong and home-grown economy in these so-called underdeveloped countries, but such investment will not take place unless there is a favorable climate for economic, political and social stability. Higher living standards also depend on incentives for savings, hard work by the people effective use of materials and energy and increased productivity, not on "handouts." Backward nations cannot be catapulted into the 20th century by magic and financial mumbo jumbo. Hence, in our thinking we must make a distinction between sound military aid and unsound economic gratuities.

Allegany Road Crew Clears County Road

A boundary line that is being ignored was up for discussion in an article in the Cumberland Sunday Times of April 12.

This is a boundary line problem first settled in 1898 and since 1955 officially recognized by an act of the Maryland Legislature, but is ignored in one respect. One mile and 261 feet of what is known as the Scott road which runs from the Finzel road in the northest corner of this county is being cared for by road crews of Allegany county, to the extent of maintaining, repairing and keeping the road clear of snow.

According to the story the Allegany road crews have to travel from Frostburg up U.S. route 40 to the Finzel road intersection and then some miles further before they get to the slightly more than a mile section to be maintained.

There is no other route from Allegany county to the roadway. The area is mountainous and in winter the snowfall is usually heavy.

A background of the boundary line is given.

Back in the 1800's the line between the two counties was based on a survey made by a man named Chisholm. After some years it was discovered that Chisholm's line was made in the survey by use of the magnetic compass technique. This resulted in errors and it was decided to have a more exact line surveyed.

A man named Bauer, who was connected with the Topographical Division of the U. S. Geological Survey, was commissioned by the State of Maryland to resurvey the boundary and submit a report.

Due to the magnetic pole shifting from time to time the survey by Chisholm produced errors and Bauer made his survey by use of the magnetic declination method. Engineers at the local office of the U. S. Geological Survey advise that the magnetic declination procedure allows for the corrections of any errors resulting from the shifting of the magnetic pole.

Civil engineering methods have improved over the years and Bauer's survey was officially declared as the boundary line on November 9, 1898, by Governor Lloyd Lowndes, an Allegany countian, and the Bauer line was recorded in the land records of Garrett county.

It wasn't until the 1955 session of the Maryland Legislature that the Bauer Line was made a public local law of Allegany county. The law states that the boundary line between Garrett and Allegany county is declared to be the line as surveyed and described, together with the monuments set up in accord with the so-called Bauer Report submitted to Gov. Lowndes.

Further on in the law it is stated: "All officials of the State of Maryland and of any political subdivision thereof shall henceforth treat this boundary line as the proper and correct boundary line between Allegany and Garrett counties."

There may have been some doubt prior to the clarifying act of 1955, but since then there has been no question but that Allegany county has been maintaining a mile and 264 feet of the Scott Road which is entirely within Garrett county.

Schools Carry Out Recommendations of Fire Investigator

Hawkins said action also had been taken to flameproof all old stage curtains and that maintenance supervisor had been assigned responsibility of full compliance with all recommendations made for fire safety on or before opening of schools in September.

Approval of the establishment of a vocational auto mechanics course at Southern High school, beginning next September, was given. Robert Martin, instructor, is qualified for a vocational certificate in auto mechanics instruction, Mr. Hawkins said.

Daylight Time Approved

Official approval of daylight time for schools was given, beginning the last Sunday in April, and resuming standard time last Sunday in September.

The contract for the Loch Lynn school addition was officially awarded to Lawrence E. Hardesty, low bidder, for $41,808.09.

Work already has started there, and also at Yoder and Center street schools. Contract for landscaping at Dennett road school was awarded to Hillsview Floral company and one at route 40 school to Holly Gardens.

The needed building materials for summer maintenance work were ordered purchased.

Stephen R. Pagenhardt was named attorney to the board, succeeding Stuart F. Hamill, Jr., who became attorney to Board of County Commissioners.

Discuss Teacher Salaries

Representatives of the County Teachers' association headed by Charles Strauss, president, appeared before the board to discuss the possibility of improving the teacher pay scale. The legislature failed to provide an improved salary scale. Mr. Hawkins said the present county pay scale was gradually putting the school board out of the competitive market for qualified teachers and declared the situation this year worse than ever.

If no special session of the Legislature is called, Mr. Hawkins explained no worthwhile increase could be made without an increase in the county tax rate. A meeting with the County Commissioners was planned for May.

The board planned to meet with P.-T.A. presidents in May. The sale of a small bus owned by Melvin Fadeley to George Harvey, for the Mt. Zion section, was approved. Fadeley will get a larger bus, needed on his run to the route 40 school. The bus purchased by Mr. Harvey will replace the Board of Education bus driven by Osborne Tasker.

Hawkins reported several resignations, effective at the end of the present school year and that he was endeavoring to replace them with the best qualified candidates available.

Road Work Soon To Be Under Way

Over five and one-half million dollars in road construction soon will be under way in Garrett and Allegany counties and additional highway jobs are in prospect for the summer.

Projects in various stages of completion and one that has been awarded bring the total allocation in SRC money to $5,627,846. Most of the projects are in Allegany county.

The Garrett county projects: The Hazelwood firm will begin work about May 1 on the $1,237,510 contract on U.S. route 219, from Gortner to Oakland, and route 135, from Oakland to Mountain Lake Park. This covers 5.789 miles.

Burkholder and Burkholder, Winchester road builders, have 75 percent of the grading completed on route 135, on a 2.561-mile section on the top of Backbone mountain.

No work was done this past winter on the bridge carrying route 219 across the B. and O. railroad and the Little Youghiogheny river one mile south of Oakland.

This project is being handled by David Goldberg and Sons, Uniontown, at a cost of $157,310. It is about 30 percent complete.

CARD OF THANKS

We desire to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to all our friends and neighbors for their kindness and helpfulness during the illness and following the death of our mother, the late Mrs. Herman Stelding.

We also want to thank the members of the choir for their music, the Rev. Bryan Blair for his comforting words and all who gave flowers and contributed the use of their automobiles for the funeral service.

WILLARD AND CALLIS

When there's no place like home... reach for the phone!

Whatever your reason for wishing you were home, you can usually make the "trip" home in about 30 seconds by phone.

That's true whether you're working late . . . away on a trip . . . or just visiting a friend or neighbor.

The convenience of being able to call home is hard to measure in terms of nickels and dimes—but easy to understand in terms of peace of mind. One big reason why most people find a phone is worth so much more than it costs.

THE C & P TELEPHONE COMPANY OF MARYLAND

OTHERS TALK ECONOMY— PLYMOUTH DELIVERS IT!

Other cars have talked economy this year. But a Plymouth V-8 has just proved it can give better gas mileage than Ford or Chevrolet V-8s. Plymouth did it by winning its class for the 3rd straight year in America's recognized competitive test for economy. Plymouth's score: 21.15 miles per gallon.

HERE ARE MOBILGAS ECONOMY RUN FACTS:

- A Plymouth V-8 has just won its class in the Mobilgas Economy Run for the third year in a row. Ford and Chevrolet both finished behind Plymouth.
- Plymouth scored 21.15 miles per gallon.
- Winning Plymouth was a Belvedere 2-door hardtop, equipped with standard Fury V-800 engine and automatic transmission.
- Run was sanctioned by United States Auto Club.

HERE ARE WHAT THESE FACTS MEAN TO YOU:

- As a Plymouth owner, you can expect economical operation in everyday driving.
- As a Plymouth owner, you're driving the car that gave better gas mileage than Ford or Chevrolet in the 1959 Mobilgas Economy Run.
- As a Plymouth owner, you can also expect top performance (Plymouth's winning V-8 is the biggest standard engine in its class).

Plymouth's low prices, low upkeep, high resale value and proven gas economy make it the year's best economy buy in its class. And Plymouth delivers the Big Difference in style, ride, performance, features and comfort, too! A "Two-Mile Try-Out" will prove it, so take yours today!

Thomas H. Kingsley and Alice Huntington Kingsley, his Wife, Huntington Drive,
Bridgeville, Pennsylvania;
John C. Mahon and Betty Jane Mahon, his wife,
Law and Finance building, 4th Ave. Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.
RESPONDENTS

No. 4930 Equity in the Circuit Court for Garrett County, State of Maryland.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

The object of this suit is to procure a Decree to set aside, vacate and annul that certain Deed dated February 13, 1958, from Thomas H. Kingsley and Alice Huntington Kingsley, his wife, to John C. Mahon, which is recorded among the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland, in Liber No. 209, Folio 118, and to obtain a Court Order for said property described therein to be sold by a Trustee appointed by the Court to satisfy the claims of the Brookside Lumber and Supply Company, a Corporation, Complainant.

The Bill states that the Respondents, Thomas H. Kingsley and Alice Huntington Kingsley, his wife, were seized and possessed of certain lands in Garrett County, Maryland, conveyed unto them by a certain deed from Richard S. Browning et al., dated October 18, 1951, and duly recorded among the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland, in Liber No. 171, Folio 313 and that being so seized and possessed they by deed of February 13th, 1958, granted and conveyed the said lands to John C. Mahon, of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, which deed is recorded among the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland, in Liber No. 209, Folio 118, That while being so seized and possessed of the land so conveyed to them by the deed from Richard S. Browning et al., Thomas H. Kingsley and Alice Huntington Kingsley, his wife, became indebted unto the Plaintiff, The Brookside Lumber and Supply Company, for a large sum of money, evidenced by their promissory notes now past due and upon which notes Judgments for the amounts due thereon have been entered in the Court of Common Pleas of Allegheny County, State of Pennsylvania, in favor of the Complainant herein. That at the time of making and delivering the deed to John C. Mahon the said Thomas H. Kingsley and Alice Huntington Kingsley, his wife, were largely indebted to the Complainant and others and were insolvent and had not the means of paying their debts including the debt due the Complainant, apart from the property so conveyed by them to the said John C. Mahon, and that the said conveyance was fraudulently made and for a simulated and pretended consideration and was made to and for the purpose to hinder delay and defraud the Complainant and his other creditors of their just and lawful debts. That the said John C. Mahon, Respondent, is not a bona fide purchaser for value of the aforesaid property.

IT IS THEREUPON this 6th day of April, 1959, ORDERED by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland, in Equity, that the Complainants by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some Newspaper published in Garrett County, Maryland, once in each of four successive weeks before the 1st day of May, 1959, give notice to the above said absent Respondents of the object and substance of this Bill, warning them to appear in this Court in person or by Solicitor on or before the 16th day of May, next, 1959, to show cause, if any they have, why a Decree ought not to be passed as prayed.

Operation Snowball - - - -

Communism may seem far away at times but actually it is right on our doorstep. And now that the Iron Curtain is ringing down upon Iraq, the Red strangle hold tightening on Tibet, and the signs of a Communist coup in Cuba, we really have cause for worry.

Consider this. Only 110 years ago a seemingly impossible minority of two, Marx and Engels, started the Red snowball rolling. It took seventy years to reach a size sufficient to bowl over its first country, Russia.

The snowball was just beginning. In these last forty years its rampaging sweep has caught up a billion people, a third of the globe! In Iraq, Tibet and Cuba we see it still rolling—and rolling closer.

When we listen to men like J. Edgar Hoover, observe the pink tinge on too much of our own thinking and those of our fellow citizens, examine the many signs of softness in high places, political, economic, and ecclesiastical, we can almost feel the chill sweep of the Red roller on our own cheeks.

Communism, in one hundred years, has gained sway over more people than Christianity in twenty centuries! With socialism, its "younger brother in short pants," Communism is apparently mopping up the world!

Can we stop it? Nobody else seems to be able, and WE can only if we get our own snowball rolling.

Sometimes it takes a person coming in from the outside to point out what we must do. Dr. Rivera, of Friendsville, in speaking to the Loar Auxiliary the other evening, declared the thing that would stop Communism would be for all parents to teach their children about God and about Jesus Christ, and about Christianity. Dr. Rivera is a native of Puerto Rico, and is able to view things from an angle that a native American wouldn't think of.

We need to get our snowball rolling by dedicated people who believe in freedom, who have the integrity to stand up for it, the intelligence to recognize the enemy in its disguised forms, the moral faith by which alone Freedom can survive, and a deeply imbedded enthusiasm and passion for regilion.

Judy Buckel Is Named National Four-H Delegate

Miss Judy Buckel, of Bittinger, who has been active in Four-H club work for ten years, and who has won a number of county and state 4-H honors, was selected this week as one of four persons from Maryland to attend the National 4-H Conference in Washington, D. C., in June.

Two boys and two girls are selected for this honor from the entire state each year. Miss Buckel is the fifth one to be selected in this county since the 4-H program was inaugurated here a number of years ago.

Former winners have been Mrs. Mildred Stemple Altstetter, Mrs. Ella Fazzalari Smart, Mrs. Rita Bittle Sparks, and Mrs. Jessie Guard McCullough.

A daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Buckel, Judy has had an outstanding record in 4-H club work. She has won medals in dairy foods, home economics, food preparation, canning, clothing, girls' records, and Achievement, and was a delegate to the national 4-H club congress in Chicago in 1955 as State Achievement winner.

She participated in the county and state style review in 1952, 1955, 1956, 1957, and placed second in the state review in 1957. She attended 4-H club week at College Park for seven years, was county champion in dairy foods demonstration winner at the State Fair stration in 1956 and blue ribbon dairy foods demonstration winner at the State Fair in 1956. She was chairman of the County Style Review committee in 1957.

She served as club junior leader for three years, a local leader in 1957-58; club president in 1956 and 1957, and received a key club award in 1958, the first 4-H'er in the county to receive this award.

Outside of 4-H club work she was runner up in the county farm queen contest, was a speaker at a summer school class on clothing at West Virginia university in 1956, was a Luther League caravaner in 1957 and 1958, served as organist at Zion Lutheran church at Jennings and is a member of the choir at Emanuel Lutheran church, Bittinger.

Miss Buckel is now a freshman student at the University of Maryland.

Time Will Change On Sunday Morning

Oakland and most other Garrett county towns will follow most sections of Eastern United States on Sunday morning at 12:01 o'clock and turn up their clocks just one hour.

In other words, Oakland will go on daylight time for the summer months. Also preparing to observe daylight time are Accident, Friendsville, Mt. Lake Park, Crellin, Grantsville, and Bloomington. There may be others. The public schools also will operate on daylight time.

Official county business will be conducted on standard time and the railroad schedule will hold to standard time, but a summer schedule will go into effect.

A few changes are noted. Eastbound: train No. 4, now running at 6:45 a. m., will run at 7:15. Train No. 30, now running at 9:38 a. m., no change. Train No. 12, now running at 6:15 p. m., no change. Westbound: train No. 23, now running at 3:21 a. m., will run at 2:56 a. m. Train No. 11, now running at 1:10 p. m., will run at 1:03; National Limited, now running at 11 p. m., no change. Times listed are Eastern Standard Time, and will remain that way.

The County Commissioners decided to make no move about changing time so officially the county will remain on standard time. Court House business will be conducted officially on standard time. Beer taverns will be regulated by standard time in unincorporated areas.

Daylight time will end officially the last Sunday in September. In a number of Eastern cities the daylight time is extended until the last Sunday in October, but this is termed very inconvenient for schools.

Thieves Enter Stanley Supply Store At Crellin

Thieves entered the store of the Stanley Supply company sometime Saturday night or early Sunday morning, but their "take" was slim. They obtained some tax money and some scrip, which is exchangeable only in the company store in Crellin.

They gained entrance through a window in rear of the building.

Authorities are investigating.

Appeals Conviction On Two Other Motor Law Violations

Albert Lee Upole, 31, of Oakland, was freed of a charge of manslaughter by automobile at a hearing before Trial Magistrate Boyd Sanders, Sr., Monday morning.

The charge grew out of a truck collision which took the life of Gerald Eugene Gank, 43, of Crellin, one day last week.

Upole appealed convictions on two other motor vehicle charges arising from the fatal crash on April 9. Magistrate Sanders found him guilty on a charge of operating on a suspended license and of operating a motor vehicle to the left of the center of the highway. He was fined $100 and costs on the first charge and $50 and costs on the second.

Following his appeal on the charges, he was released under $500 bond, according to W. Dwight Stover, State's Attorney.

The fatal accident occurred early on the night of April 9 on state route 39, about three miles west of Oakland. Mr. Gank, who suffered a fractured skull, was declared dead on arrival at Garrett County Memorial hospital in Oakland.

Cpl. Samuel Conrad, who investigated, said Upole, driving west toward Crellin, told him he saw headlights of another vehicle coming toward him and swerved to the left to avoid a collision.

Cpl. Conrad said Upole apparently turned his truck directly into the path of the pick-up truck being driven toward Oakland by Mr. Gank.

Fire Destroys Two Homes Tuesday Eve

Two homes were destroyed by fire within a period of two hours on Tuesday evening. One of the homes was unoccupied.

The first call came about 7:15 o'clock when the home of Parley Savage, at the north edge of McHenry was discovered to be ablaze. Mr. and Mrs. Savage and daughter had left home only a short time before. The building was completely gutted and all of the contents destroyed.

The Oakland firemen also were called to a grass fire at the home of W. C. Sowers in Mt. Lake Park, just across from Hamilton Hall. The grass ignited from a burning trash pile. The fire was out upon arrival.

One more fire waas reported on April 13, at 8:15 p. m. It was a flue fire in the home of S. Savage, Center street. There was no damage.

Then about 9:15 p. m. fire was discovered at the property of the late Richard S. Browning, just south of the Glendale bridge, along Deep Creek Lake. This building burned to the ground and all its contents were a total loss. It was not occupied at the time. The house was thought to have contained a number of antiques and an old canoe that had been built by Meshach Browning, pioneer hunter and trapper of Garrett county.

The Oakland fire company was called for both fires. The second call came before they were able to completely refill the water reserve tank and replenish the gasoline.

The Accident fore company also responded to the blaze at McHenry.

Less Tetany Seen In Cattle This Year

Tetany studies are continuing in Garrett County, it was learned last week from the Live Stock Sanitary service.

Research was started in 1957 on the causes and prevention of winter tetany in cattle by a team from the University of Maryland. Dr. M. M. Mershon, representing the Live Stock Sanitary service from the University, spent last week in the county while checking results of feeding magnesium supplements for prevention of tetany. Mershon said he was pleased with the cooperation by herd owners.

He said tetany had been less common this year than in several past seasons.

At a meeting sponsored by the Garrett County Beef Producers association in January the University research team pointed out the protective value of good hay. It was pointed out that much good hay was made despite unfavorable weather last summer. It was shown that the few cows which got tetany this winter were usually being fed poor grade of hay and no grain.

It was stated that good management, increased use of hay driers and crimpers, and feeding of grain or magnesium supplement had helped to reduce tetany losses this year.

Group Meets Rep. Foley

Congressman John R. Foley met Saturday with a group from Garrett County in regard to the army engineers' plan for development of the North Branch of the Potomac River.

The delegation included members of the County Commissioners, Carl Schell, chairman; Flra Garletts and Fred B. Glotfelty, Mayor Earl S. Shank, of Kitzmiller; and Paul DeWitt; assistant county roads supervisor.

Nikita S. Khrushchev observed his sixty-fifth birthday on April 17.

Commissioners Hear Three-Fold Plan For Potomac River

A tentative three-way program to help develop parts of Maryland and West Virginia along the North branch of the Potomac river was outlined to Maryland officials Monday in Washington.

County Commissioners from Garrett, Allegany, Frederick and Washington counties were told of water supply, flood control and other benefits which would be provided by the proposed dams.

The dams, still in an initial study stage, would be on the north branch about two miles above the junction of Savage river; on Stony river near Mt. Storm, W. Va.; and on Savage river about three miles above the present Savage River dam.

Assistant Chief D.V.C. Birrell for civil works, Washington district of the Army Engineers, emphasized that local participation in the projects must be assured before any plans can be submitted to Congress.

The projects, if finally approved by Congress, would take 6 to 8 years to complete and would provide for about 1,000 jobs, Birrell said.

He listed these estimated benefits:

Flood control, $254,000 a year; additional water supply, $978,000; pollution abatement, $434,000; power, $791,009; recreation, $303,000; improved use of land free of flooding, $28,000; and fish and wildlife, $26,000.

Birrell said the North Branch valley has, until recently, experienced a level of business activity below the national level. Conservation of water resources will help raise the level, he said.

The proposed North Branch dam would be 283 feet high, provide 137,500 acre feet storage, and provide flood control, industrial water supply and pollution abatement.

The Stony River dam would provide power and recreation in addition to flood control, industrial water, and pollution abatement. It would be 157 feet high and have 43,500 acre feet of storage.

The proposed Savage River dam would be 173 feet high, have 26,250 acre feet storage, and provide for domestic water supply and pollation abatement.

Transfer Damage Suit to Allegany

A $25,000 damage suit has been removed from this county and filed in the Allegany County Circuit court.

The suit, instituted by Mary Ann Callis, 20, of Washington, D. C. by her mother and next friend, Ireta Callis, was brought against Richard Earl Bittinger, Bloomington, last July in this county.

The suit charges the plaintiff was riding as a passenger in an automobile operated by James Mosser, 22, of Oakland, and traveling west on state route 135 two miles east of Deer Park.

The Mosser car was struck by a vehicle driven by the defendant at an excessive rate of speed on the wrong side of the highway, the suit charges. It further states that the plaintiff received severe neck injuries which partially handicapped one arm and hand and that she lost considerable time from her work as a government employe in Washington. She also was forced to spend considerable money for doctors and treatment, the suit contends, in asking for $25,000 damages from Bittinger.

The suit was filed in July, 1958, by S. R. Pagenhardt, attorney, and was moved to Allegany county when the defendant petitioned for a change of venue. Depositions of testimony from witnesses in the case also were filed with the suit. W. Earle Cobey, Cumberland, is attorney for the defendant.

Last of Series of Tractor Workshops Completed April 17

"Trouble Shooting" and Safety were the topics of the 4-H Tractor Workshop No. 4 held April 17 at Shaffer's Feed Sales Shop in Oakland. This was the last in a series of tractor maintenance meetings held during the past two months to give 4-Hers in the county an opportunity to "learn by doing."

4-Hers, through this program, learned how to do small but important tractor maintenance jobs to get greater production from farm power units and cut down on costly breakdowns.

E. Rankin Lusby, assistant county agent, declared an alert tractor driver can tell by the sound of an engine when something is wrong. He added that "as soon as he notices it, he should stop and try to find the trouble." This is termed "trouble shooting"—using your head and experience to determine what is wrong, the cause of it, and if you, the operator, can fix it. A good operator knows whether the job needs a serviceman with special tools just as a person would decide whether or not he needed a doctor if he was sick, according to Paul Stull, tractor leader.

"Always stop the tractor to shift gears" is one point brought out in the safety program. Importance of power-takeoff shields was demonstrated by Roger Beitzel. Using an electric drill, he placed a piece of cloth against the running bit to show how easy it is to get clothing tangled with moving parts of machinery when one is careless and proper shields not in place.

Attending this workshop were Robert and Simon Opel, Norman Rosh, Roger and Bobby Beitzel of Bittinger; David Custer, Green Mountain Club; Arthur Ford, Donald Bittinger, Sunnyside; Dale Barn, 17, (parent's consent) Arthurdale, W. Va.

Seed Treatment Protects Seed From Infections

One of the main advantages of seed treatment is to protect the seed and seedling in the soil from infection by fungi and bacteria. Growers have had the experience of planting vegetable seeds early in the spring only to find later that the seeds rotted, resulting in a poor stand, says plant pathologists of the University of Maryland College of Agriculture Botany Department. Organisms in the soil attack the seeds as they lie in the ground or as they begin to germinate. Better germination and stand result from seed treatment, especially when soils become wet and cold. Heavy rains may pack the soil causing slow germination. Chemicals or seed protectants offer considerable protection when dusted on the seeds before planting.

Arasan, Semesan and captan are examples of seed protectants that may be purchased with the seeds from seed houses or from local farm supply stores. Instructions and amounts to use for each vegetable crop may be found on the label, the specialists point out.

Combination Fungicide—Insecticide Seed Treatment

Another factor in seed decay and poor germination is injury from insects in the soil. Seed corn maggots and wire worms may cause loss of seed and delay in getting a crop established.

Commercial plantings of sweet corn, snap beans, peas, lima beans, soy beans and cucurbit crops should be treated with a seed protectant before planting. Plant pathologists and entomologists have shown in field trials the beneficial nature of combination seed protectants.

Delsan A-D—a combination of thiram (arasan) and dieldrin.

Ortho Seed Guard—combination of captan and lindane.

Stauffer Captan—Dieldrin 60-15. Many seedmen treat seed to satisfy their customers because treated seed will generally assure a better crop. Treated seed is easier to sell because farmers want treating service. However, seed treating may be done on the farm. Seed protectants may be applied dry or as slurries, the plant pathologists said.

Thirty-two persons were apprehended during the past week or ten days for infractions of the Motor Vehicle regulations. Jail sentences were meted out in several cases in default of payment of fines.

Clarence Willard Stemple and Henry Oliver Thomas, both of Oakland were among these violators.

Stemple was arrested for operating without a license, displaying plates issued to another vehicle and for wilfully failing to obey a written promise to appear before the magistrate. He was fined $15 on the first offense, $15 on the second and $30 on the third. He received 15 days in jail for each of the first two offenses and 25 days on the latter, all in default of payment.

Thomas was fined $10 for permitting plates to be used unlawfully and $25 for wilfully failing to obey a written promise to appear. In default of payment of fines he was given forty days in jail.

Who's Who At Northern High

By Ruth Westerfield

KAROL DOUGLAS RILEY

Among the newly organized clubs at Northern this year, I found another Academic senior boy. This senior is Karol Douglas Riley, president of the Taxidermy Club.

The tall, blue-eyed, 17 year old young son of Mr. and Mrs. Norris Riley of Friendsville, has been a member of the Astronomy, Future Teachers of America, and held the position as Secretary in the Senior Science Club last year.

Maybe someday you will notice a sign in some city, Karol Douglas Riley, M. D., because Karol would like to become a doctor. I quote Karol, "Here's hoping that my patients don't wind up like some things in taxidermy do."

"Doug," a nickname, won a poster contest when he was in the ninth grade and belongs to the Asher Glade 4-H Club.

Karol belongs to the Church of God at Sand Spring and is President of the Younk People's Christian Endeavor.

"Doug," attended Friendsville, Maryland, and Elkins, West Virginia, elementary schools.

Senate Cloakroom

By J. GLENN BEALL
United States Senator from Maryland

An Afternoon Abroad—The Embassy Tour will be next Saturday afternoon, April 25th, and I hope that many of my friends in Maryland will take advantage of the unusual opportunity to visit Washington's "Embassy Row" and see embassies of countries all over the world. Tea will be served at two of them—the embassies of Turkey and the Union of South Africa. The tour has been arranged by Congressional and Cabinet wives as a benefit for the Goodwill Industries. The price is $4. For this sum, you can help in the good work of rehabilitating the physically handicapped and, at the same time, have a most enjoyable afternoon. Tickets are being handled by Mrs. John G. Ladd, 2819 45th Street, N. W., Washington, telephone EMerson 3-3746.

Cars And Trains That Fly!—Defense Department researchers reported to Congress that our troops may move into battle some day on machines that skim just above the ground on a cushion of air. The military are looking into the feasibility of jet powered machines that can use the ground-cushion principle. Trains, too, may operate on a similar principle, we are told. Present research programs indicate it may be possible to build trains capable of speeds up to 300 miles an hour while traveling a fraction of an inch above a single rail. Congressional committee members were given a demonstration of one such device called a "Levapad."

Committee Work Heavy—Our Senate Committee on Banking and Currency completed hearings last week on the bill to provide safeguards against bank mergers and consolidations which might lessen competition unduly or tend to create monopoly. We voted to report the bill. We also completed work on, and reported, a bill changing reserve requirements for member banks of the Federal Reserve System.

The District of Columbia Committee, of which I am the ranking minority member, held hearings on D. C. home-rule legislation, which I have co-sponsored.

The Subcommittee on Fiscal Affairs held hearings, presided over by me, on automobile liability and property-damage insurance for Washington residents.

Our Senate Committee on Armed Services considered and favorably reported a bill to authorize construction of modern naval vessels. We also examined and reported favorably the nominations of Philip B. Taylor to be an Assistant Secretary of the Air Force and Cecil P. Milne to be an Assistant Secretary of the Navy. Both nominations were subsequently confirmed by the Senate. We also passed on 1,987 nominations of officers in the Army, Navy, Marine Corps, and Air Force.

New Defense Weapon—America's newest atomic submarine, the Skipjack, has returned from a trial run with a new record—and some mightily impressed Senators. Demonstrating on an overnight trip for the Joint Committee on Atomic Energy, the whale-shaped Skipjack went faster and deeper than any known submarine in history. Specific details are withheld.

D. C. Legislation On Senate Floor—Last week I introduced in the Senate a bill to extend by two years the time during which appropriations may be made for the District of Columbia Hospital Center.

I also took the Senate Floor in support of the bill providing for the appointment of two juvenile court judges. The bill subsequently passed the Senate.

Unemployment Commission Established—The Senate last week passed the bill which I co-sponsored for the establishment of a Commission on Unemployment Problems. The membership of the commission is to be eleven, three to be appointed by the Speaker of the House, three by the President pro Tempore of the Senate, and five by the President of the United States. The President's appointees are to be representatives of agriculture, labor, and industry.

Postoffices For Fallston And Baldwin—The Postmaster General informs me that his Department is now asking for bids to furnish and lease quarters for post offices at two Maryland locations, Fallston and Baldwin. The Department will enter into leases running for 10 years, with renewal options.

Baltimore Firm Gets Army Contract—The Department of the Army informs me that the Bendix Radio Division of Bendix Aviation Company, East Jappa Road Baltimore, has been awarded a $2,910,903 contract to build radio sets and modulators for the U. S. Army Signal Supply Agency.

Maryland's Place In Foreign Commerce—Governor Tawes of Maryland has asked me to serve on his special committee to further advance Maryland's interests in the field of foreign commerce—in connection with the observance of World Trade Week in September. I have been concerned about the Port of Baltimore, and have opposed anything which threatened to adversely affect it—and so I was pleased to accept the Governor's appointment. Ocean-borne commerce is important to our leading city and to our State, and I shall try to do my part in calling the world's attention to our excellent shipping and cargo-handling facilities.

Do We Want A 10-Cent Dollar?—A man who earned $5,099 in 1939 was just as well off as a person who now earns $12,113 a year, according to the National Industrial Conference Board. The figures take into account Social Security, Federal income taxes, and purchasing power lost to inflation.

What is inflation? The dollar you saved in 1939 is now worth only 48 cents, by 1939 standards. Inflation is caused by various factors, among them: increased wages, excessive Federal spending, failure to balance the Federal budget.

Should the same rate of inflation take place during the coming seven years as took place during seven years of the Truman Administration—

A pair of children's shoes which now cost $8.50 would cost $17.70.

A loaf of bread, now 25 cents, would cost 50 cents.

A man's suit, now $75, would cost $122.

A pair of men's shoes, now $16, would cost $30.88.

A pound of veal cutlets, now $1.55, would cost $4.50.

A ton of coal, now $30, would cost $50.

A mattress, now $50, would cost $85.

A haircut, now $1.50 would cost $2.45.

There is none so unfortunate and so adversely affected by inflation as those whose chief livelihood is dependent upon annuities and pensions. Their income is rigid, while rising prices of the commodities they need relentlessly chisel down the value of their dollar and their standard of living.

The Eisenhower Administration has fought to hold the line against inflation. The line is threatened by those who would upset the President's balanced budget.

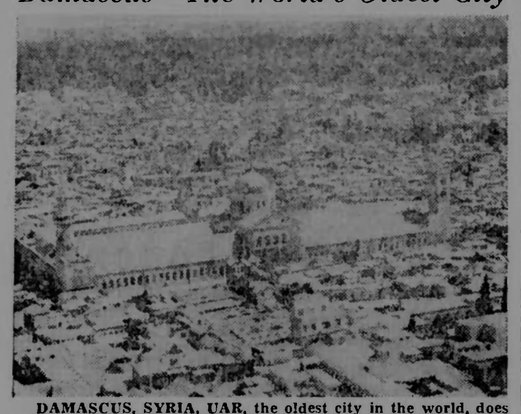
Damascus—The World's Oldest City



DAMASCUS, SYRIA, UAR, the oldest city in the world, does not look old, with modern hotels and apartment houses rising on every side. The Omayyad Mosque is seen in the foreground of this picture, and beyond toward the skyline the fruit groves for which Damascus has been famous for many centuries.

Milk Is Cheapest Source Of Protein

Don't skimp on milk in the family budget—milk is the most inexpensive source of protein you can get. According to Mrs. Judith Phell, University of Maryland nutrition specialist, one quart of milk will give you all the protein you need for one day.

Milk contains more of the different food elements essential to general health than any other single food.

At least six of the vitamins are contained in whole milk. These vitamins are needed for growth and to maintain health and vigor. Riboflavin or the B vitamin group that is found in whole milk is needed for appetite, a calm nervous system and a clear skin.

Milk is rich in calcium and phosphorus, the minerals you need to build and maintain strong teeth and bones. These minerals also regulate the heart beat and assist in clotting of blood. Most of your calcium must come from milk and milk products because no other food contains as much of it.

Another important vitamin in milk—vitamin A—keeps the eyes in good condition and builds resistance to infection.

If you're counting calories you can avoid the butter fat in whole milk by drinking skimmed milk. It contains all the food elements of whole milk except vitamin A, which is found in the butter fat.

One cup of skimmed milk has 85 calories while one cup of whole milk contains 165 calories, almost double the amount in skimmed milk. If you drink skimmed milk, Mrs. Phell advises that you eat plenty of green and yellow vegetables to insure that you get enough vitamin A.

Only two members of the original Eisenhower Cabinet remain in office. They are Ezra T. Benson, agriculture, and Arthur Summerfield, Postmaster General.

An armless mother in California was termed efficient, cooking, cleaning and sewing with her toes.

Members of the Junior Chorus of Southern High school will present a musical comedy in two acts "Paints and Patches," next Thursday evening, April 30, at 8 o'clock in the school gymnasium. Admission is 25 and 50 cents.

The disappearance of a valuable ring from China and some gold pieces proves to be a mystery to all. A Gypsy girl is accused of stealing them. The mystery is finally solved. The second act includes a masquerade party for the art professor.

Get Electric Equipment Ready During Spring

Spring Cleanup in April offers each person an opportunity to prepare for a safe, happy and profitable summer, says Al Krewatch, Extension Agricultural Engineer, University of Maryland, College of Agriculture. Especially should electric motors receive attention before hot weather sets in. All electric circuits should be checked for correct size and needed repairs.

Dust settles every minute of the day, and the dust that falls on electric motors will work its way into windings, confining heat until it may reach a dangerous temperature. A vacuum cleaner is a good tool to remove dust out of motors. Compressed air can also be used. The dust should be removed before it has had a chance to unite with oil or water to form a gummy mess.

Krewatch suggested to be sure and clean the coils of refrigerators, freezers and refrigeration equipment on bulk milk tanks, before summer.

Lightning rods are another item that should be checked. Make sure that all connections on the lightning rod system are tight and secure, and that connections at ground level are not corroded. Broken and hanging conducting cables leading to ground are worse than no lightning rods at all, he said.

Lightning arresters should be used where needed, he urged. Radio lead-in, the TV lead-in and the electric fencer are such examples.

During Spring Cleanup, don't forget the yard, he reminded. A clean and orderly yard is usually a safe yard, things kept in place step up efficiency and save time, he added.

The Race for Supremacy on the Seas

Like the fire or the surrounds all thinking every action of the free world communist conspiracy receives our daily focus. The breaking attempt thrown upon the indifference and apathy of peoples and upon the confusion and pusillanimity of governments. It strikes with no unyielding purpose at the moment of opportunity and would consume all that it engages. It can be deceived, still or move with strategic swiftness.

Until recently it had not been generally realized that the communist octopus among other things, is a marine creature of substantial proportions. In truth Soviet Russia's naval strength today is second only to that of the United States. Hanson W. Baldwin, the celebrated military and naval journalist, observes that "The United States has a tremendous numerical and qualitative naval superiority to the Soviet Union and far more global naval experience. But, Russia has outbuilt the United States in new submarine tonnage by 6 to 1, in destroyer tonnage by 9 to 1, and cruiser tonnage by 14 to 1 since the end of World War II." It is reliably estimated that 500 submarines, 30 cruisers, 150 destroyer and escort vessels, 500 light torpedo boats and mine layers, 1,000 mine sweepers and a naval air force of 4,000 planes—all modern and fast—comprise the backbone of the Red Navy.

This last month's judgment by a civilian navy team, that the U. S. naval fleet "is not in acceptable state of readiness," should be cause for alarm. The Chief of Naval Operations, when quoted on this point, implied that our fleet is not as good as it should be and went on to say "we'll do the best we can and that will be plenty good." This disturbing condition is attributed to "an ever-widening gap between the responsibilities assigned to the Navy and the financial resources allocated to it," and to the obsolescence and antiquity of about 80 percent of the fleet.

Here, then, is visible evidence of the "indifference and apathy of people" and the "confusion and pusillanimity of government" in an aspect vitally affecting our capability for national survival. All of this happens as the Red Navy, a tentacle of the communist octopus assumes a challenging position on the seas.

It is also ironic to discover that the Soviet merchant marine—another tentacle—is now the 5th ranking nation in terms of ocean going vessels. This fleet was built on the foundation of our lend-lease to Russia of some 500,000 tons of Liberty ships during World War II—ships, incidentally, which were never returned to us. Free people unfortunately are sometimes unwisely extravagant in thought and deed, and many times indifferent and apathetic to all that surrounds them.

WORLD'S FASTEST WASHER

Let us show You how the DEXTER QUICKTWIN can complete your whole WEEK'S wash in less than 60 MINUTES—

A big load completed every 4 minutes—all pre-soaked, twice-washed, and thoroughly rinsed—to give you the whitest whites you've ever had—without bleaches.

CHOOSE A QUICKTWIN OVER ANY AUTOMATIC

if you want white things whiter than any automatic can keep them without a pre-soak.

if you are the impatient type who prefers to get the whole week's wash done and off your mind in less than one hour.

if you wash in the basement and don't feel like running up and down stairs so often to reload an automatic.

if your home has a limited water supply, very hard water, very low water pressure, or a small capacity heater.

if you want to save ¾ of the cost of soap, water softener, electricity and hot water needed by any automatic.

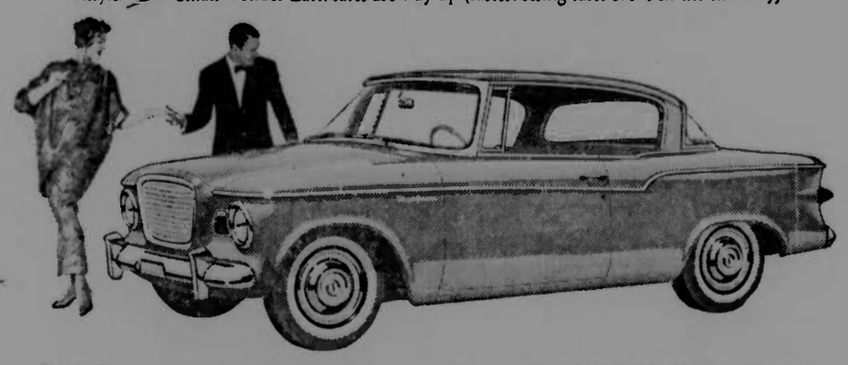
TEST AGAINST THE REST
SEE FOR YOURSELF WHICH VALUE'S BEST
THE LARK BY STUDEBAKER

Come in and drive The Lark—compare it with any other car for value. You'll find The Lark stands alone. SIZE—three feet shorter than conventional cars, yet room for six in spacious comfort. SAVINGS—The Lark costs less to buy, far less to operate—lowest of all insurance rates, far lower gas and maintenance bills. ENGINEERING—skilled Studebaker craftsmanship plus spirited "6" or super-powerful V-8 performance. STYLING—so fashion-right, it's approved by Harper's Bazaar. Wrap-around view of the road, Sapphire-Enamel finish that needs no waxing, handsome interiors in practical vinyls. Small wonder Lark sales are way up (fastest rising sales curve in the industry).



The LARK's amazing gas economy was recently proved in the Mobilgas Economy Run when The LARK V-8 equipped with automatic transmission outscored all other V-8's by delivering 22.28 miles per gallon. The LARK "six" turned in even better mileage. The LARK is available as a 2 and 4-door sedan, station wagon and hardtop. Overdrive also optional on all models.
